CASH BONUS BILL PASSAGE SEEN

Today

Across America.
The Soldiers' Money.
Imagination's Power.
Some Headlines.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE

DODGE CITY, Kan., Jan. 30. THROUGH CALIFORNIA Arizona, New Mexico, Southern Colorado, and now as far as Dodge City in Kansas, this fast Santa Fe train runs across the continent in a matter of fact way. For conductors and porters it is as much a matter of course as a New York trip from the Battery to Harlem for a subway guard.

IF YOU CAN afford it you should make this trip. If not, you should make it as it is made by the family waving six or eight arms from a small automobile on the highway beside the railroad track. The trip in that car with five passengers, plenty of luggage on both sides, and in the back, costs for gas and oil less than fifty dollars. No excuse for not seeing the whole of this country.

SECRETARY MELLON tells the soldiers that it would take three thousand, four hundred millions of dollars to pay their cash bonus and this would raise taxes in general and "upset the nation, retarding instead of helping prosperity."

SECRETARY MELLON is probably the country's greatest financial expert. What he says commands respect.

But soldiers who want their money in cash, that they may spend it as they choose, feel that if prosperity came when the nations poured out billions for airships that wouldn't fly, surface ships that never left the dock, prosperity also might be established on a small scale by soldiers spending their few billions.

TO CONTROL men, appeal to their imagination. Napoleon knew it. Dressed in magnificent robes of ermine and velvet, he took the imperial crown from the hands of the Pope and placed it on his own head at his coronation.

Mayor Thompson, of Chicago, knows it, as proved by his plans for the approaching campaign.

The Albuquerque Journal tells you that from Tucumcari, Arch Hurley has sent to Chicago's mayor two donkeys and a magnificent horse.

In his election parade, Mayor Thompson will ride the fine horse, dressed as a cowboy, big hat, high heels and all. The two donkeys will follow behind, carrying dummies representing Thompson's competitors in the campaign.

The dummies will have to think of something ingenious to offset that blow.

THESE ARE some of the headings on the front page of the Chicago Herald and Examiner, telling what goes on in our prohibition era that was to "end crime":

"$90,000 Faro Trap in Loop."
"Gang Tricks Rich Victim With Society Woman Lure."
"Florist Is Found Shot to Death in West Side Mystery."
"$300,000 Rum Seized."
"Reward Spurs Hunt for Store Killers."
"Rush Police Killer From Berwyn Jail as Mob Organizes."

FOR THE Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and other important newspapers, Calvin Coolidge has written his opinion that old age pensions are not advisable. Says he:

"What a self-respecting people really needs is not a system of old age pensions, but a population made sufficiently skilled by education and sufficiently self-controlled and well-disposed by the help of religion, so that old age pensions would be a superfluity. Unless real reform comes from within the problem will never be solved.

EDUCATION MAY some day provide for old age. Meanwhile, what "self-respecting old people" want is something to eat and a place to sleep outside of the poor house.

They have plenty of religion, but can't eat it, unfortunately.

AFTER YOU have taken all the work out of an old horse, you should either knock him on the head or feed him.

After it has taken all the work out of old men and women, their country can't knock them on the head, and therefore, having had their work, it ought to feed them.

GOOD NEWS for fruit and vegetable growers. Swift and Company, the great Chicago packers, will add to their activities the canning of vegetables and fruits, thus adding Swift and Company's wide distributing powers to the resources of the growers.

Production is solved, distribution is the problem. Government regulations preventing the packers from going into any kind of business, or engaging in any kind of distribution, are harmful.

The best possible way to help the farmer is to encourage distribution, which means greater consumption and greater prosperity.

COMPROMISE SOUGHT TO AVERT VETO

Leaders Concede Enactment Of Payment Plan, But Fear Hoover Opposition

By PIERCE MILLER
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Conceding enactment before March 4 of a bill converting the soldiers' bonus into cash, administration leaders today were seeking a compromise draft to overcome President Hoover's objections.

Talk of the President's spokesmen was that the bill would pass but would be vetoed if it came anywhere near "draining the treasury."

Senator Moses said:

"I think it will pass before March 4, but it certainly is running into a veto."

Leaders were known to be conferring with American Legion officials regarding a substitute scheme whereby the bonus could be paid without the necessity for a bond issue, to which the Treasury objects. Such a plan would increase the borrowing facilities for the veterans' certificates.

COMPROMISE EXPECTED

With further hearings by the Senate Finance Committee deferred, probably until next week, and House hearings on numerous bills about to begin, belief spread that a compromise might result from this or from the Garner bill in the House and one proposed

FLAMES TRAP 40 IN JAIL

ENID, Okla., Jan. 30.—(AP.)—About 40 prisoners, trapped by flames in the jail on the fourth floor of the county courthouse, were released and fled to safety before the building was destroyed by fire here last night.

Screams and shouts of the prisoners could be heard for blocks as the fire spread through the upper floors.

Joe Ingram, 18, a prisoner, snatched keys from the jailer and released those in one cell block, and later, with Howard Flukehart, Enid, went back to release others in another part of the jail.

Ingram was overcome by smoke on his second trip and had to be carried out.

Six other prisoners were helped out of the building when partly overcome. Three were slightly injured.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(INS.)—Richard Halliburton, author, was to sail today for England, where he will start his plane tour of the world. He expects to spend two years flying around the globe.

Royal Court Figure Dies in Poorhouse

LISBON, Portugal, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Adelaide Antas de Melo, widow of Gen. Augusto Melo, who was a distinguished figure at the royal court in her heyday, died today in the poorhouse at the age of 109.

'SALESMEN' ROB WOMAN IN HOME

Mrs. Beatrice Wagener, 17, in a futile attempt to escape two young hold-up men who invaded her home at 181 Forty-third street today, fell down a flight of stairs, then was forced to show them where she kept her jewelry, suffered only a bruise in the fall and shock.

The thieves took two diamond rings valued at $250, one a prized Christmas gift from her husband, Charles Wagener, owner of the Wagener Transfer and Storage Company.

The men had posed as radio salesmen to gain admission to the house, Mrs. Wagener said.

South Hills Burglar Given 15-50 Years

John Campbell, 21, who was released from the Moundsville (W. Va.) Penitentiary six weeks ago today pleaded guilty in Criminal Court to 10 charges of burglary of homes in Mt. Lebanon and Dormont. He was immediately sentenced to 15 to 50 years in Western Penitentiary.

Campbell was arrested January 15 while robbing the home of C. L. Carver, Mt. Lebanon.

Nothing Under $1,000 In Society Girl's Shop

Student Fired Over Rudy's Grapefruit Shower

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 30.—(INS.)—Dropped, temporarily, at least, from the rolls of Harvard University, according to reports today, for his alleged connection with a grapefruit throwing incident in a Boston theater last week, in which Rudy Vallee, stage and radio crooner and Yale graduate, was the prospective target, James S. Angier, son of Prof. Roswell Parker Angier, of Yale, was at his home in New Haven, Conn., today.

Adhering to custom, Harvard authorities refused officially to deny or confirm the report, but it was learned that the Harvard administrative authorities had taken action because of the fact that while young Angier may not have actually tossed the grapefruit he had allegedly said it was "a great idea."

Angier was reported to have admitted that he and other Harvard undergraduates resented Rudy's attempts to "popularize Harvard songs" in the same manner he did the University of Maine "Stein Song."

It was further reported at Harvard today that William P. Blanc, of New York, another undergraduate, had been placed on probation in connection with the grapefruit incident. Angier, Blanc and Joseph T. Johnson were the three Harvard students questioned by police in connection with the throwing of grapefruit while Rudy was crooning "Give Me Something to Remember You By."

A statement credited to young Angier when questioned here was:

"My father may have been dean of the Yale freshmen, but I am captain of my Crimson soul."

RAIL GROWTH TO SPEED INDUSTRY

J. F. Deasy Sees Pittsburgh District Profiting From Transportation Expansion

Manufacturers of railroad equipment in the Pittsburgh district will find a steadily increasing market in a period of new railroad growth based on many forms of transportation, according to John F. Deasy, recently appointed vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, speaking today at a luncheon in his honor in the Chamber of Commerce.

The railroads are in America to stay, he declared, pointing out that by the physical principles of their construction and operation they are best fitted to perform the bulk of the country's vital transportation.

He said:

"The positive recognition of this principle means a great deal toward the assurance of the future for the Pittsburgh district. Here are manufactured hundreds of millions of dollars of materials annually used by railroads. This market is not going to disappear."

OUTLOOK BRIGHT

There is no basis for gloom in regard to the future of American railroads, he said. New forms of transportation, he held, offer possibilities of co-ordination and a field of railroad expansion which should not only meet the needs of modern business but cut distribution costs.

Plans are being developed in combining rail and truck transportation. He gave as an illustration three ideas either contemplated or now in use by the Pennsylvania Railroad. The utilization of trucks instead of peddler trains, the operation of containers easily handled by trucks, and the use of a truck body on a railroad car, making quick transfer easy.

Similar principles of co-ordination are being applied to rail and

Alma Rubens' Own Story; Stormy Life Began in Gale

Winifred Black Declares Fate of Actress Should Stir U. S. to Action

By WINIFRED BLACK.

She's dead and in her grave—at last.

Dead and at rest in her low grave in the little country churchyard of the Pleasant Valley town where she was born—poor Alma Rubens.

How we used to look at her and admire her, and sometimes we even envied her, she was such a beauty and such a success with the crowds flocking to see her on the screen, and the fans sending her roses and orchids and violets and writing her letters and begging her for just the thrill of one special personal smile.

Could I but touch her lightest finger tips!—who was the poor fool who sang that to the beautiful actress and afterwards saw her in the charity ward of a public hospital, old and broken before her time.

Poor Alma Rubens—she would have been alive and happy and triumphant this very day if it hadn't been for "dope."

Oh don't smile and raise your eyebrows you're no better than she was when the doctor gave her that dope, after a terrible operation.

Prescribed Dope

Alma Rubens took the narcotic as any one of us would take it, if the doctor prescribed it—

It soothed the agony of her pain and carried her on soft fluttering wings out of the cruel misery of her days and the prolonged torture of the nights into a cool gray world, where there were no crude lights and no harsh sounds and no bitter struggles for self-control.

But when Alma Rubens began to get well she was a little frightened. She said to the doctor:

"I'm afraid of this stuff you are giving me. I think it is beginning to get me."

The doctor laughed:

"Now, now. I'm a physician—and I know. I'll stop the dope in plenty of time. Right now you need it to pull you through."

And poor Alma Rubens obeyed the doctor's orders and those orders put her in chains just as much as if she wore handcuffs and were a prisoner in the deepest, darkest dungeon in the most terrible prison in the world.

When she left the hospital she

RALPH H. SMITH GETS STATE JOB

HARRISBURG, Jan. 30.—Appointment of Ralph H. Smith, a Pittsburgh attorney, to be a deputy attorney general in the Department of Justice, was announced today by Attorney General William A. Schnader. He takes the place of Maj. Robert M. Ewing, also of Pittsburgh, who resigned. Smith will receive $5,000 a year.

Charles P. Adams, of Camp Hill, who has been a law clerk in the department for 40 years, has been made a special deputy attorney general.

Schnader announced the voluntary resignation of Deputy Roscoe R. Koch of Pottsville.

Retention of six deputies in the last administration also was announced by Mr. Schnader. They are: Philip S. Moyer, of Harrisburg; Miss S. M. R. O'Hara, Wilkes-Barre; A. Lee Edwards, Osceola Mills; Harold D. Saylor and Wilhelm F. Knauer, both of Philadelphia, and Penrose Hetzler, Port Royal.

Mr. Smith.

Attorney Smith, when notified today of the announcement of his appointment, stated he would be glad to accept it and appreciated the compliment. His only comment was:

"It looks like I am going back to work."

The duties of the position have been largely concerned with prohibition enforcement.

Lloyds' Baby Now 2 Pounds, 11 Ounces

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Harold Lloyd, jr., tiny son of the film comedian and Mrs. Mildred Davis Lloyd, weighed yesterday for the first time in his life, tipped the scale at 2 pounds 14 ounces.

Physicians said the infant, born prematurely six days ago, had lost a little weight since birth, but the loss was common among premature babies. They said it would be several days before the child was out of danger.

Lightning Periled Mother As Baby Doomed to Die Of Dope Was Born.

By ALMA RUBENS
Chapter 1.

One midnight just a few weeks after the turn of the century, "Old Doc" Washington Dodge, who survived the sinking of the Titantic, to die only a few years ago, was aroused from an armchair nap in the study of his home on McAllister street, San Francisco, by a frantic pounding on the door.

A terrific gale and electrical storm was sweeping in through the Golden Gate and the rain was falling in torrents. The old man, exhausted and worn from a long visit at the bedside of a dying patient, frowned with an air of exasperation. Then he drew his dressing robe more tightly around his portly form and shuffled to admit his nocturnal visitor.

Mrs. Reubens

The caller, a woman, wet bedraggled and out of breath, was a neighbor of Mrs. Theresa Hayes Reubens (the family name is spelled Reuben). Alma on the stage dropped the final "s" long a resident of the neighborhood at No. 13 Buchanan street.

"Hurry up, doctor," she cried hysterically. "Hurry up. Mrs. Reubens is going to have a baby."

"Tut, tut," the kindly old physician soothed her. "That's nothing to get excited about. Seems like all the women are doing that same thing these days," and, and he paused a moment while he peered gloomily at the belching heavens, "it seems like they always do it at midnight, too—just when a man ought to be getting some sleep."

Wearily he donned his great coat and galoshes and followed the woman into the storm.

A Prophecy

As they entered the portals of the Reubens home (a square-built, two-story frame structure of indescribable ugliness), there came a blinding flash and a terrific explosion, followed by a piercing scream from an upstairs room.

Almost stunned by the bolt the doctor and his escort leaped up the stairs to the bedside of a pretty young Irish woman who lay writhing in the agonies of childbirth.

The lightning had struck a tree just outside the open window of the drably furnished room and had split off a huge limb which had crashed through the opening and had fallen across the bed of the unhappy victim.

Quickly the doctor cast aside

British Air Ace Robbed in Detroit

DETROIT, Jan. 30.—(INS.)—Police today sought to recover $20,000 worth of medals and trophies stolen from Capt. Bert Hinkler, famous British airman, shortly after his arrival here from New York last night. The flier and his wife, traveling by automobile, had parked their car in downtown Detroit to inquire the way to the home of a friend when the robbery took place.

U. S. APOLOGY DENOUNCED BY HEFLIN

Alabaman Scores Mussolini; J. W. Davis Reported Head Of Defense for General

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Congress heard its first reverberations from the court martial ordered for Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler today while preparations for his prosecution and defense went ahead.

Premier Mussolini cabled the Italian ambassador here saying he considered the incident closed and had already forgotten.

The court martial was ordered because of derogatory remarks about the Italian leader repeated by Butler in a Philadelphia speech as having been told him by an unnamed friend. An apology to Mussolini was made and Il Duce said in his cablegram he had felt assured of such "just and prompt redress."

HEFLIN AROUSED

In the Senate, Heflin, of Alabama, said he was "getting tired of this kow-towing to the monarchs of the old world, asking:

"Why should an American general bow down and crawl in the dust to the most red-handed tyrant on earth—Mussolini—the monarch of the old world?"

He demanded that before Butler is disciplined an investigation should be made into the truth of the statement that Mussolini ran down a child and did not stop, adding:

"It would exactly like Mussolini."

Heflin said the reason the people in Italy have not risen against Mussolini is because they haven't any arms.

Friends of Butler, meanwhile, consulted over his defense. The expectation that his counsel would be headed by John W. Davis, former Democratic presidential nominee, was expressed by them later.

FRIEND PLANS DEFENSE

Arrangements for counsel were discussed this morning in the office of Maj. Henry Leonard, Marine Corps, retired, an old friend of Gen. Butler's during the Boxer rebellion, who once saved the gen-

During his 88 years "Bad John" is reputed to have killed at least 25 men.

King Prohibits Marriage Of Prince to Commoner

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 30.—(INS.)—Prince Lennart, Duke of Smaland, grandson of King Gustave of Sweden, will not marry Miss Karin Nesswandt, a commoner, it was learned today. Their engagement was reported a few days ago.

King Gustave has refused to sanction the marriage on the official ground that Prince Lennart is too young. He will be 22 years old on May 8.

Unofficially, however, it is reported that the king's real objection to the union is the fact that Miss Nesswandt's family caused the report of the engagement to be published before the royal assent had been received. They wished to present the king with a fait accompli, according to the reports, causing his majesty considerable annoyance.

Although Prince Lennart is far removed from the throne, being seventh in line of succession, his marriage to a commoner would necessitate his renunciation of his rights.

DEMOCRATS DECIDE ON FINISH FIGHT FOR RED CROSS FUND

PARTY HOLDS CAUCUS ON ISSUE

Senators Threaten to Force Extra Session; Will Battle 'Without Compromise'

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Senate Democrats, in party caucus, decided today to battle "without compromise," even to the extent of forcing an extra session, for the enactment of the $25,000,000 Red Cross food relief fund.

In addition, the Democrats voted unanimously to stand by the Capper plan for authorizing the Federal Farm Board to distribute 20,000,000 bushels of wheat in the drought areas, for the $2,500,000 appropriation for flood relief in southeastern states, the $3,000,000 appropriation for rural sanitation in drought states and the $5,000,000 appropriation to enable the secretary of agriculture to finance small local corporations.

UNITED ON DECISION

The Democrats were united in their decision to force action on the Red Cross and other relief funds. Several spokesmen, including Senator Robinson, floor leader, declared the relief of suffering was the major problem before Congress today, and that the Democrats should not abandon it under any circumstances. The caucus agreed.

Meanwhile, the battle of President Hoover's spokesmen in the House against the $25,000,000 food amendment opened today with Representative Cramton (Rep.) of Michigan calling for rejection of the proposal.

Two hours' debate was allotted before the House would come to grips on a roll call vote.

Pleading with the House to stand by President Hoover and the Red Cross, the Republican leaders asked that the Senate amendment be rejected and a conference asked with the Senate.

OPPOSE HOOVER

Hopeful the overwhelmingly Republican House would turn against Mr. Hoover in his fight against governmental appropriations for relief, Democratic leaders planned to counter with a motion to accept the Senate proposal.

Senator Robinson, who put the food amendment "rider" on the Interior bill, declared the House action today would not settle the question, unless the House accepts the Senate's position.

Undaunted by the refusal of Chairman John Barton Payne and the central committee of the Red Cross to accept the proffered gift, Robinson proposed some other agency be named to handle it.

OTHER RELIEF GROUPS

The Salvation Army, the American Legion, the Public Health Service or the Army could dispense the relief, not only to drought sufferers, but to needy in cities, he said.

Representative Byrns (Dem.) of Tennessee, planned to offer an amendment giving the fund to the Red Cross or any other agency it might designate.

Chairman Payne, of the Red Cross, was standing pat in his refusal, defending his attitude against Senate critics.

Administration leaders of the House appeared confident they could hold their lines against the food amendment.

If the measure is sent to conference, they argued, the way is open either for another test in the Senate or for a compromise.

CLARION POWER RULING BACKS KING CHARGE

Court's Decision Victory For Two Employes Ousted By Federal Commission

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The Federal Power Commission's authority to investigate accounts of power-site licensees and squeeze the water from their capital, was sweepingly upheld by the District Supreme Court here, in its first test case.

Justice Jesse C. Adkins denied the petition of the Clarion River Power Company for an injunction to restrain the commission from probing the company's alleged investment of $11,000,000 in the Piney project in Pennsylvania, upholding in every instance the jurisdiction of the Power Commission.

"NECKTIE BILL"

The commission claims the legitimate investment in the project was only $4,500,000. The alleged water includes the famous $144 "necktie item," which, listed as expenses, caused considerable stir in recent hearings.

The decision made yesterday was a smashing victory for William V. King and Charles A. Russell, Power Commission aides recently dismissed, who were largely responsible for the making of the case.

King directed the audit which resulted in the commission's decision to investigate the case. Russell was the attorney who argued the case for the Power Commission—and won it, as it developed today—before Justice Adkins, just prior to his dismissal, December 26.

$11,000,000 CLAIMED

The case had its inception when the Clarion River Power Company, with licenses from the federal and Pennsylvania state governments, erected a large power plant at a site on the Clarion River in Pennsylvania. When the project was completed the company claimed an investment of $11,000,000.

Russell, in arguing the case, pointed out that if the injunction were granted, the company could water its stock to any extent it might see fit, and to regulate its charges accordingly. Further, he set forth, if the federal government ever saw fit to exercise the recapture clause, it would have to pay for the property at the watered figure instead of the true value.

HEFLIN SCORES U. S. APOLOGY TO DUCE

eral from death during a campaign at Tientsien, his own arm being shattered during the rescue.

Meanwhile, Washington was wondering if Gen. Butler's spectacular and dramatic career in the Marine Corps had been ended by his resignation, rumors of which crept persistently into the Capital's discussion of the marine's present difficulties.

In Atlanta, S. Russell Bridges, Southern manager of Lyceum Bureau, insisted Butler had signed a lecture contract, effective February 1, and, preparatory to going on tour, had submitted his resignation.

Gen. Butler has done spectacular things. He likes to lead the cheers at a Marine football game, but he did not get two Congressional medals of honor for that. He likes a fast motor car, but skillful driving did not bring him an Army distinguished service medal, a Navy distinguished service medal and a brevet medal.

SAVES BRITISHER

As a young Marine officer he risked his life to rescue a wounded British soldier in China. He also dared death to go to Mexico City as a spy when the war with that country seemed certain during Wilson's administration. He charged a bandit fort in Haiti and he carried duckboards with the rank and file at Brest, France. He is known as a student of military strategy and a skillful handler of men.

On the other hand, it is no secret in the Marine Corps that Gen. Butler is not a popular figure, despite his brilliant service record. He has been embroiled in too many spectacular incidents to endear him to either the officers or the men of the corps.

There is a particular esprit de corps in the Marines, and Gen. Butler's taking a year's leave to "become a policeman" in Philadelphia in 1924, as it was generally described, was not a move to make him more popular. And when several years later he caused the arrest and trial of Col. Alexander Williams, his host, for serving cocktails at a dinner on the Marine Corps reservation at San Diego, his popularity decreased almost to the vanishing point.

It was said by Gen. Butler's friends that he would have retired several years ago but for his ambition to become the commandant of the corps, a position held by a long line of famous and distinguished marines. Butler's name was considered at the time of the death of Maj. Gen. Wendell C. Neville a short while ago, but in the end the plum went to Maj. Gen. Benjamin H. Fuller, the present commandant.

"JOCULAR" ADDRESS

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 30. (AP.)—"A very genial, kindly, friendly address, delivered in a jocular manner," is the way Gen. Smedley D. Butler's much-discussed speech before the Contemporary Club is described by the club's president, the Rev. Dr. Frederick R. Griffin.

Dr. Griffin presided at the meeting of the club in the Bellevue-Stratford on January 19, when Gen. Butler was one of three speakers discussing the prevention of war. He said:

"Gen. Butler spoke in a jocular manner and I think his whole address should be considered, rather than a fragment of it taken out of its context."

OIL EMBARGO FAVORED BY WILBUR

Interior Secretary Supports Restriction as Means of Aiding Independent Firms

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Secretary of the Interior Wilbur now favors an embargo on foreign oil as a means of relieving the plight of the thousands of independent oil producers in Oklahoma and Kansas who are struggling to find markets for their product.

He also indorsed bills introduced by Senators Shortridge and Capper, Republicans of California and Kansas, respectively, that would restrict production of oil in this country to 16,000,000 barrels annually.

Wilbur announced his new views in a letter to Senator Johnson (Rep.), of California, which was read to the Senate commerce committee today. The committee is considering the measures introduced to aid the oil industry from its present depression. Wilbur said:

"There is general agreement that the notable efforts of the oil producers of the United States and federal and state officials concerned to hold down output, have this past year prevented a disaster.

"By keeping the 1930 production fully 10 per cent below that of 1929, the oil industry attained more of a balance between the refineries demand for crude oil and the supply produced at the wells of the country. Indeed, for the first time since 1926, there was a net decrease in stocks of crude oil.

"It seems to me the evident need is proration of imports under the guidance of some fact finding body, such as the Federal Trade Commission."

SPIN OF WHEEL SETS 'NUMBER'

The Hill District "numbers" racketeers came to the fore again today as leaders of the lottery in Pittsburgh. They spun a wheel to find today's number and several of the city's largest books agreed to follow their lead by accepting their number as "official."

Spinning the wheel is only a makeshift they all admit. There is no thought of making it the permanent basis for the racket, which they still hope to preserve despite the successive blows administered by the New York Clearing House and Stock Exchange.

A canvass of leaders indicated that the temperature bulletin of the United States Weather Bureau was foremost in their minds as basis for their racket.

The plan for the temperature report would be to combine the 8 a. m. temperature and the 12-hour low (ending at 8 a. m.) temperatures of 51 representative cities, published daily, into one figure for each city, to take the total and use for their number the digits in the thousands, hundreds and tens columns.

Grandchildren Halt Old-Timer's Divorce

ROWNO, Poland, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Besieged by a family council, Srul Kaufman has decided not to get a divorce, but to let death do the parting from his wife. After 52 years of married life Srul convinced a judge he ought to have a decree. A time was fixed for granting it. Then Srul's 13 grandsons and 47 great-grandchildren surrounded the house and kept him from going to court—kept him inside, in fact, till he changed his mind.

Suit Fails to Halt 'Tol'able David'

Judge James H. Gray in Common Pleas Court today refused an injunction sought by E. H. Goldberg, proprietor of the Brushton Theater, to prevent showing of the picture, "Tol'able David," at the Belmar Theater, this afternoon. Goldberg testified his contract with Columbia gave him right to initial showing of films and that the picture was not listed at his theater until February 4 and 5.

Former Bank Teller Indicted in Fraud

Leo J. Smith, former paying teller of the First National Bank, Erie, Pa., was indicted on charges of embezzling $80,600 of the bank's funds and making false entries in the banks' books by the federal grand jury today. The alleged embezzlements took place between March 28, 1929, and December 21, 1930, according to the indictment.

British Paper Warns Of Russ Trade Peril

LONDON, Jan. 30.—(INS.)—The London Times today took cognizance of the possibility of the successful completion of Soviet Russia's five-year plan for the industrialization of that country. The Times warns that if the plan succeeds Russia will be able to flood the world with cheap goods.

4 EAGLE AERIES INDICTED

The federal grand jury today indicted four aeries of the Fraternal Order of Eagles on charges of sale and possession of liquor and maintaining common nuisances. The aeries are in Erie, California, Monessen and Johnstown.

In the California aerie Arthur Tentler was named a co-defendant; in the Erie aerie Edward Veit was indicted.

Yesterday the same jury indicted the Eagles aerie at Seventh and Market streets, McKeesport, and 40 individuals, all charged with violations of the liquor laws. William H. Woy was named a co-defendant with the aerie.

Walker Recovered, Expected at Desk

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(INS.)—Mayor Walker was expected back to his desk today. He has been ill with a threatened breakdown, aggravated by a sprained shoulder.

DO-X TAKES OFF TOMORROW

LISBON, Jan. 30.—(Universal.)—The Dornier DO-X, 12-motored German flying boat, today is ready to begin its winter crossing of the Atlantic from Lisbon to Brazil. It is scheduled to take off at 7:30 a. m. tomorrow.

The first stop will be made at Funchal, Madeira Islands, and the flying boat is scheduled to leave the same day for Las Palmas, Canary Islands.

After a stay of two days at Las Palmas, Capt. Friedrich Christiansen will take the DO-X next to Porto Praia, Cape Verde Islands, a hop of 870 miles. A two-day stay will allow overhauling before the giant ship takes the air for Fernando do Noronha, Penal Island, off the Brazilian coast, a flight of about 1,500 miles.

After reaching Fernando, the plan is to go to Natal, and remain there a week before putting off for Rio De Janeiro, 1,950 miles down the coast. After reaching Rio, the line will be retraced to Natal and then a start will be made for Havana, calling at all airports between Natal and Miami, Fla.

The DO-X will be flown northward then to New York.

Auto Death Jury Frees Pittsburgher

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 30.—C. L. Richey, of Pittsburgh, driver of an automobile which struck and fatally injured Miss Mary J. O'Brien, 80, of New Alexandria, January 23, has been exonerated of blame in the accident, following an inquest of the coroner here.

HEFLIN PLEA SPLITS SENATE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(INS.)—In a tangle of conflicting political aims, Republican and Democratic ranks of the Senate were rocked with dissension today over the apparently simple request of the turbulent Senator J. Thomas Heflin for an inquiry into his charge of fraud in the recent Alabama senatorial contest when he was defeated by John H. Bankhead.

The request approached a major political issue, as Republican and Democratic leaders looked upon it as furnishing dangerous fuel for the 1932 presidential election. It likewise involved personal angles, shattering party lines and arousing passion where cordiality usually prevails.

Administration leaders generally favored the inquiry, because its developments might split the Democratic party in the South again by reviving the antagonism to Alfred E. Smith. For this reason, those Democrats who were faithful in 1928, opposed it to a man.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 30. (AP.)—The Alabama Senate today adopted without a dissenting vote the House resolution "in condemnation of the very poor sportsmanship" of Senator J. Thomas Heflin in contesting the election of last November in which he was defeated.

Man Free After Quiz On Limerick Death

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Police released Fred Baumann, a government employe, after they were convinced he could throw no light upon the mysterious death of Beulah Limerick.

The 17-year-old girl was found dead December 31. It was thought she died from natural causes until an undertaker found a bullet wound in her head.

RAIL FUTURE HELD BRIGHT

bus lines, he said. The results he pointed out come in the form of replacing train service with buses where economically desirable, the speeding up of train movement, the establishment of bus feeder lines and providing such supplemental service as will meet the public's needs.

SPEED CONSOLIDATIONS

Plans for consolidation of railroads into more efficient systems are making headway, he declared. Reports from the Interstate Commerce Commission encourage the belief that railroad earnings will be strengthened and the basis for railroad credit broadened.

He said that railroads desire legislation granting authority to engage in coastwise and intercoastal shipping, and to operate boats on lakes and barges on improved rivers. He expressed the opinion that such action would be for the good of Pittsburgh's trade.

2 TAXI BANDITS GET LONG TERMS

Two Penn Township Negroes pleaded guilty to robbing taxicab drivers and were sentenced to long prison terms by Judge George V. Moore in Criminal Court today.

Judd Dudley, 20, who admitted seven holdups, was sentenced to serve from 15 to 50 years in Western Penitentiary. His pal, James Lewis, 21, confessed to two robberies and was sentenced to serve from 10 to 25 years.

They would hire cabs in East End and rob the drivers en route downtown, testimony disclosed. John P. Allerton, 34, of 121 East Montgomery avenue, felled and captured Dudley at Pennsylvania Station, after being robbed by him, January 20. Dudley implicated Lewis.

Citizens of Pittsburgh have given $157,734.90 to date in the Red Cross appeal for drouth relief funds. Pittsburgh's quota in the national appeal is $300,000. More than half a million dollars has been subscribed to the national relief fund in the past 24 hours. The total raised throughout the country to date is $3,874,996. In addition to this contribution of funds, 104 carloads of food supplies have been accepted by the Red Cross and shipped to stricken areas.

Reports received from Southeastern Missouri said that 7,500 persons there and in adjacent Ozark Mountain country are now dependent on the Red Cross for food. Nine counties are involved. In Texas 45,000 persons in Northern and Panhandle districts are receiving food. The total number of persons receiving aid from the Red Cross in the drouth areas is 659,277. Relief work is being carried on in 657 counties extending through 21 states.

De Priests Attend Hoover White House Reception

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Oscar De Priest, Negro representative from Illinois, and Mrs. De Priest, last night attended President Hoover's annual reception to members of the House.

They took a place about midway of the line waiting to receive Mr. and Mrs. Hoover's greetings, shook hands with the President and the first lady, and then repaired to the East Room.

There Speaker Longworth approached and shook hands with them. Mrs. Longworth, the former Alice Roosevelt, did not attend the reception.

The reception is one of the regular series given for government officials and diplomats.

Wide publicity was given shortly after Mr. Hoover entered the White House to Mrs. De Priest's attendance at a tea given by Mrs. Hoover.

At that time the White House said it was one of a number of such affairs to which all wives of members of Congress were invited, and that no distinctions would be made.

Capital Greets Canadian Premier Visiting Hoover

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—The welcome of America's highest officials was extended today to Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, of Canada—the first visit of a Canadian premier to Washington in nearly four years.

Highly informal in character, his brief visit was regarded by American officials as an opportunity for a full and frank discussion of Canadian-American problems.

Neither President Hoover nor Secretary Stimson, however, had prepared any preliminary data for their talks with Mr. Bennett.

All formality was omitted in the preparations for the reception of the premier at Union Station—even the 19-gun salute, to which he is entitled—at his own request.

On account of the brevity of his visit, his schedule was so arranged that he could conclude a conference with Secretary Stimson during the afternoon before receiving the formal welcome of President Hoover. The President will entertain the Premier at a dinner at the White House tonight.

It was generally assumed the proposed St. Lawrence waterway would come under discussion. The American government is waiting for Canada to reply to a query as to whether the Dominion was prepared to proceed and make the proposed seaway a reality.

Mayor Election Changes Suggested by Coolidge

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Jan. 30.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

We are very far from solving all our problems of government. We can feel fairly secure about our national government. Many unsound proposals will be made in it but they will not often prevail. Our state governments are generally satisfactory. Sometimes they are too radical but they are secure. In the towns, where office is close to the people, little trouble is anticipated.

Calvin Coolidge

When we turn to the cities the picture is not so encouraging. In both large and small urban communities, the government oftentimes comes so near breaking down that it has to be rescued by state legislation. The fundamental difficulty is almost always in finance or security; high taxes and extravagance bordering on corruption, and in failure of the police to furnish adequate protection against crime.

Most of the trouble could be eliminated by the right type of mayor. Popular election of the chief executive of cities is coming to be discredited in many places. The people at large want and would support good city government but under the present system they are unable to secure it. The remedy may be found in some indirect method of electing the mayor or closer state supervision of that office.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

EVELYN NESBIT SEEKS DIVORCE

CHICAGO, Jan. 30. — (INS.) — Evelyn Nesbit, professional dancer and divorced wife of Harry K. Thaw, today had on file in Superior Court a bill for divorce against her husband, Jack Clifford, the dancer.

She obtained a divorce from Thaw in 1913 and married Clifford, who was her first professional dancing partner, in 1916. The divorce bill states they separated 10 years ago. No alimony is asked.

3 KILLERS WAIT DEATH IN CHAIR

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Three young men who killed a gasoline station attendant in a frustrated robbery calmly waited for death in the electric chair in Ohio Penitentiary here tonight.

The condemned men, Earl Sites, 27; Fred Massa, 27, and Kenneth McCartney, 25, all of Mansfield, O., were convicted of the fatal shooting of Ralph Wilcox when he resisted their attempt to rob his filling station at Galion.

They were recognized and tried for murder while serving sentences for attacking a woman shortly after the killing.

Only once before in the state's history has a triple electrocution been held.

Three Slayers Go To Gallows Tonight

CANON CITY, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Three men convicted of slaying Coral A. Hickman, Eads, Col. deputy sheriff, in their flight last March, after robbing a Minter, Kan., bank of $4,000, were to be hanged here tonight.

The condemned robbers, John Walker, 45; Claude Ray, 24, and Andrew Halliday, 22, are to go to the gallows between 9 and 10 p. m.

Likeness of Penn Offered for Stamp

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 30. — (AP.)—Issuance of a two-cent postage stamp bearing a reproduction of the "only authentic likeness" of William Penn was suggested today to Postmaster General Walter F. Brown as a feature of the observance next year of the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of Penn's landing in America.

The suggestion was made by Albert Cook Meyers, Philadelphia historian and one of the leading authorities on William Penn.

Weather Conditions.

The disturbance that appeared in the Far Northwest yesterday morning is now centered over the Great Lakes moving rapidly eastward. It is producing cloudy weather over the northeastern states and only light snowfall along its path. Over the southern states and from Ohio westward the skies are clear. Temperatures are much above the seasonal normal over all the northern states except the North Atlantic Coast states. There will be no cold weather over this section for the next several days.

Wide-Open Gambling Permitted in Havana

HAVANA, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—In an overnight metamorphosis, Havana has become a wide-open city, where gambling of every sort is being permitted for the first time since President Machado came to power in 1925.

All restrictions against games of chance have been lifted temporarily and gambling layouts have been installed in virtually every public place in town. Faro, bolita, silo, lottery, baccarat, monte and roulette all are available.

RE-ENACT COAST GUARD KILLING

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(INS.)—Members of the Board of Inquiry into the coast guard firing on the Canadian schooner Josephine K., in which the craft's captain, William Cluett, was fatally injured, ended their investigation today. The board's findings were sent to the commander of the coast guard service in Weshington. A public report was expected to follow in a week or ten days.

Board members declined to comment on a re-enactment of the shooting off the coast here late yesterday, when the schooner with full speed ahead and the coast guard cutter, which fired on her with a one-pounder, in her wake, rushed out to sea.

The dramatic test race was made after Boatswain Carl Schmidt, commander of the American cutter, testified at the inquiry he fired on the schooner when he thought his boat was being outdistanced. His impression, however, that the Canadian boat was faster than the American, was not upheld by the test, as the coast guard craft outdistanced the Josephine K.

Thieves Get $25,000 Rosenwald Film

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—A six-reel film, made under the personal direction of Julius Rosenwald, its subject "Museums," was stolen by burglars who broke into a film laboratory.

Valued at $25,000, the picture was composed of scenes taken for the philanthropist on a recent European trip.

MINE VICTIMS' FAMILIES AIDED

LINTON, Ind., Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Temporary relief for dependents of the 29 miners who lost their lives in the explosion-torn Little Betty shaft mine near here Wednesday was supplied today, as plans went forward for permanent rehabilitation of the bereaved families.

Gov. Harry G. Leslie visited the scene of the disaster yesterday, organized a local relief committee and made available $1,000 from his emergency fund. The United Mine Workers of America forwarded a $2,000 check and a Linton coal company provided $500.

The local committee planned a meeting with Red Cross workers today to correlate activities. Dr. E. V. Bull, mayor of Linton, estimated $35,000 will be needed for care of the families of victims.

The explosion which swept the west entry of the mine, trapping 38 men underground, made 18 widows and 53 orphans. Nine miners survived the blast and were rescued, seven of them after more than 15 hours of waiting.

28 Die in Blast In Deep English Pit

WHITEHAVEN, Cumberland, England, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Twenty-eight coal miners are known to have been killed in an explosion which buried them in the deep Haig pit here yesterday.

Twenty-five miners were brought out alive. Twelve of them are in serious condition in a hospital.

'Gets Her Man' Twice With Same Auto

CHARLEROI, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—A most persistent woman was this motorist, John Morganik, 34, told police he was knocked down today by an automobile driven by a woman.

He wasn't hurt much, and got up and walked down the street.

At the next corner he was knocked down again by the same woman. A highway patrolman is looking for her.

AIMEE ESCAPES 'BARON' FUSS

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30.—(Universal.)—Reports today that Aimee Semple McPherson was on board a trans-Pacific liner in search of health and seclusion followed developments in her latest dilemma of ermine coats and Hungarian barons.

One report was that the noted evangelist and her daughter, Roberta Semple, were sailing toward the Orient in hopes that the long sea voyage would bring back Mrs. McPherson's old vigor and restore her shattered nerves.

Receipt of crank letters and demands for money, which her attorney, W. Joseph Ford, says have been coming in the last few months, is said to have hastened the departure of the evangelist.

No one connected with Angelus Temple was willing to make any definite statement last night on Mrs. McPherson's present whereabouts.

FLOOD 'HEIRESS' CLAIM UPSET

REDWOOD CITY, Cal., Jan. 30. —(AP.)—Previous depositions that Constance May Gavin, Los Angeles, was the daughter of the late James L. Flood, San Francisco multi-millionaire, have been recanted by the young woman's mother.

The retraction came yesterday during Mrs. Gavin's fight to obtain $4,000,000 of the Flood estate, which is valued at $18,000,000.

The spirit of a deceased Jesuit father who had counseled her after the birth of her daughter and christened the child was responsible for her sudden about face, Mrs. Eudora Willette, the mother, testified. She said Mrs. Gavin's father was James Cannon, property man in a San Francisco theater.

Man Who Inspired Lowell Poems Dies

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 30.—(AP.)—James P. Phelan, 76, whose early life furnished the themes for several of the poems of James Russell Lowell, died yesterday. His father was the Lowell coachman, and James was born at "Elmwood," the home of the famous poet.

Isaac E. Emerson Leaves $20,000,000

BALTIMORE, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—An estate valued at $20,000,000 was disposed of by the will, filed at Towson, of Capt. Isaac E. Emerson, drug manufacturer and yachtsman who died last week.

BROADWAY FIRE ROUTS 200

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Dancing flames leveled a six-story building on upper Broadway early today, driving more than 200 persons into the cold, injuring 17 others and throwing the Great White Way into a turmoil.

Of the injured, two firemen were burned seriously when the fourth floor collapsed, catapulting an entire hook and ladder company to the floor below. Two newspaper photographers were hurt, a block from the fire, when flashlight powder exploded prematurely, mangling the left hand of one and possibly blinding the other.

The majority of fleeing tenants were artists and theatrical folk, and many were elderly.

The scene was the Lincoln Square Building, known also as the Miller Building, at the corner of Sixty-sixth street and Broadway. It houses an arcade leading to Loew's Lincoln Square Theater, in a separate structure, and shops on the ground floor.

Loss in the fire, one of the worst in New York in 30 years, was estimated at $1,000,000.

TWO HURT IN OIL PLANT FIRE

Two men were burned, one seriously, fighting a fire in cross stills in the plant of the Atlantic Refining Company, Fifty-seventh and Butler streets, this morning. Company employes and city firemen extinguished the flames at a loss of $500.

The injured are Albert Bradley, 38, of 5322 Wycliffe street, and George Smak, 32, of 210 Main street, refining company employes. They were taken to St. Francis Hospital, where it was reported Bradley was in a serious condition.

Fire, believed due to an overheated coal stove, early today destroyed the home and all household furnishings of Joseph Garbagh, of the Upper Monroeville road, near the Bellwood plan, Patton Township.

A vacant two-story storeroom and dwelling at 5506 Second avenue was wrecked, police reported, by a gas explosion early today.

Chamberlin Enters Plane Manufacturing

PATERSON, N. J., Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Clarence D. Chamberlin will head the Crescent Aircraft Corporation of Jersey City. The trans-Atlantic flier bought the company yesterday from its receiver for $7,500.

NEW FACTION SEEN IN MAKING

Picturesque Britisher, in Letters, Reveals Split Over Policies; Part Over India

LONDON, Jan. 30—(AP.)—Winston Churchill, after years of dissension, has at last broken with his party leader, Stanley Baldwin.

Birth of a new faction within the ranks of the Conservative party was seen today as the probable denouement of a disagreement on Indian policy between Baldwin and the outspoken Churchill.

From correspondence between the two Conservative leaders just published it appears that Churchill, while his "warm, personal friendship" for Baldwin is undiminished, thinks it best that he abstain from meetings of the party's business committee—or war council—which is composed of the inner few and includes chiefly former cabinet ministers.

Baldwin, while equally warm in his personal remarks, accepts Churchill's view that he should cease attending the committee meetings.

MOTHER AMERICAN

Son of the statesman, Lord Randolph Churchill, and an American mother, Jennie Jerome, of New York, Mr. Churchill has done more things and lived more fully than any score of average men.

All of his actions have been carried out with a swiftness and unexpectedness that makes those who believe in reincarnation see in him a new edition of his great ancestor, the Duke of Marlborough. His chief fault, his friends say, is that he has been too clever.

His gift of oratory alone makes him an outstanding figure in the political world. As he rises in the Commons with his hands clutching the lapels of his jacket and his receptively chubby, babylike face thrust forward, the word spreads through the lobbies and smoking rooms that "Winston is up."

The members troop in to hear his speech. Most of them disagree with most of his arguments, but all enjoy the biting sarcasms with which he flays his opponents or the expressions of sheer frank good humor with which, when in a benign mood, he amuses one of the most difficult audiences in the world.

NOTED JOURNALIST

But oratory is only one of his gifts. British newspapermen hail him as the greatest member of their craft alive. He is a painter of no mean ability. He has been a soldier, and a good one.

He served with the Spanish forces in Cuba in 1895 and with the British on the northwest frontier of India later. He was captured by the enemy during the Boer War, but eventually made a dramatic escape.

He has been Conservative, Liberal and Conservative again. Among the posts which he has held are those of under secretary of the colonies, president of the board of trade, home secretary, first lord of the admiralty, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, minister of munitions, secretary for war, secretary for air, secretary for colonies and chancellor of the exchequer.

FLIRTS WITH DEATH

He was with the police who besieged armed anarchists in an East London house some years ago and was nearly killed. He was with a naval division at Antwerp at the beginning of the great war and was nearly killed again.

He has experienced the most fulsome praise and the bitterest enmity, but has been equally indifferent to both. He simply goes on his dynamic way leaving the rest of the world to wonder what on earth he is going to do next.

Now that Lord Birkenhead is dead there is no one even remotely resembling him in England. Many people say that it is just as well, but they are prone to express gratitude that there is at any rate one "Winston" in the country to add color, life and the charm of the unexpected to these drab days.

Swiss Avalanche Traps Women, Guide

BERNE, Switzerland, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Three English women whose names were not learned and a Swiss guide were buried in an avalanche near Eggishorn Wednesday, it was reported here today. They were with a party of six tourists and three guides. Rescue parties found two women and two guides near Riederalp. The bodies of the others have not been recovered.

Bergdoll Missing, Leaves Wife, Babies at Home

WEINSBERG, Germany, Jan. 30. — (AP.) — Grover Cleveland Bergdoll is missing again. The wealthy draft dodger, who lived here after the World War, has not been seen in this town for nine months. Neighbors and friends, however, look skeptically on rumors that he has returned to America.

Bergdoll, whose flight to Germany to avoid military service kept him long before the public, left behind in this village his three children and their mother. He has disappeared before, but always, the villagers say, has returned a few weeks later.

Already the town gossipers are predicting that Bergdoll will not return here. When those who knew him are asked where he is they merely shrug their shoulders skeptically and say:

"He has certainly gone somewhere, but where? It's anybody's guess. All we know is that he returned to Weinsberg nine months ago with his wife and baby girl, left the family here, and hasn't been back since."

Grandparents of the Bergdoll children will not discuss the matter.

John Drew Colt Carries Barrymore Apple in Debut

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—In the Barrymore family, a red apple signalizes the beginning of another stage career.

There have been two of them carried on stage this year by children of Ethel Barrymore—one in Columbus by Ethel Barrymore Colt; the other in Chicago this week by 17-year-old John Drew Colt.

Colt revealed that he had turned professional actor last Monday night in a mob scene of "Scarlet Sister Mary," his mother's play. Tucked inside his shirt was a big, red apple ordered for him by "Uncle John," John Barrymore in stage life.

Colt, who is tall, dark and good-natured, has been attending a private school near New Haven. His admission to the cast came after a family conclave. Colt said:

"All my life I'd been hearing about my mother on the stage, watching her, and seeing my uncle John and Uncle Lionel, we all had a talk at home. My mother always wanted me to go on the stage. When the opportunity came, on I went."

Young Colt is the son of Ethel Barrymore, nephew of John and Lionel Barrymore, grandson of Maurice Barrymore and Georgia Drew Barrymore, and grand nephew of the great John Drew.

Sister Ethel Barrymore Colt was given her apple by "Uncle Lionel" Barrymore.

BONUS FORCES ASSAIL STAND OF MELLON

Veterans' Chiefs Here Cite Dire Need: Organizations Pay Large Relief Sums

Leaders among the World War veterans of Pittsburgh take issue with Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon and declare a cash bonus to ex-service men is needed to relieve unemployment among them.

Veterans' organizations are making every effort to take care of their own members who require aid. More money is being dispensed for relief than at any period in their history.

INVESTIGATE SOLICITATION

Legion authorities are investigating activities of an organization known as the Veterans' Association, Inc., of California, which has been circulating a petition here for the soldiers' bonus and charging signers 10 cents each. A solicitor arrested by Ingram police yesterday on a technical charge of selling without a license said he kept five cents out of each dime for himself and the other nickel went to defray the expense of the campaign.

Heads of the Legion are cooperating with police in looking for the higher-ups who have been pushing the petition. It is understood many persons have signed and paid the money.

STRONG FOR PAYMENT

Sentiment among the service men is strong for the payment in cash by the government of the face value of the adjusted service certificates. Opinions of some of the leading service men follow.

John B. Nicklas, Jr., Allegheny County commander, American Legion:

"It is the primary duty of the government to take care of the men who gave everything they had for their country in an emergency. If the bonus is paid in cash it will do much to help the business situation."

Robert G. Woodside, past national commander-in-chief Veterans of Foreign Wars:

"I do not criticize Mr. Mellon for his stand as everyone has a right to his own opinion. I strongly favor the payment of the veterans in cash. Economic conditions now are such that it would be a big boon to the boys to get the money, and it should help to bring back prosperity."

LEGION TREASURY HIT

Charles G. Lane, Jr., Past County Commander, American Legion:

"There is a heavy drain now on the Legion treasury to help unemployed members. These men are not floaters but substantial fellows who need jobs. It is just as important to alleviate the condition of the veterans as it is to retire the national debt."

J. J. Madden, National Commander, Eighteen Division Veterans' Association:

"If the war had lasted another month, the government would have spent more money than it would take to pay the veterans in cash. If Mr. Mellon had been with us the first two days in the Argonne, he would think differently."

C. R. Haley, liaison officer, Veterans of Foreign Wars:

"If Mr. Mellon was in close contact and could see the destitute circumstances some of these men are in, he would not oppose the cash payment. Our organization has executed more loans on service certificates this month than in any similar period in our history."

SEEKING BONUS COMPROMISE

by Senator Connally (Dem.), of Texas, in the Senate, providing for cash payment of the bonus certificates on the basis of their present value.

The bills in both houses, and they are numerous, range from provision for full cash payment at once of the face value of the certificates, what they would be worth in 1948, to a proposal of Senator Vandenburg (Rep.), of Michigan, authorizing loans up to 50 per cent of their face value.

The cost of the Vandenburg plan would be about the same as cash payment of the certificates at their present value, or approximately $2,000,000,000. The cost under the maturity value proposal would be more than $5,400,000,000, it is estimated.

MELLON STANDS FIRM

Sentiment in Congress generally is that demands of the veterans will have to be met in some form, and the Senate Finance Committee has agreed to consider additional veteran legislation. This includes an appropriation of millions to provide for between 5,000 and 12,000 additional hospital beds in veterans' hospitals. Consideration of the Rogers measure now in the House and other bills for this purpose will be undertaken by the Senate Finance Committee at the conclusion of its bonus hearings, acting Chairman Watson (Rep.), of Indiana, announced.

Meanwhile, Secretary Mellon, with the full support of President Hoover, remains adamant in his opposition to any further demands on the Treasury for the veterans.

Watson, while not opposed to cash bonus payments, would be more earnest in his support of the proposal if a way could be found to meet the objections to a drain on the Treasury.

Senators Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, and Bingham (Rep.), of Connecticut, both supporting Mellon, and who may be expected to oppose any bill reported for cash payment, will support bills for more hospital beds.

There appeared to be no question but what the committee would report out a bonus bill together with a hospitalization bill.

Invention Defies Speed in Camera Operation

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 30—(AP)—A stroboscope, so powerful its flash and motion pictures of a 160 horsepower motor can be made while the machine is running at full speed, has been developed at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The stroboscope is a scientific device for stopping motion to study parts of machines operating at high speed.

Development of the new type of stroboscope has been accomplished by Harold E. Edgerton, a member of the technology instructing and research staff. Announcement today of its existence has opened up a new field of research in the study of moving machines. The announcement said. Photographic exposures with the new instrument are made in ten-millionths of a second.

Predicts Dry Vote Within Next Year

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 30—(AP)—Speaking last night before the banquet of the Engineers' Society of Northeastern Pennsylvania, Col. Charles Dorrance, head of the Liberal party ticket, said that within a year he looks for the prohibition question to be placed before the people of the country for a vote. He said the report of the Wickersham board proves the dry law is not being enforced, and that it is impossible to enforce it.

The Sale of Black Coats

Goes on Merrily

There is still time to have one of these handsome black coats, in which we continue to maintain a range for regular-size women, for small women and for misses.

The choice of smart, pebbly, spongy fabrics is still intact—those cloths which identify a coat unmistakably as new. And there is the same line-up of successful, semi-fitted, flared models.

The women's coats are trimmed with black caracul, skunk and gray kit fox, and the misses' with Persian lamb and kit fox.

... Horne's, Second Floor ...

Misses' Embroidered Dresses

$16.75

The model pictured has Beauvais-type embroidery in glorious shades of rose, yellow, green, blue, gold and black, on its three-quarter flaring sleeves, to emphasize the simplicity of the frock by contrast. It is of flat crepe in Yale blue, aquatone, sea green and black.

Other new embroidered frocks at this price are gay with pansies, daisies and other spring flowers scattered over grounds of black, navy, Yale blue and noble lady red. . . . Short sleeves with dainty sheer frills or scalloped finishes add to their frivolity.

COMEDY MARKS OIL MEN PICK POLICE FETE PITTSBURGHER

Father, 2 Sons Perish in Flames

WELCH, W. Va., Jan. 30.—(AP)—A father and two small sons were burned to death, and the mother and three children severely injured, when a fire destroyed their home at Ace, near here, early today.

The dead were Clarence Bennett, 36, truck contractor for the Atlantic Smokeless Coal Company; Charles, 4, and Junior, 6. Mrs. Bennett, her daughter, Lilian, 7, and an infant daughter were taken to a Welch hospital.

Engineers Planning Self-Steering Plane

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(INS.)—The airplane pilot of the future may read as he flies, it was disclosed today.

Engineers are developing an automatic airplane steering device which would enable pilots to leave the controls as soon as the ship has been placed in proper course.

The magnetic compass and radio would be combined in the new directional equipment.

Bob Here to Stay, Beauty Experts Declare

DETROIT, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Gone is the flapper's wind-blown bob and the boyish haircut, but the smi body and the lengthy wave cropped hair is here to stay.

So said 4,000 beauty experts as they packed up their hair-waving apparatus and departed after a week's convention of the American Beauty Trade Exposition.

Farmer to Appeal Bomb Conviction

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 30.—(AP)—Counsel for Leroy Brady, young farmer and mechanic convicted of second degree murder in the New Year's Day, 1930, bomb deaths of the secret bride of Ex-brother, Herman, and two other persons, said today a new trial would be asked. Meanwhile, the state moved to bring Herman to trial in the next few days on the same charge.

Leroy was convicted by a jury in Circuit Court here last night.

Belgium Mission Head Stops Here

Mrs. Ralph Norton, director of 49 missions in Belgium, and who was heard in many churches here during the World War, stopped here today en route to Butler for two speaking engagements in Butler on Sunday. Mrs. Norton founded the Belgium Gospel Mission in 1915. William R. Harbison, of Pittsburgh, is a member of the American committee assisting in the work.

INSURANCE MEN TO FIGHT FRAUD

A campaign to expose and halt so-called "accident" policy racketeers through literature is planned by the newly-organized Allegheny County Association of Insurance Agents, it was announced last night at the membership meeting in the Board of Underwriters rooms, Commonwealth Building.

A charter was granted the association in December. The main objective was said to be to protect the public from misrepresentation and schemes.

The temporary officers named in the charter were elected permanent officers until the organization's first annual meeting, to be held the second Monday in October.

Those elected are: President, Paul F. Beaglesid of Verona; secretary, C. R. Hobson, Homestead; treasurer, James G. Jenkins, McKeesport; directors, Henry G. White, Connellsville; C. D. Beacon, New Kensington; C. Vic Shaffer, McKees Rocks; W. I. Vickerman, Bellevue, and J. R. Willison, Wilkinsburg.

NOTICE OF IRENE APPEAL GIVEN

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Jan. 30.—(AP)—Legal notice that Mrs. Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague, convicted slayers sentenced to die in the electric chair next month, would appeal to the State Board of Pardons for commutation of their death sentences was published here. The two were convicted last March of the fatal shooting of Corp. Brady Paul, of the highway patrol, near here, in December, 1929.

The execution date originally was fixed for late this month but a stay was granted until February 28 to enable counsel to present petitions to the Pardon Board. The board is expected to consider the case at Harrisburg on February 17.

Corp. Moore Given Waynesburg Post

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Jan. 30.—Corp. E. C. Moore, of the state highway patrol who was wounded at New Castle when Brady Paul, fellow patrolman, was killed by Irene Schroeder and Glenn Dague, has been transferred to Waynesburg to take charge of the substation of the highway patrol. He succeeds Corp. Edward Denicola, transferred to Pittsburgh.

"Coughing Worse than Static" says noted Radio Entertainer

WILLIAM HAIN
"Luckily there's a safe quick remedy," adds William Hain, Columbia Broadcasting System tenor. "I always keep it handy." Like many radio people Mr. Hain chooses Pertussin because it relieves a cough and helps nature to clear the throat.
Broadcasting studios prefer it because it is pleasant to take and gives such prompt relief.
Take care of your coughs during this bad weather! Use Pertussin the remedy radio people rely on. Get a bottle from your druggist today.
Doctors have prescribed it for more than 25 years for children and adults.

Three hundred and forty-two mortgages totaling $1,257,565.14 were placed on record from January 22 to, and including January 28, according to the weekly mortgage report of C. C. C. Stotler, secretary of the Title Guaranty Company. Twenty-seven of the mortgages, amounting to $94,301.47, were purchase money mortgages. The remaining 315 were straight mortgages and totaled $1,163,263.67.

The Ben F. Williams Co., Mt. Lebanon brokers, has announced its new officers elected at a recent meeting. W. B. Williams has been elected president to fill the vacancy left by the death of Ben F. Williams, organizer of the company. Frank L. Jenkins has been elected vice president to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of W. E. McKnight. H. P. Rohsner is the new secretary-treasurer.

Margaret Orr Lockard, realtor, has sold for Mrs. Inda Palmer to John M. Dlabik, a brick building containing three apartments and garage in Center street, Wilkinsburg. In part payment Dlabik conveyed title to two seven-room houses in Delmont street, Wilkinsburg. The total consideration was $22,500.

An improved property in Brownsville road, Mt. Oliver, has been transferred by the Mt. Oliver Land Improvement Company to the Eagle Building and Loan Association for $17,000. The lot measures 23x120 feet.

John J. Coyne has conveyed to Charles H. Brennan the title to an improved property in Coyne terrace, Fifteenth Ward. The lot is 26x122 feet.

Applications for building permits follow:

Eleventh Ward—O. M. Edwards, repair fire damage, 6274 Frankstown avenue, $500.

Twenty-second Ward—H. E. Bereton, alterations, Galveston avenue and Behan street, $500.

Eighth Ward—L. C. Phillips, alterations, 5900 Penn avenue, $1,700.

Manufacturers, eager to cooperate, in order to get a flying start for Spring business, made concessions to our buyers that were nothing short of sensational. And, in keeping with the policy of this event, EVERY DOLLAR SAVED will be TURNED OVER TO THE PUBLIC. And to further increase the Savings of the Customer, we have reduced our regular normal low profit.

Special Purchases of New Spring Merchandise will be at extraordinary savings. All remaining stocks of winter merchandise will be sacrificed regardless of cost or loss.

Every item advertised in these three pages has been personally examined and approved by a committee of buyers as exceptional value, in keeping with the policy of this sale.

Many of our buyers, whose pictures are shown on this page, and who have been with our organization as long as twenty years, have asked us to assure the public that, never in their experience, have they seen such Sensational Values as being offered in this event.

WE NOW PRESENT
By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor

Gen. John J. Pershing's first address to a coast-to-coast radio audience since publication of his "Memoirs" in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph takes place on WJAS at 8:15 tonight. In his recital of World War experiences Gen. Pershing has paid high tribute to the work of the Red Cross in stricken areas and for the American troops. His talk tonight is to be an appeal for contributions to the "Red Cross $10,000,000 Drought Relief Fund."

* * *

While waiting for the General to come on the air you may spend your time pleasantly by hearing Jessica Dragonette sing the "Italian Street Song" from "Naughty Marietta" on WCAE or twisting the dial to KDKA for Ruth Etting. Both 8 p. m.

Were we to name the most dramatic song in "Show Boat" it would not be "Old Man River." It would be "Bill," which Harriet Lee sings for us on WJAS at 8:30.

WATCH YOUR STEP

"I'll get off at the twenty-second floor," a man said as he entered an elevator at KQV recently.

"If you do, be careful of that first step," smiled the girl operator.

The KQV building has only 21 floors.

That reminds us that Arthur Murray, dancing tutor, steps into the radio picture on KDKA at 8:45.

QUESTION A DAY:

How many programs originate on the networks each month?—Lois N., Bakerstown, Pa.

Answer—Average of 6,000 programs on NBC and CBS combined. That's 200 a day. Pittsburgh is fortunate in getting most of these features by virtue of its three network outlets.

Scene: A hard-boiled taxi driver spouting "O. K. Colonel" to a chorus girl at the Stanley who came back with Abner's hoarse laugh, "whoo whoo" as the door swung shut. Phil Cook has started a habit.

Strange how Lowell Thomas happened to spill his notes on both networks last night. A bit of showmanship that didn't go down so well with us.

You guessed right on the hockey game broadcast inside the Duquesne arena last night if you guessed Bill Farren. It was a trial to see how a description of the game would be received.

TODAY'S TID BIT

Ben Bernie's wit on the air is like spice in the holiday pudding. Just recently—

"My boys will now brag a little and play 'I Got Rhythm.'"

If you haven't heard him do "The Peanut Vendor" or "The King's Horses" there's a surprise for you at WBBM.

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Federal statisticians have yet to reveal what effect, if any, radio is having in removing the word "discontent" from the farmers' vocabulary. Its appeal to them must be enormous despite the picketings of politicians over farm relief.

Radio must have added a dash of spice to rural life that tends to keep farmers entertained while they wait for good news from the weather bureau and the White House. The cities must be losing some of their attraction to the young men and women of the agricultural districts now that the latter can tune in any night to dance bands in New York and Chicago—dance bands, moreover, airing occasionally the lusty hoedowns of the countryside.

It would not surprise me were the more far-seeking members of the Republican National Committee mapping out a comprehensive radio campaign of the picturesque tunes of an earlier and simpler America as a means of keeping its rural vote intact. The present emergency calls for some such procedure.

* * *

Radio has yet to install in its studios an official whose duties might be similar to those of the train dispatchers of the railway systems. Dispatchers of the air channels, their labors would include the clearing of the radio waves for the tunes on the broadcasting schedule. They would see to it that song was not repeated more than twice on the evening programs. It would not only be exacting work, but work requiring considerable diplomatic suavity. With a dozen jazz bands wanting to air "Cheerful Little Earful" and a dozen crooners ready to wail "Body and Soul" it would be their job to pick and choose.

Broadcasting today is badly in need of someone who is able and adroit in the process of selection, someone who will make it his job to see that a zippy tune is not dinned to such excess into the eardrums of the land as to threaten the sanity of the chair warmers. Today, no system is employed. Bands and singers and solo instrumentalists are permitted to make up their programs without the supervision of the microphone men. The heavy hand of the broadcasters swoops down upon them only when it is believed they are transgressing the bounds of good taste. Such occasions are rare, and listeners are only aware of it when a song deemed suggestive is suddenly cut off in the midst of its airing.

The more ambitious warblers also need the guiding hand of a radio song dispatcher. Even the melodious old tear-jerker, "The Last Rose of Summer," is a pain in the ear when it is aired, as it was recently, by three different concert soloists within a period of five hours.

Specialize, Pastors Told by Wickersham

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(INS.)—Too long has the church maintained the traditional organization of the parish and ministers should have an opportunity for specialization instead of carrying on all the duties of a church, George W. Wickersham, chairman of the President's commission on law enforcement, told a group of ministers here.

Bishop William T. Manning, who also spoke, praised Wickersham and the report of the enforcement commission on prohibition.

'Torch' Murder Quiz Lays Plot to Woman

FREMONT, O., Jan. 30.—(AP.)—A woman believed to have participated in the "torch murder" of Russell C. Gibbs, 22, of Clyde, last July was being hunted by Sheriff Tom Pack, of Sandusky County, today.

The woman, the sheriff said, was reported to have joined in a plot to slay Gibbs for his money on his wedding eve. Charles O'Neil, 22, and Charles Jeffrey, 28, both named in first-degree murder warrants, are being held.

HOLLYWOOD AND GOTHAM GOSSIP; LOCAL AMUSEMENT HAPPENINGS

Gobs Have Had Their Day So New Film Makes Officer the Hero

By HARRISON CARROLL.

(Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 30.

Somewhere off the Pacific coast, aboard a United States war vessel, a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer troupe is making a camera and Microphone record of the life of an officer in the Navy.

The story will reach the screen as "Shipmates," and all features as "Shipmates," and all features as Stephen Mont-gomery, Dorothy Jordan, Hobart Bosworth and Egbert Torrence. Authentic scenes are being secured through the co-operation of the government. Shipmates will be one of the first sea pictures to be made since the days of the old-time silents, when other films have in the main been gobs.

Mr. Montgomery

Harry Pollard is directing the story, which is an original by Lew Edelman and Delmar Daves.

LATEST GOSSIP

Fifi Dorsay's mysterious illness turned out to be something of a hoax. At any rate, the studio is apologizing to newspapers and wire services who carried the story. It seems an overeager press agent, not connected with Fox, pulled an old-fashioned coup. Fifi was at Arrowhead all the time. Incidentally, Sol Wurtzel was taken in with the rest. . . . Knute Rockne's famous double-shift has been created into a dance routine for a cabaret shot in "Strangers May Kiss." . . . Dick Arlen and Jobyna Ralston celebrated their fourth wedding anniversary this week. . . . Harry Green, late of Paramount, is enjoying a profitable stage engagement here in "The Ambulance Chaser," a comedy by the Spewacks (Sam and Bella). Later, the play is intended for the movies. . . . M. G. M.'s "Trader Horn," to date, has broken all records at Grauman's Chinese Theater, one of the class cinema palaces of Hollywood. . . . The Coogans have decided that their new actor-son, Robert, will not be given a screen nickname. It seems that 16-year-old Jack can't live down the "Jackie" of his early days. . . . By the way, didn't Coogan, Sr., once say "One actor in the family is enough"? . . . William J. Burns, former head of the United States Secret Service, is producing a series of mystery shorts at the Tec-Art studio. . . . Sam Goldwyn arrives here in two weeks to take charge of production at United Artists. . . . Rex Bell is working at Pathe in a two-reel comedy, "Disappearing Enemies."

THAT TIRED FEELING

Dick Arlen, who's just back from Honolulu, says everybody is so lazy in the tropics that the newspapers have to print everything on the front page.

BETTY'S NEW JOB

Having changed the title of "Apron Strings" to "The Virtuous Husband," Universal has engaged Betty Compson to put a little allure in the production.

Betty Compson.

Others involved will be J. C. and Elliott Nugent, Allison Skipworth and a feminine lead yet to be chosen. Betty is to be second-fiddle in the romance.

Dorrance Davis is the author of the story.

DO YOU KNOW

That Wallace Beery, the paradox, once was a lion tamer and later became a female impersonator?

That Paul Lukas, now four years in Hollywood, has become a naturalized U. S. citizen?

That Clive Brook writes short stories for an English publication?

Pittsburgh Actor In Penn Photoplay

Irving Pichel, who has one of the leading portrayals in "The Right To Love," in the Penn, is a former Pittsburgh boy. He was born here, his father having been the late Julius Pichel, long associated with the Gazette Times. His mother, Rachael Pichel, is now living with a daughter in Cincinnati. He is a nephew of Judge Joseph Stadtfeld, Abraham Stadtfeld and Otto Rosenheim, of this city.

Pichel has been prominently identified with the stage for several years and he has been active in the Little Theater movement in many cities. He also served as lecturer on the drama in the University of California, Berkeley, Cal., where he lives. He acts the role of Caleb Evans in the picture, his first screen appearance.

Admission Prices At Aldine Lowered

In line with a general trend in the amusement business to offer more entertainment at less cost, Loew's Aldine, beginning today, put into effect a radical reduction in admission scales. Previously operating under a straight 35 and 50-cent prices, the theater now is to charge 15 cents from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m., 25 cents from 1 p. m. to 6 p. m. and 35 cents from 6 p. m. to closing. For children 10 cents will be charged from opening to 6 p. m. and 15 cents thereafter.

Man About Town

The night club business isn't tough enough, so Morton Downey's Delmonico place is trying to make it tougher for themselves—by barring people unless they come attired in soup and herring . . . Oh, the pity of it! . . . The other night, frinstance . . . With the place practically barren (the orchestra, crew and Barbara Bennett being among the few in the place), they turned away neat but not gaudy patrons . . . Ho, hum—the once swanky Club Lido should be a warning . . . The Lido, now a no-couvert charge rendezvous, is a concrete example of the penalty one must surrender in being high hat . . . The Lido now is tickled silly if anyone comes in . . . Norma Terris' imitations at the Casino in the Park are among the things to see—particularly swell being her aping of Helen Morgan, Jeanne Eagels and Garbo . . . She looks so much like the beautiful Georgia Payne . . . That gray streak in Peggy Fears' hair is fascinating . . . I like the melody of "Just a Gigolo" better than the lyrics—the first eight bars particularly . . . Noel Coward's new show, "Private Lives," is so amusing . . . Joe LeBlang, the ticket seller, went so mad about it before the second act curtain fell he offered Arch Selwyn a check in advance for the entire balcony during the run of the smash hit . . . F. P. A. twits Howard Barnes for saying that Alfred Lunt, the actor, was born in Milwaukee . . . F. P. A. argues that Lunt was born 25 miles from Milwaukee . . . As a matter of columnar accuracy Alfred Lunt was born in Milwaukee.

That story about the cat in Billie Burke's show, "The Truth Game," is diverting, at that . . . One of the necessities for the play is a cat . . . In Newark recently when the show was being polished the play's pussy-meow was lost . . . The property man grabbed the first cat he could find in an alley . . . It looked so hungry and so emaciated . . . It probably never ate anything better than ashes . . . Now it is fat and healthy and it plays a part in a Broadway show . . . And it rests between scenes on the soft-

MYSTERY AND MUSIC SHOW FOR NEXT WEEK

"Subway Express," which begins its Pittsburgh engagement in the Nixon Monday night, was the outstanding detective mystery play of the past New York season. It had a run of over eight months in the Liberty and Republic Theaters.

"Flying High," the new musical comedy, opening in the Alvin for one week's engagement Monday, marks the second musical comedy "Without a Home," by a well-produced by George White in his known Jewish cast.

Fred Ballard, author of "Believe Mr. Xantippe," is also responsible for "Ladies of the Jury," which will be presented in the Pitt next week.

ADLERS IN NIXON

Tonight, in the Nixon, the nine Adlers, sons and daughters and the widow of the Yiddish actor, Jacob P. Adler, will give a performance of Jacob Gordin's play, "Without a Home," by a well-known Jewish cast.

FOLLOW PERSHING'S STORY AND WIN CASH!

$3,000.00 IN CASH PRIZES

For Readers of the Sun-Telegraph Who Follow Pershing's Own Story of the War

CAREFULLY READ THESE SIMPLE RULES

RULE 1—With the beginning of the publication of General Pershing's Own Story of the World War, Monday, January 12, 1931, the daily and Sunday Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph inaugurates a Pershing test in which $3,000.00 in cash prizes will be awarded to readers who submit the correct or most nearly correct answers to a set of ten questions pertaining to dates and episodes chronicled in the Pershing narrative. Contestants will also be asked to submit a letter of not more than 200 words to the question "What is the most important episodes chronicled in the Pershing memoirs published in the Sun-Telegraph and why?" This letter will be judged as a part of the Pershing test with the answers to the ten questions. The test questions will be published from time to time during the publication of the story in the Sun-Telegraph and contestants will be allowed ten days to prepare and submit their answers after the last chapter has been printed. The Pershing story will run approximately ten weeks. The exact date of the time limit for submitting answers will be announced later—contingent upon the closing date of the story.

RULE 2—The Pershing test is open to everyone except employes of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and their families.

RULE 3—A total sum of $3,000.00 in cash will be awarded as prizes $500.00 to each of six classes or groups as follows:

CLASS NO. 1—Grade School Children.
CLASS NO. 2—High School Pupils.
CLASS No. 3—College Students.
CLASS NO. 4—School Teachers, Members of the Faculty of Schools and Colleges, Clergymen, and Members of Religious Orders.
CLASS NO. 5—Members of the American Legion and Other Organizations That Include World War Veterans.
CLASS NO. 6—All Other Readers of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

RULE 4—The prizes in each class will be awarded as follows:

GOVERNOR ACTS IN LYNCHING

SCHAFER, N. D., Jan. 30.—(INS.)—Three emissaries of Gov. Shafter today were expected to take action against leaders of the mob which yesterday stormed McKenzie County Jail, seized Charles Bannon, 22, and lynched him.

Several members of the mob were recognized and named by Sheriff F. A. Thompson, who, with a deputy, was held while Bannon was taken from his cell.

The lynched youth had confessed slaying six members of the family of A. E. Haven. The crowd hanged him to a bridge superstructure.

The Governor sent the trio of state officers here yesterday afternoon to take action against the mob leaders.

HOME BUILDING IN ROSS DROPS

Building activities in Ross Township last year totaled $560,000 or $7,000 less than the aggregate for 1929, according to the report of George G. Antill, building inspector to the township commissioners. During the 26 months the office of building inspector has been in existence, permits have totaled $1,192,455, his reports show.

During the present month permits were issued to the following: William Carson, for a one-story frame building, Laurel Gardens, estimated to cost $7,000; T. H. Kalethoff, one-story frame dwelling, Brookview avenue, near Babcock boulevard, $4,500; Mrs. Marie Creda, two-story frame dwelling, $3,500.

CLUB MEMBERS HONOR M'KINLEY

The memory of President William McKinley was honored at the twenty-ninth annual dinner of the McKinley Commemoration Club held last night in the William Penn Hotel on the anniversary of McKinley's death. Tribute to the dead statesman was paid by Judge William H. Keller, of the State Superior Court, the principal speaker.

More than 250 members of the club were present. Senator Frank J. Harris was elected president; Curtis M. Yohe, vice president, and Albert E. P. Kerr, secretary. McKinley medallions were presented to Edwin W. Smith, retiring president, and to Judge Keller.

Delaware Old Age Bill Approved

DOVER, Del., Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Gov. C. Douglas Buck has signed the old age pension bill passed by the Legislature Tuesday. It will become effective when a commission is appointed by the Governor within 30 days. Pensions will be provided for all indigent persons over 65, and will range from $5 to $25 monthly.

State Police Renew Gang Murder Probe

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Jan. 30.—Official information was given out here that the state police have renewed the probe into the "gang" murder of John C. Donohoe, July 31, 1929.

Heads of the state police have insisted that the murder will be solved.

Poker and Dice Now Vogue on Riviera

NICE, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Roulette and the like are a bit old-fashioned along the Riviera. Poker is quite the thing now. Galloping dominoes and turtle racing also are quite popular.

ALMA RUBENS' TEMPESTUOUS LIFE BEGUN IN GALE

FILM ACTRESS EARLY SHOWS TALENT

the incumbrance opened up his surgical case, fiddled around a few minutes and then suddenly held up in his hairy hands a squirming, crimson-hued infant. He spanked it lightly and instantly it broke into a squall of vociferous protest.

And thus, under these unusual and trying circumstances, was Alma Rubens destined to become one of the stormy petrels of the mimic world, ushered into life.

Of course I have no first-hand knowledge of this epochal event, except what my mother, the doctor and Mrs. Margaret Schmidt, the neighbor, since have told me. However, I always have accepted their version of the incident, or I might, more aptly term it, my mother's one great tragedy as true.

Terror of 13

And I can also state that to this day my mother, always of a highly superstitious nature, as are so many of the Irish race, lives in mortal terror of the numeral "13," a fear founded on the trials and tribulations in her life which followed her ordeal in that rickety old house at No. 13 Buchanan street, San Francisco.

Many persons who have followed my career on the screen and stage mistake me for a Jewess. This belief perhaps was strengthened when I married Ricardo Cortez, my third husband, the only one I ever really loved and whom I am now trying to divorce.

Although I didn't find it out until almost a year after our marriage, "Ric," instead of being the gallant Spanish caballero which I believed him, was the son of a kosher butcher, with a shop on First avenue, New York City. His real name is Jacob Kranz.

His origin, however, of which apparently many of my friends were aware, but of which they did not apprise me, had nothing to do with our inability to get along together. The real reason for our separation will be discussed later on.

Alma's Ancestry

So, getting back to my theme, I must dispel the current rumors of my Jewish ancestry. As a matter of fact, I am of German-Irish descent, my father, John Bernard Reubens, having been born in Strassburg, Germany, coming to this country in the early 90's, when he was 23.

My mother was born in San Francisco, of old Irish-police-officer-pioneer stock, the entire family being most devout Catholics. My father, while never of a particularly religious bent, was an avowed Lutheran, and this difference of faith resulted in my poor mother's ostracization, so far as her family was concerned.

My father was of the dreamer type, phlegmatic, but possessed of a certain stoic pride, which, coupled with his extreme honesty and high ideals, ever stood in his way of becoming a business success. Bad health also hampered him during the last 20 years of his life.

I have always greatly resembled him, much to the distress of my elder sister, Hazel, and my mother, both of whom are extremely practical in a business way.

But, thank Heaven, they are that way, and if it wasn't for their foresight and insistence, that I turn over half my earnings, when I was making the big money, to them for investment, I might now be a pauper. As it is, we have a big ranch in California and a considerable amount laid aside for the proverbial rainy day. And it has rained plenty.

Early Memories

My earliest recollection goes back to the time when I was about three years old. With my father, mother and sister, I was aboard a Pacific coastal steamer, en route from Alaska to my native city.

Some six months prior to my birth my father, inspired by the tales of suddenly acquired wealth in the Klondike, had borrowed money and joined the rush to that Mecca in the late 90's and early part of this century.

Unsuccessful there, too, still he had managed to accumulate enough to send for his family when I was about five months old. But shortly after our arrival he was stricken with rheumatism, a disease so painful and which became of such a chronic nature that in his later years he was able to do very little.

Eventually, when the Klondike boom had subsided, he decided that he must seek a milder climate if he ever expected to get back on his feet—physically and financially.

So it happened that while en route my father developed one of his severe attacks and was for many days confined to bed aboard boat. Of course, because I was only 3, my mother and Hazel would go to the dining room alone, leaving me, the baby, playing on the floor under my father's watchful eyes.

Up until then I never had uttered a word, a mute condition that had worried my mother almost to distraction.

Plays Prank

My father had dozed off, and I, suddenly aware of the fact that he was off guard, toddled over to my mother's trunk, the lid of which was open, seized from within a long-cherished can of talcum powder, and proceeded to make merry.

After daubing almost everything in sight with the powder, I climaxed the proceedings by emptying the remainder on my father's shiny, black derby—the pride and joy of his existence.

He must have had a premonition of impending evil, because he awakened just as I had administered the last sad rites of rubbing it in so hard that no amount of brushing could ever make it look the same.

Father tried to leap out of bed, but the terrible rheumatic pains which resulted from his move caused him to collapse with a groan of mingled anguish and despair.

"Baby, oh baby, baby," he moaned. "Baby, you dem little devil, leave that hat alone. By golly, I never saw such a little devil."

Just then mother and Hazel walked in and I chortled in babyish glee: "Devil. Baby dem little devil," much to their surprise and consternation. From that time on I talked fluently and continuously, so continuously, in fact, that some of my friends—and some not so friendly—often have referred to me as a human phonograph.

Father Improves

Upon our arrival in San Francisco, we moved to No. 989 McAllister street, almost next door to Dr. Dodge, who had officiated at my birth. My father, benefited somewhat by the milder climate, managed to regain his feet and became distributor for a champagne manufacturing concern.

As soon as we became settled mother made Hazel take me with her to services in Sacred Heart Church, nearby. I liked this and up until I reached the third grade I fully intended to become a nun.

I admired their sober costumes and their stately manners appealed to me. I imitated them in every way possible, even going so far as to cut up my mother's best lace curtains to make myself a frilled surplice.

But later I developed a hatred for school, such a hatred, in fact, that nightly I prayed that it might burn down, or that we might have a devastating flood that would sweep it entirely away.

And, strange as it may seem, my prayers were answered. At least, I thought so in those days, because along came the great San Francisco earthquake, and my school building, the John Swett Grammar School, was almost completely demolished.

This did not solve my difficulties, however, because I was sent to parochial school, much against my wishes. It was while there that I felt the first great urge to become an actress.

Subsequently, I lay awake nights, trying to make up my mind whether the stage name of Rose La France or Grace Howard would be the better under which to seek my career.

Desires the Forbidden

I have already mentioned that I was of the idealistic, dreamer type, like my father, with an intensely inquiring and retrospective moodiness accompanied by an abnormal impulsiveness and sense of intuition. Added to these characteristics was a vivid imagination and an almost uncontrollable desire to do the forbidden.

These queer traits have, throughout my life, led me into many errors of both commission and omission, and have trapped me into many situations both ludicrous and serious.

And, in later life, I have often suspected they have been mainly responsible for my seemingly futile fight against the deadly drug habit.

Since earliest girlhood I have had an inordinate feminine admiration for masculine courage and combativeness, which reminds me of my first great love—and my first grand hero!

Alma poses as actress to win object of her first childhood love. Amazing complications develop. Read tomorrow's installment of this gripping tale of laughter, tears and dope.

WINIFRED BLACK SEES LESSON IN ACTRESS

carried her "medicine" home with her.

She was "hooked," as they call it in that dim, fearful world of the alleys and by-ways, where the dope slaves whisper together in their eternal twilight.

Over and over again Alma Rubens tried to break the chains that bound her.

She had herself committed to institutions three different times, big, prosperous, expensive institutions where they give the "dope cure," but somehow she was never cured—to stay.

The last time she went to a hospital it was a state institution that took her in, not the rich, beautiful, admired and envied Alma Rubens, but just a poor little wisp—more like a ghost than like a human being.

Before she gave up the struggle and lay down and died, poor Alma Rubens wrote the story of her desperate fight against "dope."

She began at the beginning and went on to the bitter end; she did not spare herself one jot—she set down every detail of her slavery in black and white for the whole incredulous, scoffing world to read.

It is, they say, a great document, and one that should be read by every woman and every man who might some time hear the clanking of those terrible chains and not realize what they mean.

How about the doctor who got Alma Rubens into the clutches of dope?

Doctor Shielded

How about the fellow physicians who shielded him from the consequences of what he did?

The medical profession is still full of noble, self-sacrificing, heroic men, men whom the world delights to honor—but how about those "derelict doctors" who use the cloak of a noble profession to hide their cowardice and their greed.

Isn't it about time that we here in the United States looked at this business of dope addiction and see it for what it is—one of the most fearful menaces of our modern civilization.

Read Alma Rubens' pitiful story—read it word for word, and syllable, even if it breaks your heart to do it.

It may save you or one you love from a slavery worse than death.

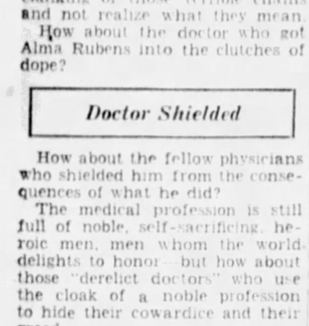
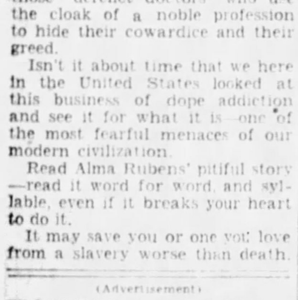
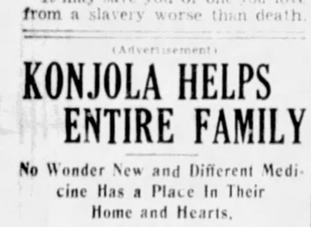
KONJOLA HELPS ENTIRE FAMILY

No Wonder New and Different Medicine Has a Place In Their Home and Hearts.

The records of Konjola, the new and different medicine of 32 ingredients, contain thousands of letters tell how this modern medicine has helped every member of the family.







MR. AND MRS. G. O. SCHULZ AND DAUGHTER

Consider the case of Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Schulz and daughter, 223 Mary Street, Pittsburgh. Then ask your druggist about Konjola. He will give you the facts, all of them, about this remarkable medicine for the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and for rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. But right now read what Mr. and Mrs. Schulz say:

"I was rundown for two years," says Mr. Schulz. "I lost weight and appetite, but five bottles of Konjola made me eat and sleep better than in years, and I have regained all my lost weight." Mrs. Schulz says: "I took ten bottles of Konjola for stomach and liver troubles, and it is the only medicine that helped me. My little daughter was cross and feverish, and Konjola did for her all that could be asked. We are glad to endorse Konjola for what it did for our little family."

Konjola, seven million bottles of which were used in two years, is sold in Pittsburgh at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street; by all Dow stores and by all leading druggists everywhere.

ATLANTIC

yet it sells at regular-gas price

MAYBE you're from Missouri, and have to "be shown" before you believe anything.

We hope so, because then you are just the man we are looking for. We want you to test ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH in your own car, under your own driving conditions. We want you to compare it with other motor fuels you have known. Above all, we want you to be hard-boiled about it. Because we know this: the more critical you are, the more delighted you're going to be with this amazing new motor fuel which sells at regular-gas price.

We know ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH is your kind of a gasoline, because we developed it by first listing the qualities we knew you would want, and then setting out to achieve them. In the Atlantic research laboratory we studied the things which make for extra power—flashing pick-up—ease of starting—maximum mileage. We learned how to combine them into a superlative motor fuel.

But before we offered you this fuel, we tested it ourselves, just as we ask you to test it now . . . on steep hills, in heavy city traffic, along the open highway. We tested it in the laboratory—and found it had no equal, out of scores of competitive fuels examined with it. That's how we know you are bound to like it.

Fill up with ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH today. Prove to yourself how good a gasoline can be!

Free PIANO LESSONS

BE A MUSICIAN

STARTING SUNDAY, February 1st, the Sun-Telegraph will publish the first lesson of the W. Scott Grove Course in Piano Playing. This course is so simple that any child can, by its aid, be started on the way to proficiency on the piano or organ. The fundamental principles in music must first be mastered . . . that is essential. The Music Simplifier Course in Piano Playing teaches the fundamental principles in the easiest and simplest manner possible. It makes the learning a pleasure study by making it fascinating. You know at all times what you are doing, why you are doing it, and what progress you are making.

Be Sure to get these lessons from the start. Each lesson will be printed one time only. Remember there are 24 of them. Lesson 1 Sunday, Feb. 1st.

The author of the plan believes that any person will reach the point where he can play simple popular music, and if he wants to get beyond that, and in all probability he will, Pittsburgh instruction offers the best possible training.

BANDITS ROB TWO STORES, BARBECUE

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

By William Pfarr

It is a pretty good guess that James McInerney earned his nickname (Troubles) by never running away from it. He proved this when he and Steve Madden, the Aspinwall polo player, were serving on the Mexican border.

Mr. Pfarr

Troubles was shaving one morning when, from a tent nearby, he heard loud voices enthusiastically berating the Irish. Now Troubles, needless to say, is an Irishman himself and, like them all, proud of it.

Troubles, his face buried beneath lather, hopped, skipped and jumped to the tent and, without preliminary, waded into the seven occupants.

Madden, hearing the commotion, rushed in, but by that time Troubles had laid out the seven sinners.

"I'll show these guys they can't talk about the Irish," Troubles said.

"Well," said Madden, "that's a good idea, but those guys are all Irish themselves. That little Englishman that you didn't touch was the one making all those speeches. He talks in a half dozen keys."

Portrait: He came to Pittsburgh alone, an orphan. He worked here and there while he was going to school at Allegheny High and when he was graduated he went to Columbia University. A rich man died and left him a quarter of a million dollars because once he had saved the rich man from drowning. And then the young man went to Greenwich Village. With one hand he distributed dollars to set up such exclusive publications as The New Cow, the Greenwich Village Quill, and Free Verse so that Greenwich Village's long-haired writers might see their stuff in print. With the other hand he tossed dollars into a bull stock market which further enriched him. Once he had as much as $800,000, and the cabarets always welcomed him. The market crashed, and now 28-year-old Robert Clairmont is broke, working for his board and keep at one of New York's municipal lodging houses. And this is what he says: "I'm broke but happy."

Those two boys, County Commissioners Joe Armstrong and C. C. (Buck) McGovern, had another pleasant session at the Spanish-American War Veterans' dinner, at which both were speakers. Col. McGovern admitted his pleasant surprise that he was called on to speak first, and proceeded to explain how Mr. Armstrong was wrong about this and wrong about that. Mr. Armstrong then proceeded to tell how Mr. McGovern was wrong when he said that Mr. Armstrong was wrong. It was very pleasant, with few harsh words uttered. In fact, Mr. Armstrong almost apologized for his differences with the colonel. As he took his seat he announced:

"You know, you can't put two Irishmen in one room and not expect some kind of a fight."

These are trying times for President Hoover, but we have hit upon a plan which should re-establish him in the esteem of his fellow-countrymen. Our plan would have the President legislate against prosperity songs. Another such tune has just been published. This latest effort is something about a choo-choo train speeding along to better times. It succeeds that song which assured us that happy days were here again and that other ballad which promised the people that Old Kid Prosperity was gonna knock Old Kid Hard Times for a goal. It seems to us that every time a new prosperity song is published the market slumps.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

HOUSTON, Tex., Jan. 30.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Well, here we are in Houston, back at the Rice Hotel. The last time I was here was at the Democratic convention. The bellboys tell me they still find old empties around from then. I have always said this was the coming town of the whole South. This is the town that dug an ocean. That's too bad about Smedley Butler. Don't really believe he meant it that way. Good thing for our public speakers that Russia hasn't got an ambassador here, or he would have half of America reprimanded. Yours,

Will Rogers

Wilson Influence Won War Council, Declares Pershing

MY EXPERIENCES IN THE WORLD WAR

By JOHN J. PERSHING,

Commander-in-Chief, American Expeditionary Forces.

CHAPTER XIX.

Succeeding chapters of "My Experiences in the World War" will appear daily and Sunday exclusively in the Sun-Telegraph.

Breakfasting with me in Paris November 4, 1917, the British Prime Minister, Mr. Lloyd George, referred to the Italian defeat at Caporetto as being a most serious disaster, and pointed out that sending British and French divisions to Italy had materially weakened the lines in France. Mr. Lloyd George also spoke at some length on the lack of concerted action among the Allied armies.

I agreed with him and added that in my opinion there never had been real co-operation on the western front between the British and French, that when one was attacking the other was usually standing still, and that the Germans were thus left free to concentrate their reserves against the threatened point.

Gen. Pershing

We were facing a grave crisis next year, if not sooner, said Mr. Lloyd George, and no one knew how it was to be met. The enemy might attack each one separately, with the same results as in the case of Italy. He then asked what I thought of creating a Supreme War Council.

Having in mind councils called to decide upon military operations in the field, I told him that the advice of war councils was not usually of any great value and that the proposition did not appeal to me. I said that authority should be vested somewhere to coordinate the operations on the western front, and suggested the possibility of having a supreme commander.

Mr. Lloyd George replied, in effect, that it was unlikely that the Allies could agree upon any one, as the French would object to any but a Frenchman and the British might not like that. He thought the council would be useful for the purpose primarily of bringing the heads of the Allied governments together at intervals to determine general policies.

Declines Suggestion

I admitted that such an organization might serve to unite the Allies in common purpose, but that the conduct of operations by the combined armies should be under military direction. I got the distinct impression that while he was seeking greater unity of action, he also sought some means of controlling the activities of the British Army. During previous months that army had been engaged in almost continuous offensive operations, practically single-handed, with very heavy losses and few compensating advantages.

Mr. Lloyd George went on to say that there was to be a meeting of the prime ministers at Rapallo, Italy, and that he hoped they might reach some agreement that would result in a council such as he had in mind. He thought that the United States ought to be represented at this meeting and suggested that I should attend.

As the purpose of the council seemed to be more for political co-ordination than for purely military control, I told him that it seemed best for me not to participate without some intimation from my government to do so.

In the afternoon, at M. Painleve's request, I called on him, and he also told me of the proposal to form a Supreme War Council and wanted me to go to the conference in Italy. I gave him the same reply that I had given Mr. Lloyd George.

Lloyd George

Shortly thereafter the Rapallo meeting was held, resulting in an agreement among the prime ministers of the governments participating, Great Britain, France and Italy. The divisions of the council are set forth as follows:

Council Meets

"(1) With a view to the better co-ordination of military action on the western front, a Supreme War Council is created, composed of the prime minister and a member of the government of each of the great powers whose armies are fighting on that front. The extension of the scope of the council to other fronts is reserved for discussion with the other great powers.

"(2) The Supreme War Council has for its mission to watch over the general conduct of the war. It prepares recommendations for the decisions of the governments, and keeps itself informed of their execution, and reports thereon to the respective governments.

"(3) The general staffs and military commands of the armies of each power charged with the

CITY HASTENS BENNETT ST. PAVING

Contractors Told to Start $200,000 Project at Once; More Jobs to be Rushed

Contractors for the paving of Bennett street, a $200,000 project, have been instructed by city officials to begin work at once, it was said at the City-County Building today.

The project, providing for paving from Oakwood to Tokio streets, will give work to a number of men and assist in relieving unemployment, it was asserted.

Plans of the Department of Public Works call for presentation of a number of grading, paving and curbing ordinances to Council Monday. Work on public projects will be speeded throughout the city, according to department officials, with the coming of spring.

Among steps contemplated is action on the Mt. Washington roadway at a cost of several hundred thousand dollars.

HOLDUP VICTIMS SCAN SUSPECTS

Employes of the Allegheny Trust Company at Verona, where Cashier Charles McFarland was slain in a $1,000 holdup in December, failed to identify any of the three bandit suspects taken to the bank by detectives yesterday.

The three under arrest, according to detectives, are Matthew Kozera, 23, of Fleetwood street; Peter Mizurek, 28, of Sharpsburg, and Anthony Univitz, 26, of Sarah street. The trio, City Detectives Walter Monaghan and Thomas Morgan declared, were members of a gang responsible for 30 holdups of drug, grocery, confectionery and meat stores throughout the city.

2 DRUGGISTS VICTIMS OF HOLDUP

Gunmen Scorn Victim's Auto, Return Driver's License; Doctor's Home Ransacked

The holdup of a drug store, a chain grocery and a barbecue today opened the customary week-end carnival of banditry in the Pittsburgh district.

Two young bandits entered Merle W. Baldwin's drug store, 700 Ardmore boulevard, early this morning, as the druggist and his friend, Swissvale Councilman James Bell, a druggist, were closing the store, and escaped with $400 from two cash drawers.

LOOT STORE TILLS

After looting the tills in the Wilkinsburg pharmacy, the highwaymen rifled the pockets of Baldwell and Bell. At Bell's request one of the bandits tossed back Bell's wallet containing his automobile cards. Encouraged, Baldwin asked the thieves not to take his automobile, and the intruders graciously granted the request, saying that they were in possession of a better one.

The lone armed Negro, who yesterday morning held up a Hill district Kroeger store, continued activities today, when he held up the P. H. Butler store at 2035 Webster avenue, taking $15 from Thomas Pugh, the manager, who was alone in the store.

BARBECUE ROBBED

Threatening the proprietor with revolvers, two highwaymen early today held up Rodger's barbecue on the Sandy Creek road, Penn Township, and escaped with the money in the cash register. The amount taken is not known.

City detectives were notified this morning that during the night robbers ransacked the home of Dr. W. W. Woods, at 519 Overbrook boulevard, Overbrook. The robbery occurred while members of the family were absent. According to Dr. Woods the thieves stole two watches and a ladies buckle valued at $135 and a revolver.

AGENTS ARREST 2 IN RAIDS

Two hundred and nine quarts of home brew and a quart of moonshine were reported confiscated in a raid yesterday by prohibition agents on a store at 3407 Carson street. Rudy Stojanovich, 40, alleged proprietor, was released on his own recognizance.

A raid on the home of Pauline Schwartz, 38, in Stanford avenue, Bellevue, yielded the agents a 25-gallon still, they reported. The Schwartz woman was released on her own recognizance.

FREED, ORDERED TO REPAY BANK

Sentence was suspended late yesterday on Charles Gunther, Campania avenue, former assistant credit manager of the East End branch of the Pittsburgh-Peoples Savings and Trust Company, who pleaded guilty to embezzling $4,000 of the bank's funds Monday.

Judge George V. Moore, in Criminal Court, warned Gunther that if he failed to pay the costs of the case and make restitution to the bank, he would be forced to serve two years in the county jail.

Auto Drivers Slow To Obtain Permits

Almost a month after approximately 2,000,000 applications for 1931 Pennsylvania driver's licenses were mailed, only 17 per cent have been returned with checks covering the registration fee, the Pittsburgh Motor Club was informed last night by the Bureau of Motor Vehicles. A total of 1,939,437 drivers were licensed in 1930, and only 346,686 had ordered new cards yesterday. Drivers must have their new licenses by March 1.

Man Falls Dead Of Heart Disease

August Litz, 69, of Sixth avenue, Laurel Gardens, fell dead late yesterday while walking in a lane near Babcock boulevard, the coroner's office reported. Heart disease was given as the cause.

BOY PIANIST VISITS HERE

After two years spent in leading music conservatories in Leipzig and Paris, Henry B. Harris, of Pittsburgh, 19-year-old pianist who has won the praise of European critics, has returned to his home at 1425 Denniston avenue. He will play for Pittsburgh audiences.

Mr. Lissfelt

His mother, Mrs. Minnie Harris, and a former teacher, J. Fred Lissfelt, met him at the train. It was the first time his mother had seen him since he left Pittsburgh two years ago. Although his train was two hours late, a warm breakfast was waiting for him at home.

Harris studied at Leipzig under Robert Teichmueller and in Paris with Wanda Landowska. He has played much in Germany and recently made ar appearance with the orchestra in Leipzig in which he received favorable comment from the press. He has been offered a position as an assistant to his teacher in Berlin.

Baker Freed in Tire Theft Asks Judge 'What For'

Late yesterday in Criminal Court, Oscar Segel, 38, a baker, of 1103 Columbus avenue, pleaded no defense, and his helper, Sam Stolfsky, 28, of 209 Gist street, pleaded guilty to larceny in connection with the theft of a wheel and tire from the automobile of Joseph Meyers, 1400 Caldwell street.

It was alleged that December 21, while the men were delivering breakfast rolls, their truck broke down in front of the Meyers home, and that they took the wheel and tire from his car, parked on the street, so that they could make their deliveries on time.

Segel was amazed when Judge George V. Moore placed him on probation for 15 months, and cried out:

"Who? Me?"

The court responded:

"Yes."

Segel was still amazed:

"What for?"

Stolfsky was sentenced to from three to 12 months in the workhouse because of a previous conviction.

USE INHALATOR ON PNEUMONIA VICTIMS

2-Day Vigil With Air Device Keeps Infants Alive at Crisis; Think Peril Past

Joan and Joanne Anderson, 7-month-old twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Anderson of 1831 Kenneth avenue, Arnold, today were reported recovering from pneumonia, helped through the crisis by Arnold volunteer firemen who applied an inhalator for two days until the danger was passed.

The infants were stricken nine days ago. From Sunday until Tuesday a physician used an oxygen tank furnished by Citizens General Hospital, New Kensington. This proved unsuccessful, and on Tuesday the Arnold firemen voluntarily offered their services.

The twins showed signs of improvement almost immediately after the inhalator was first used. Today they were reported out of danger by Dr. Harold W. Thomas, the attending physician, who said the use of the inhalator would no longer be necessary unless an unexpected relapse occurred.

BEWARE OF COLDS NOW!

If Neglected They May Pave The Way For Flu Attack

TREAT COLDS PROMPTLY BUT AVOID "DOSING"

Now that flu is in the air again health authorities advise everyone to take these common sense precautions: Eat wisely, get plenty of sleep and fresh air, avoid unnecessary exposure, and above all treat every cold promptly. Colds checked quickly, get little to pull down the body resistance and may pave the way for an attack of flu with all its serious complications.

Attack Colds at the Start

At the first sign of sniffling, sneezing or other signs that you are "starting a cold," start treatment at once with Vicks VapoRub. Place some Vicks up each nostril and sniff well back. Do this several times a day. It will often prevent a little cold from developing into a big one.

If the head is clogged with mucus or phlegm, or there is much coughing, melt a tea-poonful of Vicks in about a bottle of hot water and inhale the steaming vapors for five minutes at a time. This auxiliary vapor-steam treatment with Vicks has a remarkable effect in clearing the air passages, easing the breathing, and helps keep the cold from spreading.

Double Action Effective

At bedtime, in order to get the benefit of the long-continued stimulation and inhalation effect, rub Vicks vigorously over the throat and chest and cover with warm flannel. Vicks attacks a cold in two direct ways: (1) through the skin like a poultice or plaster, drawing out the tightness and soreness and (2) at the same time, its medicated vapors, released by the warmth of the body, are inhaled direct to the irritated air passages.

Protect Children, Especially

Children should be put to bed at the first sign of a cold, and Vicks rubbed on throat and chest. Its use brings prompt relief, and avoids constant "dosing" which often upsets the digestion. When used at bedtime, Vicks often prevents sleep-disturbing "night" coughs, thus permitting needed rest for both mother and child.

Don't take chances with colds NOW!

CLAIRTON MAN ASKS CUSTODY OF THREE

Files Action Against Wife, Mother-in-law; New York Woman Sues Ex-Husband

Two habeas corpus suits, in each of which a parent wishes to get possession of children held by the other parent, are on file today in Common Pleas Court. Hearings will be held next week.

Frank B. Hindman, 908 Toman avenue, Clairton, brought suit against his wife, Elizabeth F. Hindman, and her mother, Mrs. Mary Manchen, Lich Run road, Bruceton, for custody of his two sons and daughter. They are Marie, 9; Franklyn F., 7, and Oliver W., 6.

The Hindmans separated June 14, the wife taking the children to her mother's home. January 4 he says, Mrs. Manchen notified him she could no longer care for the boys and he took charge of them.

January 26, he says, his wife came to his home, while he was away, and took the boys back to their grandmother, who has since refused to return them to him. He says the children's mother is never at home with them and avers they lack proper care. Judge James H. Gray set February 5 for a hearing.

Jane Crowe, of New York City, filed the other habeas corpus suit, directed against Charles Herman, her divorced husband. She says she is the mother of Charles H. Herman, Jr., 6, and Jackie Herman, 5.

She says a divorce was granted December 1, 1928. She retained possession of the children. January 4, Herman took the children by force from a residence in Canonsburg where she had left them, she declares.

SHARPSVILLE RAILWAY SALE APPROVED

Federal Judge Signs Order Permitting Transaction; Two Systems Submit Bids

Sale of the Sharpsville Railroad Company, a 17-mile single-track line between Sharpsville and New Wilmington unction, Mercer and Lawrence counties, to the Erie and Pittsburgh Railroad Company, and the Western New York and Pennsylvania Railway Company, for $180,059, was approved in an order signed by Judge Nelson McVicar, of the Federal District Court.

The railroad company has been under a receivership of the Federal Court since 1897, and in January, 1929, authorized its sale to the highest bidders. Under the court order the sale will become absolute in 20 days unless exceptions or objections are filed within that period, and subject to decrees of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania.

C. A. Miller, receiver for the railroad company, filed a petition citing that Erie and Pittsburgh Railroad Company bid $157,800 for the portion of the main line extending from Sixth street, Sharpsville, and a branch extending north to the Shenango River, to a connection with the Erie Railroad. Two other sections of the line brought a bid of $22,259 from the Western New York and Pennsylvania Railway Company.

The railroad has been controlled by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company.

A Personal Message from Mr. Cyril Farny, Vice-President, The Wurlitzer Grand Piano Co.

"I am proud to have this new piano bear my name. As its creator, I am confident it offers today's greatest value in a fine piano."

Cyril Farny

It took 7 years to build this piano

The new Farny Grand Piano, announced just a few days ago, has already created unusual interest among lovers of good music. It is a piano you will treasure for its superb tone, for its graceful semi-period design, for its practical compactness.

In quality and price this new piano affords a value never before approached. It is the result of years of research, of costly experiments, of testing and improving—plus the vast resources of the world's greatest music house, and the latest advancements in engineering and acoustical science.

Wurlitzer is proud to have created in the new Farny Grand, a piano which critics agree opens a new era for the enjoyment of good music in the home. It is the piano of the future—achieved today.

POLICE RADIO PASSES TEST

Following a conference with officials of the Radio Corporation of America in his office, Safety Director James M. Clark announced today he would appear before Council Monday to ask permission to erect a permanent police broadcasting station in Mt. Washington station.

For the last few days a field survey was conducted in the Pittsburgh district by radio engineers, and Clark has been informed downtown reception conditions were far beyond expectations.

A temporary broadcasting station has been erected in Mt. Washington station and tests revealed that the location was ideal. Test messages sent from the station were received at Edgeworth and North Braddock.

Clark also will ask permission to equip 30 police automobiles which, with radios installed, will cruise the city.

Trio Awaits Court Trial in Robberies

Accused of looting the grocery of Sarah Offay, at Walker's Mills, and stealing brass from box cars of the Panhandle Railroad, Chester Gillette, 25, and Joseph Wrikel, 23, of Walker's Mills, and John Herleman, 25, of Bridgeville, were in jail today waiting court trial on charges of larceny. The trio were arrested by Carnegie police and given a hearing before Justice of the Peace A. W. McMillen, of Carnegie, last night.

'Army' to Observe Night of Prayer

Col. C. B. Campbell, divisional commander of the Salvation Army, for the western district of Pennsylvania, will be the principal speaker in the "All Night of Prayer" service in the Second avenue auditorium tonight. The meeting will be participated in by other officers of the organization and will be featured by music.

Volunteer Firemen Change Co. Name

The name of the Middle Road Fire Company was changed to the Hampton Hills Fire Company at a meeting of the directors of the volunteer company. The new name was derived from Judge Moses Hampton, an early settler for whom the locality was named. It was suggested by Miss Virginia Clavert, who was awarded $10 in gold.

Kennedy to Address Princeton Alumni

Slides and motion pictures will illustrate a lecture on "Land of the Midnight Sun" by Dr. Alfred E. Emerson, professor of ecology, University of Chicago, tomorrow afternoon at 2:15 in Carnegie Museum Lecture Hall. Dr. Emerson is a noted traveler.

TWO FACE STOCK FRAUD HEARING

A preliminary hearing on charges of conspiracy, false pretense and violating the state securities law was to be given D. J. Hammond, secretary, and Dr. William Cook, a director of the Atlantic Drug and Chemical Company, in the office of Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan today.

Five other officials of the company alleged to have been involved with Hammond and Cook in the sale of $500,000 in worthless securities to more than 300 investors, are being sought by police.

Decision to hold the preliminary hearings today followed a conference of District Attorney Andrew T. Park and Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay, who was instrumental in the investigation of the stock sale, so the cases could be brought before the February grand jury.

Rail Worker Falls Dead on Street

STOP BAD BREATH

Thousands of people afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which disagreeing calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

Olive Tablets bring no griping pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound, you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Rehearsal Dinner to Be Given Clark Bridal Party on Feb. 10

Though winter has come back to town today in a wrap of snow, the spring like atmosphere of the past few weeks still lingers in the gaiety of a round of festive entertainments for this one and that one, and particularly for brides to-be. Mary Rowland Clark, daughter of James Bly Clark, of Fox Chapel road, who will marry Joseph Currier Willey, son of the Raymond Willeys, of Beacon street, on Wednesday, February 11, is one of the most feted. Today, I can tell you of plans for another entertainment for her.

Jonathan Currier Willey, brother of the bridegroom-elect, will give the rehearsal dinner in the stately Tonetz Vue Country Club on the eve of the wedding.

A large audience was in attendance yesterday at the two plays presented by the drama committee of the Twentieth Century Club. Mrs. H. Allen Machesney and Miss Eleanor Grier directed the productions which showed the same care as to business and setting that these two usually put into their dramatic supervision.

Century Club Plays

Both plays, "Between the Soup and the Savoury" and "The Pros and Cons," were by Gertrude E. Jennings. The first takes place in a modernistic kitchen, the characters being the cook, the kitchen maid and the parlor maid. These were exceptionally well portrayed by Mrs. Alvan W. Sherrill, Mrs. Thomas M. Mabon and Mrs. William J. Powell.

In the cast for the second playlet were Mrs. Henry Cole, Mrs. S. Brainard West, Mrs. E. F. W. Salisbury and Mrs. Frederick Crawford. Mrs. Cole and Mrs. West were the mother and cousin of Brenda (Mrs. Salisbury), who conveniently shouldered the responsibility of Brenda's quarrels with her husband, Freddie (Mrs. Crawford).

A group of young girls served as ushers, and tea in charge of Mrs. Horace Forbes Baker and her aides followed.

NEWEST MODE IN EVENING FROCKS SHOWN BY STYLISTS

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Jan. 30.—Stripped of straps. That is the latest bulletin from the evening frock front and most exciting news it is, too. The disappearance of the once necessary evening strap is quite interesting to trace. The wide strap became narrow, then came off the shoulder de-colletage, a movement which found tiny straps resting on the arm instead of the shoulder. And so now comes the elimination of the strap, the dress being permitted to hold its own by bones inserted in a close-fitting bodice. Of course this fashion needs the aid of a perfect neck and shoulders if it is to look well, but judging from other styles we do not think that this will deter any woman anxious to wear the strapless frock. It is a most theatrical fashion and care must be taken to assemble a perfect ensemble when wearing it, otherwise it will look rather like a fancy dress, rather than a very novel evening frock.

PIN-TUCKS ARE SEEN on many of the nicest and newest frocks, as they form a most effective and decorative trimming, as well as helping to give a splendid silhouette to the frock. The lovely frock, to the left, was seen at Jack Hylton's gala held recently at the Theater des Champs Elysees. It is an eloquent example of the pin-tucked evening frock. The material is turquoise georgette. There is a half-cape at each side in back. The soft skirt is circular. The narrow belt clasps with a turquoise and strass buckle.

THE OTHER EVENING FROCK is a new strapless model shown by Callot and is one of her most successful numbers. The close-fitting bodice is boned and the skirt is a series of box-pleated flounces. The fabric is black satin, while pale pink satin borders the decolletage and also bands the center of each skirt flounce. This frock is one that is marked for copying and duplication, as it is most picturesque and striking apart from its strapless aspect.

For COLDS

We all catch colds and they can make us miserable; but yours needn't last long if you will do this: Take two or three tablets of Bayer Aspirin just as soon as possible after a cold starts. Stay in the house if you can—keep warm. Repeat with another tablet or two of Bayer Aspirin every three or four hours, if those symptoms of cold persist. Take a good laxative when you retire, and keep bowels open. If throat is sore, dissolve three tablets in a quarter-glassful of water and gargle. This soothes inflammation and reduces infection. There is nothing like Bayer Aspirin for a cold, or sore throat. And it relieves aches and pains almost instantly. The genuine tablets, marked Bayer, are absolutely harmless to the heart.

PRUDENCE PENNY'S RECIPES

SUNSHINE CAKE WITH FRUIT FILLING—Bake a sunshine cake in a tube form. Cool, remove from pan and cut in 2 layers. Remove the top layer and fill with the following: Steam ¼ pound of raisins and ¼ pound of dried figs until well softened; then add orange juice. Top the cake with ½ pound of dates that have been pitted and mix well. Remove from the steamer and when cool enough to handle, chop fine. Reshape, making it as near the original shape as possible. Cover the cake with whipped cream.

CEREAL SAVORY SLICES—2 cups granular whole wheat cereal, 3 cups boiling water, 1 tablespoon poultry seasoning, 1 onion, 2 tablespoons butter, salt and pepper. Pour cereal into the boiling bouillon, cubes or extract and water and cook for 3 minutes. Then steam in a double boiler for 15 minutes, adding seasonings and onion, which has been fried in butter. Pour into a mold and let chill. Slice, dip in flour, brown fat and serve with a roast of pork, beef or chicken in place of dressing or fritters.

SWEETBREAD AND MUSHROOM PATTIES—Prepare 1 cup of sweetbreads and add 2 cups of diced mushrooms. Mix. Pour the liquid from the canned mushrooms into a measure and add enough top milk to make 2 cups of liquid. Blend 2 tablespoons of flour with 3 tablespoons of butter, pour liquid and allow to cook until thickened. Season well with salt, pepper and dash or two of Worcestershire sauce. Add mushrooms and sweetbreads and serve hot in pastry cases.

POPPY SEED ROLLS—Break 1 cake of compressed yeast in small bits and dissolve in ¼ cup of lukewarm water. And cupful of lukewarm water. Add flour to make a soft dough. Let rise until double in bulk. Then add 1 cup sugarwarm water, 3 tablespoon melted shortening, 1 teaspoon salt and 1 teaspoon soda and enough flour to make stiff, soft dough. Knead until very smooth and elastic about 10 minutes. Cover and let double in bulk. Then turn onto board. Cut into 16 pieces. Roll into balls and let stand on a floured board until well puffed. 10 or 15 minutes. Bake

ESCALLOPED POTATOES—Six medium potatoes, 1 cup boiling water, 2 tablespoon salt, 1 cup evaporated milk, pepper, 1 tablespoon butter.

Pare and slice potatoes. Arrange in buttered baking dish in layers, sprinkling each with salt and pepper and bits of butter. Add water and bake in a hot oven (425 Degrees F.) 20 minutes, then add diluted milk and finish baking in slow oven (250 Degrees F.).

CORN PUDDING—One pt. corn, ¼ cup evaporated milk, 2 eggs beaten slightly, ¾ cup boiling water, 1½ tablespoon salt, 2 tablespoon melted butter, 1 tablespoon sugar, dash paprika, few drops onion juice.

Combine ingredients in order given. Pour into buttered molds, set in a pan half filled with hot water and bake until firm in a moderate oven, 375 Degrees F. Chopped green pepper or ½ cup grated cheese may be added for variation. Yield 6 servings.

VEAL AND HAM PIE—Cut 1½ pounds of veal from the shoulder in small pieces, add 1 pound ham cut in small pieces. Mix well, then put into a large saucepan with boiling water to cover. Add a teaspoon pepper, 1 bay leaf and 1 onion, sliced, and cook slowly until the meat is tender. Mix 6

White Potato One of Most Staple of Foods

This staple food, just in itself highly nutritive, is most valuable to the human system when eaten in combination with eggs, fish, meat and another vegetable.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
Former Health Commissioner of New York City
United States Senator From New York

Almost as essential to a dinner as butter is to bread, the potato is an important part of the chief meal of the day. Next time you eat in a restaurant, notice how many people around you order potato in some form or other. When you eat dinner at home or at a friend's house, nine times out of ten you will have potatoes as a part of the meal.

The white potato is one of the most staple of foods. It is produced in greater quantity than any other vegetable. Originally the white potato was found in Peru and Mexico. From these countries it was taken to Spain.

The Spanish explorers were believed to have brought the plant to what is now the United States when they came in the middle of the sixteenth century. At least they were found in the Southwestern section of our country very early indeed. It was brought to the New England States in the eighteenth century.

I would not recommend the potato as a highly nutritive food. Its importance lies in the fact that it gives us valuable carbohydrates. These supply heat and energy at the minimum cost.

In order to get a properly balanced meal you should have eggs, or meat or fish, and other vegetables when serving potato. This should be borne in mind as the potato is particularly valuable when eaten with these other foods.

In addition to the carbohydrates, the potato carries vitamins A, B and C. These are not found in great amounts, but the combination of the vitamins and minerals, with the carbohydrate content, in a vegetable that is so inexpensive, makes the potato an important food.

The sweet potato does not belong to the same botanical class as the white potato. But in content and food value the two potatoes are similar. The basic difference between them is that the sweet potato contains about 5 per cent more sugar than the white potato does.

There are many different ways of serving the potato, either sweet or white. They are baked, boiled, pan roasted, mashed, creamed, stuffed, baked and candied. We must not forget potato chips and French fried, or hashed brown potatoes.

These last preparations are fried and I do not like to suggest fried foods in so general a way. However, if you and the members of your family have no digestive disturbances, then you may include fried potatoes in the diet.

Please remember to serve the potato with the other foods I have mentioned. Then you are getting the greatest possible nourishment.

ADD HEALTH TO HOT BREADS

Hot breads are tempting. But often they lack roughage. The absence of bulk from foods often results in constipation.

But now you can have hot breads with roughage. Simply add a cupful of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN to the recipe. This delicious cereal furnishes the bulk needed to assure proper elimination. You will find many appetizing recipes on the red-and-green ALL-BRAN package.

Equally tempting as a ready-to-eat cereal with milk or cream. Two tablespoonfuls daily are guaranteed to prevent and relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. In severe cases, use with each meal.

ALL-BRAN also furnishes needed iron for the body. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

tablespoons flour to a smooth paste with a little cold water. Add to the water in which the meat was cooked (there should be 3 cups of broth), bring slowly to the boiling point, stirring constantly until thick. Add meat and salt, if needed. Pour into shallow casserole dish and arrange thin slices of hard boiled eggs on top. Cover with a rich pie crust, and prick well to allow steam to escape. Bake in a 450-degree oven for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 400 degrees and bake 20 minutes longer.

WAFER MUFFINS—Beat 2 eggs until light, add 2 tablespoons shortening, melted, and 1 cup cream. Sift ½ cup flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder and 1 teaspoon salt and combine with the first mixture to make a soft dough. Form the dough into very small balls. Roll these almost as thin as paper. Bake 8 to 10 minutes in a 450-degree oven. This will make about 12 or 18 muffins.

POPCORN BALLS—Five quarts buttered popcorn, 3 cups sugar, 1⅔ tablespoons butter, 1 cup corn sirup, 1 cupful water.

Put the sugar, sirup and water into a saucepan and cook, stirring until the sugar is dissolved. Continue cooking, without stirring, until sirup reaches the soft-ball stage or 242 degrees when tested with a candy thermometer.

Add the butter and stir only enough to mix it through the sirup. Have the corn in a large bowl, so there will be room enough for mixing. Pour the cooked sirup slowly over the salted popped corn and mix well. Shape into balls with the hands, using only enough pressure to make the balls stick together. This recipe makes about two dozen medium-sized balls.

BROWN ALMOND SAUCE—Brown ¼ pound blanched and chopped almonds in 2 tablespoons of butter, add 2 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper, and slowly pour on a pint of thin cream. Bring to boiling point.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Love That Poisons Worse Than Booze or Dope

He agrees he [illegible] —his wife and [illegible] ever [illegible] wouldn't [illegible] For he [illegible] the man who [illegible] But that [illegible] from [illegible] Speak [illegible] he [illegible] other [illegible] For [illegible] come [illegible] And [illegible] turn [illegible] Shame [illegible] loneliness [illegible] cast [illegible] yet she [illegible] give him up.

Some girl [illegible] ishment. Good [illegible] goofy. But [illegible]

Dear Sally:

"You never believed so much I hope you can help me. Or at least tell me what you think I should know.

"I'm [illegible] work [illegible] man I've [illegible] tried but we [illegible] friends. I think [illegible] first [illegible] knew it. Well, it [illegible] our love that we couldn't [illegible] each other, we might break it off but we couldn't.

"Sally, I love him more than my own life. Always. And he does also. He has told it with [illegible] he does not love [illegible] but he married the [illegible] anyone else and she [illegible] him either. She is the cold and indifferent type of [illegible] anyway.

"He has four children [illegible] from 4 to 12 years, and he says that he must stick to his wife on account of these children and his job. He says he loves me much more than [illegible] have me [illegible] would [illegible] happy with me. [illegible] say he [illegible] bring [illegible] upon [illegible]

Disapproves Divorce

"But [illegible] work [illegible] man I've [illegible] tried but we [illegible] friends. I think [illegible] first [illegible] knew it. Well, it [illegible] our love that we couldn't [illegible] each other, we might break it off but we couldn't.

"Sally, I love him more than my own life. Always. And he does also. He has told it with [illegible] he does not love [illegible] but he married the [illegible] anyone else and she [illegible] him either. She is the cold and indifferent type of [illegible] anyway.

"He has four children [illegible] from 4 to 12 years, and he says that he must stick to his wife on account of these children and his job. He says he loves me much more than [illegible] have me [illegible] would [illegible] happy with me. [illegible] say he [illegible] bring [illegible] upon [illegible]

Jealous of Her

"Which would be worse for them? To get a divorce and give both his wife and me an honest place in the world or for his children to find out later that he had an affair with me?

"Well, anyway, he says that he will never give me up for he says he loves me so much he cannot live without me. But he thinks I should be satisfied with the love he gives me. I've gone through everything a woman can go through for a man and more and still I love him. He just seems to me to be more mine than hers. If I come to me with all his troubles I'm [illegible] he knows I love him and sympathize with him.

"He is insane [illegible] of me [illegible] and [illegible] about [illegible] I can't [illegible] else.

UNHAPPY JESSA."

Shall you [illegible] him? What do you mean [illegible] give him up? Maybe [illegible] of your [illegible] and [illegible] fairness [illegible] you've met. Just anything to [illegible] you. This man has never [illegible] to you. He has never even [illegible] to be [illegible] to you.

You've got [illegible] part [illegible] you've [illegible] his home [illegible] and rob [illegible] you [illegible] his wife gave [illegible] a divorce and a home. As for [illegible] love for his children that "HOOEY." And you know it. There's only one person he loves and that person is himself. And he's using your life for his self-aggrandizement quite as ruthlessly as he is using the lives of his wife and children.

After Own Happiness

For this man is [illegible] every soul that trusts him.

What'll you get if you stick by him? What you've always gotten. Grief. And more grief. Even if you could marry him, that's what you'd get. For this man has no conception of [illegible]

There's your future. Look at it straight. Does it look [illegible] you? If it does [illegible] you had a [illegible] But if it [illegible] stop kidding yourself. Stop pretending that things will ever mend. They won't and you know it.

If you want to be happy, you'll have to get busy and get going. You'll have to drop this bad dream and strike out into life for yourself.

"But I can't!" you cry. "I love him so!"

Well what of it? You have no more right to indulge a "love" that poisons you than you would have to indulge a mania for booze or hop.

So snap out of it. If you want a regular life, hand yourself one. Yes I know it will be hard at first. But it can't be half as hard as the misery you're living in now. And every day will bring you greater pride and joy and freedom. Here's hoping you have the spunk to grab them, gal.

More Expert Practice Needed in Answering Prying Persons, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

Every stratum of society has its sprinkling of amateur sleuths. With a sort of a district attorney complex their casual conversation is somewhat of a cross-examination.

Their success lies in the fact that most persons are too honest to lie and find it hard to evade answers to impertinent questions.

The only way to outsmart these persistent persons is to be just as bold in not answering as they are bold in asking.

Even under oath court witnesses seem to get away with a lot of "I don't know" and "I don't remember!"

What we need is a little more expert practice in making these answers to prying persons.

Make "not knowing" and "not remembering" your story—and stick to it!

Madge Successful in Parrying Veritzen's 'Bargaining'

Mrs. Lassiter [illegible] as I finished my [illegible] to the [illegible] Philip Veritzen [illegible] when [illegible] me how much it would mean to me to [illegible] his implacable attitude toward Noel and Mary. Upon his answer hung so much of happiness or misery for the two young people so near to my heart that I shut my ear to the tiny, yet clamorous voice which warned me that the real crux of his question was in the words "dear to you" and that my categorical query concerning the word spanned the hour of reckoning between us.

His face was as unreadable as that of an accomplished poker player when I had finished and he gazed at me steadily for several seconds before he answered. I knew in those seconds the sensations of a worm impaled upon a fishhook and was humbly grateful [illegible]

"Your [illegible] Barr, [illegible] be said at last. "What if I told you that I am willing to accept your first three conditions with [illegible] my ban" as you put it, from Noel and Mary, give Noel his position and Mary [illegible] on condition that they postpone their marriage for ten years. They may consider themselves betrothed if they wish but no marriage."

I looked at him steadily.

"You say if I tell you. Is this then only a tentative proposition, or are you empowering me to make this offer to Noel and Mary?"

"I am asking you first what you think of it," he said promptly. "The peace negotiations can be commenced later."

"Do you want a perfectly frank answer?" I asked.

"If you please," with a formal little inclination of his head.

"Then I must tell you that you are doing an injustice not only to the children but to yourself. You are making an impossible condition, one little better than the alternative you already have put before them of giving each other up."

"What do you mean by an injustice to myself?" he asked so earnestly that I found myself talking to him as I would not have dared to do, but for the apparent sincerity and anxiety of his query.

"Don't you realize," I asked, bending forward in my chair and thrilling with that most heady of all emotions, the sense of power over a listening and attentive audience, even though consisting of a single person, "that you are playing false to your own innate honesty and chivalry when you take advantage of your own power in the way you have? You are too big a man to do it, Mr. Veritzen. Can you not be generous?"

His brilliant eyes did not waver from mine as I made the plea. Far back in their black depths I saw the pinpoints of flame which I had seen and dreaded before.

And if I should be generous because of your plea, remember, no other consideration can move me, what then?"

I realized that I had been unconsciously expecting this question, or one similar, from the first. And in conjunction with it there was beating against my brain the cynical comment upon women which Philip Veritzen had written to Noel. "No woman in the world is above a price of some sort. Remember that, my son."

It could not be possible, I told myself, this strange, sinister undercurrent of meaning which I was reading into my employer's words. I was letting my imagination run away with me. But I never have had to fight harder for self-control than I did before I could say quietly:

"What then? Why, I am sure Mr. Veritzen knowing your generous nature and your devotion to your son, that you would be the happiest man in the world."

I kept my eyes steadily on him. I wanted my words to be an emphatic stop signal, if the fantastic thing I was reading into his words was true. He waited for seconds that seemed an hour, then he laughed sardonically.

"What an optimist you are!" he said. "And if you are not obliged a quality I have never noted, you have more dramatic talent than Mary. Suppose we postpone the issue of amnesty for the young people. Let it rest until after the party. If I promise you that I will not play the role of an ogre until then, but of a non-committal gentleman doing his best to be courteous — will that satisfy you?"

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

A Cause of Premature Old Age

We often hear the expression, "A man is as old as his arteries." It is certainly true that some men grow old faster than others. No two individuals even though they live under the same conditions, will reach old age at the same time. In this respect no two individuals are identically alike.

Dr. Copeland

"Arteriosclerosis" is a big word, isn't it? It means hardening of the arteries. It is observed when the change which normally occurs as old age approaches.

Some individuals acquire this change prematurely. The vessels no longer are soft and elastic. They become firm and at times may actually become brittle. Due to these changes the blood vessels actually break. When this happens, the blood rushes out, escaping into the surrounding tissues.

Any change in the elasticity of the blood vessels causes them to become less efficient. The normal artery is elastic, and, because of this elasticity, is able to propel the blood on its way in a steady, even flow. If the artery has become hard and firm, as in arteriosclerosis, the blood is not assisted on its way in the proper fashion. As a result of this the heart is compelled to work harder.

In arteriosclero is there are parts of the body which do not receive the proper blood supply. This decrease in the blood supply leads to various complaints. Chronic headaches, high blood pressure, lowered resistance to infectious diseases, disorders of the heart and kidneys—these are some of the disorders which follow these changes in the blood vessels.

Various explanations have been given as to the cause of hardening of the arteries. Some claim the trouble is due to poisons from infectious diseases, from lead poisoning or alcohol and even from the use of tobacco. Others claim overwork to be a most important factor. The overwork may be physical or mental. In any event, this condition is found as frequently among laborers as it is in college professors.

As we grow older our blood vessels become older by losing their elasticity. Undoubtedly our modern ways of living contribute to the occurrence of the condition in middle life.

No one definite thing can be said to cause this condition. But all agree that the prevention, as well as the cure, lies in simple hygienic living.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Hives are no help to the beauty seeker. They are supposed to be caused by some food to which the tumitum takes exception.

White spots on the fingernails are caused by injuries to the matrix, that soft portion of tissue located under the cuticle at the base of the nail. Metal cleaners raise mischief with fingernails; the proper instrument is an orangewood stick, which costs 10 cents and lasts for years. To remove discoloration from the nail eaves, dip the stick in peroxide, then in powdered pumice stone and excavate with the mixture.

Every case of blackheads is a potential case of acne, hence and therefore the skin must not only be kept clean, but the circulation stimulated by friction and ice rubs. Pus forms when the blackhead breaks its cell-walls. Insidious germs and germesses step in and set up a state of inflamation. Greasy foods and rich pastries should be avoided; they put a strain on the eliminating processes of the glands of the skin.

As soon as hangnails form they should be clipped off to prevent further tearing. To avoid them, keep the cuticle about the nail well oiled. Lift it up every day, very gently, with an orange wood stick. Harsh soaps weaken tissues and produce wounds.

Superfluous hair can be bleached by application of peroxide of hydrogen; it will not be so noticeable. To two teaspoonfuls of peroxide add two drops of ammonia, no more. Ammonia flays the skin and must not be applied casually. It is added to the peroxide to hasten the bleaching process. Apply with absorbent cotton.

If the hairbrush is ruinous to the marcel or the water wave, do a lot of combing with the fine part of the comb. Don't dig into the scalp. An abrasion is a menace, inviting stray germs and germesses to enter and start up housekeeping. Brushing and combing remove dust from the tress locks; it is doubtful if they have any effect upon the growth of the hair.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Change of Address

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are soon to move to another city and we desire to notify our acquaintances of the change in address.

Please inform us of the proper method for so doing.

A READER

The best way is to write informal notes telling your friends of the change and sending them the new address. Or you may have "Mr. and Mrs." cards engraved (they are, as you know, larger than the individual visiting cards, with the new address engraved in the lower right corner, in letters of the same type as those used in the name, but smaller. The first way is an informal way, of course and the last is more formal and stylish.

Avoid Confusion!

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please let me know whether it would be proper for the groom's parents and other guests invited to a formal wedding to come to the bride's home before going to the place designated for the wedding.

2. Also, is it proper to serve refreshments to these people at the bride's home? R.

No, the groom's parents and the other guests invited to the wedding go directly from their homes to the place in which the ceremony is to take place. Only the bride, her attendants and her family leave from the bride's home. And that makes enough confusion without having others come first to the home of the bride!

2. Yes usually some form of reception or tea or supper (if the wedding is in the evening) is planned for after the wedding. But of course this is not necessary.

Appreciation for the Surprise Party

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

If your friends give you a birthday surprise party, what would be the proper thing to say to show your appreciation and thanks? J.

"How very kind you were to plan this lovely party for me. Thank you so much. I have never been so touched in my life; it has been an evening of the most beautiful memories."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, January 31

The lunar configurations for this day are read as very propitious, especially favorable advancement, promotion, increase of funds and a measure of fulfilled ambitions. It is a time for forging ahead with vim and confidence, with new activities, under excellent prospects. There may be an abrupt or unwelcome change or a threatening gesture of some kind, but it may not be strong enough to circumscribe the generally auspicious rulership of Jupiter is stable.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of growth, advancement, enhanced position and finances, with fulfilled ambitions and successful new projects, although there may be some slight chord of disruptive or unwelcome tenor.

A child born on this day should be talented, ambitious, popular and enterprising and should reach good position through its own initiative and talents.

Raw Potatoes

Slices of raw potatoes are wonderful helps in removing mud stains. They will take them off of woolen materials as well as remove them from tan shoes. Just rub with the moist cut side, changing to a clean piece when soiled.

The day of her party, and her chum can't go

Nature is so inconsiderate!

POOR Alice! As old fashioned as her mother. In mother's day there was no help for the girl who suffered every month. But this is 1931!

A million modern women have ended their monthly tide's reign to pain. They make engagements — and keep them — without a thought to the time of month.

Did so can you.

If you want your periods to be painless, take Midol at regular time and the pain won't even start. If the pains have started, they will subside in from five to seven minutes. No matter how hard a time you're having, Midol never fails.

How can anything so harmless — for Midol is not a narcotic — be so effective, and act so quickly?

Ouf, the specialists who found this wonderful antidote for pain can answer that. But any woman who has tried it can tell you that Midol will remove your last excuse for ever giving in to periodic pains, headaches, etc.

Household Hints

If the hemstitching breaks in an otherwise good scarf or pillowcase, do not cast it aside but crochet either a very narrow insertion or some hairpin lace and insert it in place of the hemstitching, cutting carefully through the center of the stitching so as to leave a finished edge to which the lace may be sewn.

Before retiring at night each member of the family does his or her part in straightening up the living room, removing papers, emptying ash trays, etc. Consequently the work is greatly simplified for mother in the morning. A good plan in the average home in any family.

A wire tumbler holder screwed to the wall close to the kitchen sink is a suitable holder for the can of cleanser. This can while an absolute necessity, has a disagreeable habit of leaving a ring of dust wherever it is put down, and the tumbler holder eliminates this unpleasantness.

PERSHING REVEALS LLOYD GEORGE'S FAILURE WITH U. S.

GENERAL TOOK NO PART AT RAPALLO

Wilson's Influence Wins Allies to Supreme War Council and Closer Unity

conduct of military operations remain responsible to their respective governments.

"(4) The general war plans drawn up by the competent military authorities are submitted to the Supreme War Council, which, under the high authority of the governments, insures their concordance, and submits, if need be, any necessary changes.

"(5) Each power delegates to the Supreme War Council one permanent military representative whose exclusive function is to act as technical advisor to the council.

"(6) The military representatives receive from the government and the competent military authorities of their country all the proposals, information and documents relating to the conduct of the war.

Meets Disapproval

"(7) The military representatives watch day by day the situation of the forces and of the means of all kinds of which the Allied armies and the enemy armies dispose.

"(8) The Supreme War Council meets normally at Versailles, where the permanent military representatives and their staffs are assembled.

"It may meet at other places as may be agreed upon, according to circumstances. The meetings of the Supreme War Council will take place at least once a month.

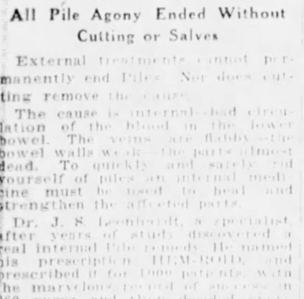
"The permanent military representatives will be as follows:

"For France—Gen. Foch.

"For Great Britain—Gen. Wilson.

"For Italy—Gen. Cadorna."

By the inclusion of sub-paragraph (4) it would seem that the prime ministers had it in mind to assume greater control of operations if it should appear necessary. While the commanders-in-chief of the allied armies were expected to attend meetings of the council, and usually did so and freely expressed their views, yet they were not members and had no vote.



Gen. Foch

The creation of this Council did not meet with universal approval. The commanders of the British and French armies and many high officials in civil circles being opposed to it. Military commanders were afraid it would result in undue interference with the conduct of operations, and in derision it was often referred to as the Soviet.

Wilson's Influence

The British Army viewed it with considerable suspicion, thinking it might substitute politicians as directors of the strategy of the war. A stronger central control by the French was advocated by influential French papers, in the fear that France might not have as much to say in Allied affairs as heretofore. Its formation indicated, however, a realization that Allied success had been retarded from the beginning by lack of coordinated effort.

The formation of the Council was a step in the direction of unified command, which was no doubt the reason why most British as well as French officers and a considerable number of those in high civil positions were lukewarm toward it, yet not a few who spoke against the Council at the time said later that they were always in favor of unified control.

The action of the three governments at Rapallo was approved by President Wilson November 17, and that fact appeared in the press a day or so later.

The President's action strengthened the hands of those who favored the Council and probably became the influence that saved it.

The fact is that if the French and British army commanders, in a friendly spirit of co-operation, had made a joint study of the military problem on the Western Front as a whole and then had seriously undertaken to pull together, as though under one control, the Supreme War Council would never have been born. And yet, when one analyzed it, harmony seemed very improbable with two peoples of such different points of view.

Allies' Views Differ

For example, as we have seen, the offensive in the spring of 1917, which was under French leadership, received only half-hearted approval by the British. Then later on, when the British undertook their offensives, the French were in no position to attack at the same time, so each apparently made plans independently and any advantage attained was purely local, with little material effect upon the final outcome.

The Supreme War Council made a favorable start and gave the impression that a wise and conservative exercise of its really unlimited powers would characterize its actions.

It refrained from interfering directly with military commanders and operations and confined itself largely to question of policy, such as the co-ordination of allied resources and the conservation and distribution of allied strength. However, as time went on, the Supreme War Council assumed greater and greater authority over military questions.

As to the political situation, the undercurrent at the moment, as nearly as could be learned, showed a continued lack of accord among the different nations which were not at all in agreement with President Wilson's ideals.

Each had its own aspirations and each sought to gain some advantage over the others. Some of the divergent war aims had to do with territory distant from France, and troops were sent that might have been more usefully employed on the Western Front.

In a letter to Secretary of War Baker I enclosed a memorandum which was a report of a conversation held by a man in my confidence with a British official high in the counsel of Great Britain. The date of this conversation was October 24, 1917.

Mr. Baker

"Perhaps it should not be taken too seriously," I wrote, "but it is an indication of the British attitude."

In this conversation the British official declared:

"The European Allies and America are not fighting for the same thing. Mr. Wilson thinks a great deal more of his ideas of people governing themselves, of a friendly working arrangement among all the greater powers after the war, than he does of territorial or specific things going to this or that country. What he wants is to smash the German military power and have a society of democratic nations afterwards. But to England, France and Italy these things are phrases, useful, perhaps, but of secondary interest.

Warns of Propaganda

"England wants to maintain her colonial possessions, to keep her position on the sea, and her commercial peace in the world. We know what France wants—Alsace-Lorraine, as indemnity and security for the future. Italy has definite territorial claims. Thus the governments of these countries think a great deal about what they want for themselves and less about ideals, unless these ideals are incidental to success. So there is no clear unity among the Allies in Europe and America."

Experienced Allied officers in position to know were of the opinion that the Italian Army, especially its artillery, was not as efficient as it ought to have been, and that the training of officers, especially, had been neglected. The view also prevailed that German Socialist propaganda was in a measure responsible for the Italian defeat at Caporetto.

It was believed that by inundating the army with the same doctrines that had ruined Russia, Germany made the defeat of the Italian Second Army less difficult when attacked by specially trained German troops, whose presence and intentions ought to have been known before the attack.

At any rate, whether this view was entirely correct or not, there was sufficient reason for me to warn our War Department by cable that "precaution should be taken in America through the intelligence division, general staff, also through the Department of Justice, supplemented by counter-propaganda through pulpit and press, if feasible, in order to prevent similar insidious attempts at corruption of our people and our army."

All Pile Agony Ended Without Cutting or Salves

External treatments cannot permanently end Piles. Nor does cutting remove the cause.

The cause is internal—bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel. The veins are flabby—the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To quickly and safely end yourself of piles an internal medicine must be used to heal and strengthen the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, a specialist, after years of study discovered a real internal Pile remedy. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for Pile patients. With the marvelous record of success in 960 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID from their own druggist.

Don't waste time on external remedies or think of the pain and expense of an operation until you have tried HEM-ROID. Mayr & Liggett's will supply you and guarantee money back if it does not end all Pile misery.

Don't neglect a COLD

DISTRESSING cold in chest or throat—that so often leads to something serious—generally responds to good old Musterole with the first application. Should be more effective if used once every hour for five hours.

This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other helpful ingredients brings relief naturally. Musterole gets action because it is a scientific "counter-irritant"—not just a salve—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation, helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by doctors and nurses.

Keep Musterole handy—jars and tubes.

Fame is fleeting, indeed . . . Yorke & Adams were so well known some time ago in the American playhouses . . . Adams returned from Britain a few months ago, where for 14 years he had starred in such pieces as "Potash and Perlmutter," and "Welcome Stranger" . . . He triumphed in those shows in South Africa and Australia and other countries . . . When "Once In a Lifetime" was tried out, Adams was introduced to Moss Hart, the co-author, who thought he would be ideal for the role of the Jewish movie magnate . . . But George S. Kaufman said he had never heard of Yorke & Adams, and wouldn't even give him a reading of the role . . . When the Pacific Coast company of the hit was being cast, however, Hart finally prevailed upon Kaufman to give the actor a reading . . . Then Kaufman told Adams he wasn't inherently a Jewish dialect comic, being more of a Weber & Fields type . . . The part then was handed to Louis Sorin—who at one time was an understudy to Yorke & Adams!!!

DEATH OF LERIAN BLOW TO PITCHERS

IN RECENT DISCUSSIONS of form reversals disclosed by the official records for the 1930 season, baseball men have confessed themselves at a loss to understand sudden slumps by two former members of the pitching staff of the Philadelphia Nationals, both of whom have since been transferred to other clubs. One is Claude Willoughby, right hander, who came to the Pirates with Shortstop Tommy Thevenow in the Dick Bartell deal, and the other is Lester Sweetland, southpaw, purchased by the Cubs.

Walter Lerian

From their performances of last year it would be hard to recognize Willoughby and Sweetland as the slabmen of the same names who hurled for the Phillies in 1929. Season before last Willoughby won 15 games against 14 defeats for a percentage of .517, and the average number of earned runs scored against him was five. Sweetland won 13 games against 11 defeats for a percentage of .542, and his earned run average was 5.12. Their combined records showed a total of 28 games won against 25 lost, strong pitching when the supporting company is a club as weak as the Quakers.

BUT LAST YEAR saw both flingers falling off to an almost unbelievable extent. Willoughby won but four games while losing 17, for a percentage of only .190, and his earned-run figures jumped to 7.50 per nining innings, an increase of 50 per cent. Sweetland won only seven games while losing 15, and his earned-run average mounted to 7.71.

By their combined efforts, the two hurlers won only 11 games against 32 defeats in 1930, as compared with 28 victories against 25 defeats in 1929. That indicates a tremendous loss of effectiveness. Rarely has a single season made such a huge difference in the form of two chuckers on the same club.

ISN'T IT BARELY possible that the Willoughby-Sweetland slump may have been due partly to the loss of the help that was taken away from them by an automobile accident in Baltimore shortly after the close of the 1929 season, in which Catcher Walter Lerian lost his life.

Walter was one of the smartest young catchers in the majors. He carried an old baseball head on his youthful shoulders, was an exceptionally able handler of pitchers, and just the type of backstop that can increase largely the effectiveness of the man on the mound.

THE CLEVER MANNER in which Lerian handled the Philadelphia pitchers was rated a big factor in the improved form shown in 1929 by Willoughby and Sweetland. So it is logical to believe that the loss of the young receiver's heady support was the main item that caused the two twirlers in 1930 to fall 17 victories short of the number they won in 1929. There has never been a more convincing illustration of the important part the right kind of catching plays in the success of a pitcher.

Charley Hyatt

CHARLEY HYATT, former Pitt basketball star, is shining on California courts as brilliantly as he did for the Panthers. Paul Lowry writes in the Los Angeles "Times": "If the Los Angeles A. C. doesn't send its basketball team to the national A. A. U. championships this year, somebody should have his head examined.

"The Mercuries have one of the sweetest combinations that ever took the floor, and Charley Hyatt and Rags Wilcox are two of the greatest players that ever performed under the hoop. Hyatt and Wilcox are speed streaks who start faster than Charley Borah, and with Pickell, Reason and Smith added, Los Angeles has one of those teams you hear about but seldom see."

THE LONGEVITY RECORD for thoroughbred stallions in this country, and probably in the world, was broken this week when Broomstick, at the Whitney breeding farm in Kentucky, entered his thirty-first year.

The previous mark of 30 years was set by Himyar, originator of the famous Domino strain. Bonnie Scotland, Broomstick's great grandsire, lived to 27 years old, and Lexington died at 25. Broomstick's greatest triumph in his racing days was the winning of the Brighton Handicap over Irish Lad and High Ball in 1904 in new world record time of 2:02 4-5 for a mile and a quarter.

SOME OF THE most keenly contested amateur boxing bouts of the season in this district are in prospect for Wednesday and Thursday nights, February 11 and 12, when a Golden Glove tournament will be held by the McKeesport Athletic Club at the Palisades rink in McKeesport. There will be competition in the 112, 118, 126, 135, 147, 160 and 175-pound and heavyweight classes. In each division a golden glove with a diamond inset will be awarded to the winner and a plain golden glove to the runner-up, and in addition the winners will qualify for the final tournament, to be held in Pittsburgh. A team trophy also will be awarded to the club scoring the greatest number of points. No entry fee will be charged, and the list, open only to registered A. A. U. members of 18 years or older, will close on Saturday night, February 7, with John T. Taylor, A. A. U. headquarters, Pittsburgh, or James F. McGirr, Palisades rink, McKeesport.

SOL SALTZMAN, captain of Penn State's basketball team, has participated in four sports there. He is the regular catcher on the baseball team, was on the varsity football squad two seasons, and last fall was a regular on the soccer team.

Saltzman was only a substitute in basketball as a sophomore, but last season he became a regular guard. He ranked fourth on the squad in scoring, with 17 field goals and 10 free throws as his season's total.

THE POSSIBILITY OF a title championship being won or lost in a place where it does not exist is the freakish situation that will be presented in New York tonight.

Jack "Kid" Berg

The junior welterweight title is not recognized in the Empire State, yet Herman Perlick would acquire that crown if he were to win over Jack "Kid" Berg in tonight's bout.

IT ISN'T THE first instance of the sort, for it was in New York that Benny Bass stripped Tod Morgan of the junior lightweight championship, another synthetic title that does not exist in the eyes of that state. However, there isn't much chance that the honors will change hands. Perlick has twice given Berg an interesting argument but doesn't quite pack the class required to beat him. Incidentally, this will be the second time in eight days that Berg has defended his laurels, as only last Friday night he defeated Goldie Hess in Chicago. A side feature of interest will be the first New York appearance of Tony Herrera, the Mexican lightweight who is a Pittsburgh favorite. Herrera, who stopped Phil McGraw in four rounds in Lansing Tuesday night, will meet Sammy Dorfmann tonight in the semi-final.

By CARLE W. SHATTO.

The Buffalo jinx, an invisible defiance which the Bisons use in persuading the hockey fates to smile on them whenever they are opposed to the Yellow Jackets, appeared in the guise of a Pittsburgh penalty in the last minute of a bitter battle at Duquesne Garden last night, and the International League leaders emerged triumphant over the local puckmen, 1 to 0.

For 58 minutes of the 60-minute fight the Jackets spilled the Bisons with fierce body checks and rocked 'em with a smashing attack. As early as the middle of the third period the invaders, wearied and well battered, started shooting from mid-ice, indicating that they would be glad to call it quits and accept a scoreless tie.

PENALTY DECIDES BATTLE

And then, when only two minutes of play remained, came the break that broke the Pittsburgh team and the hearts of a capacity crowd of its followers. Gordy Fraser, local defense man, who was a tower of strength throughout the battle, was the man on whose shoulders the Buffalo jinx elected to perch. He was banished for a questionable infraction of the rules, and the Bisons, very cautious when the Jackets had six men on the ice, but very brave when they held an advantage in man power, stormed the Pittsburgh cage in one last, desperate effort to break the scoring ice.

For 60 seconds the Buffalo forwards stormed the Jacket citadel, and for 60 seconds Goalie Albie Cox and his mates turned aside thrust after thrust. And then, just as the light was flashed on the figure 19 on the timer's sign, indicating that the last minute of play was at hand, Gross brought Cox to his knees with a shot to a lower corner of the cage. Albie saved brilliantly, but before he could regain his feet Lederman captured the puck on the rebound and passed it to Martin, waiting in front of the cage. All the latter had to do was push the disc into an open net, and that is exactly what he promptly did.

WIN STRING BROKEN

The final gong sounded immediately after the face-off which followed, before the Jackets could engineer a single rush into Buffalo territory.

The defeat was the fifth which the Jackets have sustained in six meetings with the Bisons this season. The other duel resulted in a 1-1 tie.

The setback had other distasteful features in that it broke a Pitsburgh success string of four wins and a tie, and deprived the locals of a chance to pass the Cleveland Indians and capture undisputed possession of fourth place in the torrid race. The Indians, 1929-30 champions, who are finding title defending a very troublesome and difficult business, are to appear here tomorrow night, and the Jackets will have another opportunity to move into the last play-off and pay-off berth at that time.

Although it produced only one goal, last night's battle was the fiercest and most bitterly contested of the season here. The first period was largely one smashing body check after another, and the fans, packed in solidly from the edge of the ice to the walls, roared

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE ORIGINAL JACK DEMPSEY'S NAME WAS NOT DEMPSEY—The original Jack Dempsey, "The Nonpareil," whose name really was John Kelly, was born in County Kildare, Ireland, December 15, 1862. His first professional fight was on April 7, 1883, and he proved his claim to the middleweight championship in 1884. In 1889, he lost a 32-round bout to LeBlanche, but LeBlanche was not recognized as champion because he used the infamous "pivot punch." The "Nonpareil" lost the middleweight crown to Bob Fitzsimmons at New Orleans, January 14, 1891. (Reference: Editor, Ring Magazine, New York City.)

JOHN TO WORK WITH LAYDEN AS MANAGER

GAMES TONIGHT.

Canisius at Thiel.
Slippery Rock at Millersville.

By JESS CARVER.

Adherents and enthusiastic boosters of Duquesne University, who have been worrying about John Holohan and John Holohan's job following the naming of Elmer Layden, director of athletics and head football coach, to the chairchairmanship of the athletic council, may sit back in their seats and indulge in a sigh of relief. Holohan is still graduate manager and figures to remain as such.

John Holohan

Rt. Rev. Joseph J. Callahan, new president of the university, has no intention of displacing the capable Holly, nor of interfering with his position. He'll work with Layden, and will have the same responsibility and duties he has had in the past, and which he has acquitted with such splendid success.

SOMETHING NEW

In naming the football coach as head of the athletic committee, Duquesne is trying something a bit out of the vogue. There are very few schools in the country where the coaches have any say at all on the athletic council. At Pitt, even W. Don Harrison, director of athletics, does not rate a vote, despite the fact that he is secretary of the board. At no other tri-state institution is there a coach of any sport included on the membership rolls of an athletic council or committee.

Holohan will serve as a member of the Duquesne committee under, or with, Layden. It is hardly likely that Layden will disregard Holohan's experience and ability. He'll be a valuable aide to the new director, understanding many of the intricacies of the Duquesne situation much better than Layden can hope to at present.

The plan at Duquesne is as follows: The athletic committee, which is to consist of Layden as chairman; Joe Bach, assistant football coach; Chick Davies, basketball coach; John Holohan, graduate manager and alumni, faculty and student members yet to be named, will act primarily as a suggestive committee. Its recommendations will go before a committee of deans, sort of a committee on committees, and must get the O. K. of this body before being sent to President Callahan.

Layden, of course, will shoulder the responsibility as athletic director which, with the responsibility that attends the turning out of a winning football team, will be plenty heavy.

All of which is the penalty for landing in the czar class.

The Tipoff

Bob Waddell, Tech's football coach, is recovering from an attack of that very popular and stylish malady, intestinal flu. Bob Waddell doesn't mind being ill, but he hates to think of being operated on; the very thought of a medico sticking him with a knife being enough to set him into fits.

"I'm always afraid of having one of those birds slicing me open and then stamping 'Opened By Mistake,' on my tummy."—Robert N. wails.

According to W. Don Harrison, of whom you may have heard in connection with Pitt's athletics, the Panthers have turned down bids for football games for next year in New Orleans, Utah in Salt Lake City, Southern Methodist in Dallas, Western Maryland in Baltimore, Williams and Mary, University of Virginia and St. John's College at Annapolis.

Francis (Mio) Murray, former Ambridge, High and Bellefonte Academy football, basketball and ring star, is at present attending Marshall Junior College in Marshall, Texas. Murray will complete his prep school work this spring. He may enter Rice Institute for his college work.

Carnegie Tech is going to take its football team to Atlanta next fall to play Georgia Tech, by way of Washington, D. C. The original plan was to go via Cincinnati, but Graduate Manager Overend,

SPORT SHORTS

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—(AP.)—Densmore Shute, Columbus, O., pro, and defending champion of the Texas open, and Lorraine Young, San Antonio amateur, won the pro-amateur event here with a brilliant 69. Young's putting was sensational on the back nine.

CHICAGO.—(AP.)—Emmett Pare, of Chicago, third ranking star of the West, won the Western Association and 1929 national clay court champion, yesterday turned professional and agreed to join Big Bill Tilden's professional troupe.

CHICAGO.—(AP.)—Robert B. Harper, of Denver, defending champion, won the opening block on his national amateur three-cushion challenge match against Dr. Andrew J. Harris, of Chicago, 50 to 34, in 61 innings.

COLUMBUS, Miss.—(AP.)—Trego and Evergreen Jersey Mack were crowned champion and runner-up, respectively, in the National Club's field trials derby championship at Marland Circle M Ranch, near here.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—(AP.)—J. B. Ryerson, of Cooperstown, N. Y., and Kenneth Berry, of Miami, went into the final of the Miami Beach men's amateur championship this morning, their semi-final matches from Pony McAtee, Jamaica, L. I., and Win Day, Chicago, respectively.

LINCOLN, England.—(AP.)—The honor of carrying the top weight in the Lincolnshire Handicap, first feature race of the 1931 flat racing season, has been assigned to Capt. J. D. Cohn's Slipper, a French entry.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 30.—Mrs. Robert Tyre Jones, Jr., wife of the most renowned and accomplished of golfers, yesterday gave birth to a seven-pound baby girl. Miss Eleanor, the new member of the Jones family, has a sister, Mary Malone, aged 6, and a brother, Bobby III, aged 4.

NOVAK STOPPED IN FOURTH

Frank Novak, North Side heavyweight, ran into a neat surprise package last night at the Palisades, McKeesport, and suffered a technical knockout defeat at the hands of Benny Touchstone, veteran Jewish heavyweight, of Detroit.

The end came after one minute and 30 seconds of fighting in the fourth round with Novak on the floor from a barrage of stiff rights and lefts to the head. Referee Jack Henderson had reached the count of three when the towel came fluttering from Frank's corner as an emblem of defeat.

Benny staggered Novak in the first round with a hard right to the jaw and followed this up in the third by flooring Frank for a count of nine with a pair of hard rights to the jaw. The knockdown served to put him in line for the final killing. Novak weighed 194¼, against 190 for Touchstone.

Billy (Muscles) Scholes, local lightweight, had all the better of the eight-round semi-final bout with Al Reno, of Youngstown, O., winning the unanimous verdict of the judges and referee. Scholes weighed 136, Reno 135¼.

Johnny Ruff, of Canton, after taking two short counts in the second round of the second scheduled six-round bout with Walter Ketchell, of Pittsburgh, slid to the floor from an easy right and was counted out. The local boy weighed 165½ and Ruff 157½. Al Ferone, 131½, of Pittsburgh, lost the six-round curtain-raiser to Jimmy Reilly, 136, of McKeesport. Ferone floored Reilly for a count of nine in the fourth round, the only one in which he showed superiority.

DE HART'S MOTHER DIES

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Jan. 30.—Mrs. Mary Amanda Dehart, 73, of 606 Tenth street, mother of Jimmy Dehart, former all-America football player with Pitt in 1916 and now coach at Washington and Lee University, died Tuesday night in the Citizens' General Hospital of a complication of diseases. Mrs. Dehart was born June 18, 1859, at Caldwells Furnace, Clarion County.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Frank Dane, of Chicago, manager of Harry Fierro, who was here with the star boxer for his bout with Johnny Datto at Motor Square Garden the other night, told a good story of his days as a promoter in Boston . . . He had Gene Tunney matched with Erminio Spalla, the Italian heavyweight, in the Mechanics Building arena . . . It cost $1,000 to open the doors of the place and the advance sale was so slim that he couldn't see his way through . . . The night before the show he had sold less than $500 worth of tickets and began to look for a way out . . . Before dawn he hit upon a scheme of postponing the affair, giving as the reason a cold suffered by Spalla . . . With the coming of morning, Boston was engulfed in a blizzard that tied up even street car traffic and Dane was thanking his lucky stars that he had canceled the affair when up popped Spalla to declare that he "no had cold" and wanted to fight . . . "What? You no have cold!" snapped Dane in feigned surprise. "Well, it's all right, anyway, because I have cold feet!"

Pete Tyrell, matchmaker of the Arena in Philadelphia, is in favor of doing away with decision bouts in Pennsylvania as a result of the hullabaloo over the scrambled verdict in the Tommy Loughran-Jack Gross battle last Monday night and similar disturbances over other recent matches there . . . In this stand for a return to newspaper decisions, he has the support of at least one Pittsburgh district promoter, who has been agitating such a move for a long time . . . In the days before the sport was legalized in this state, we had newspaper verdicts and the fans, instead of condemning officials at the ringside, vented their spleen on the fight reporters the following day . . . It is a question which is the worse evil, but Tyrell's announcement at least is an indication of the way the wind is blowing.

Tom Keen, the big dog racing man with interests in many states, is a visitor in town for a few days. . . . He ran the successful meetings staged at New Kensington last spring and fall and plans to return again for a program when the weather breaks . . . Jimmy Thomas, Hill district Negro bantamweight, who boosted his stock considerably with his clean-cut victory over Ollie Bartlett at the Garden Tuesday night, was celebrating his twentieth birthday on that occasion.—HARRY KECK.

BOB MORRISON IN FINAL

PINEHURST, N. C., Jan. 30.—Robert G. Morrison, of Pittsburgh, reached the final of the St. Valentine's links tournament yesterday, defeating J. T. Hunter, of North Adams, Mass., the defending champion, by 4 and 2. Morrison faces F. H. Gates, of Montclair, N. J., for the title today.

Mrs. Harry V. Maxwell, of Spring Lake, N. J., former Pittsburgh girl, defeated her sister, Helen B. Morrison, of Pittsburgh, 3 and 2, in the semi-final of the Pine Needles tournament.

In the third division, Mrs. G. A. Magoon, Pittsburgh, defeated Mrs. E. C. Bliss, of Pinehurst, 2 up.

TITLE GAME TODAY

The Allegheny County grade school soccer championship will be decided this afternoon when the Forward Township and Heidelberg teams meet on the Lock No. 3 grounds. Play will get under way at 3 o'clock.

ED MILLER GETS NAVY BERTH

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Edgar Miller, all-America guard at Notre Dame in 1924 and line coach at the Naval Academy for the last five years, will succeed Navy Bill Ingram as head football coach.

Miller has been a member of the coaching staff at the academy since 1926, when Ingram first took over the grid reins and turned out an undefeated team.

Naval Academy athletic officials would neither confirm nor deny that Miller had been selected for the vacancy created when Ingram signed a contract to become head coach at the University of California, but did say he would return to the academy as a coach.

A high athletic official said, however, that Miller had been agreed on, but that the formal announcement of the appointment would not be made for several days.

Ingram and Miller had only fair success with the Middies last season, winning six games and losing four. The close post-season New York charity game with the Army, which the underdog Middies lost by only a single touchdown, was considered a redeeming feature, however.

One Soccer Game Carded Tomorrow

Only one soccer game is carded for tomorrow, Bridgeville meeting Clan Douglas in the semi-final round of the West Penn cup at Garfield Park.

On Sunday, Bower Hill meets Mollenauer at Bridgemont in the Panhandle League. Morgan entertains Dunlevy in the Keystone loop, and in the Mon-Yough League two games will be played. Gallatin going to Elizabeth and Mather appearing at Victory Hill. Brannigan is at Morgan, Rutherford at Bridgemont, Lumsden at Elizabeth and O'Conner at Victory Hill.

ANDY PETROLIO MAY BE PRO AT SCHENLEY

Thurnblad Succeeds Layton as World Three-Cushion Billiard King

CADDIE CHIEF MENTIONED FOR BERTH

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

While a number of men have been mentioned as possible successors to Al McBride as professional at the Schenley Park municipal links now that Al is all set to take up his work at the South County Park course, the man who has the inside run for the position is none other than Andy Petrolio, for 13 years caddiemaster and assistant at the city's free layout.

Andy Petrolio would be eminently satisfactory and of little surprise to learn of the appointment of the persevering caddiemaster to the higher job.

Those who have been named as applicants are Bob Graham, Pat McDonough, S. Walter Phillips, Dick Wessell, Steve O'Neil, Chuck Onoretta and Francis Brennan.

Carl F. Kauffmann, former National and city public links champion, who also would make an ideal man for the job has declined, with thanks. He doesn't want the berth.

Among the Schenley old-timers who will return are Eddie Kunold, club superintendent; John Kauffmann, greenkeeper; Tom O'Keefe, time clerk, and Frank Petrolio.

Dale Zimmerman, by the way, has been re-signed at Chartiers Heights and will be back again in the spring. Ray Mink, Chartiers' manager, also will return. Jess Cramer, the new vice president, is the poet laureat at that club, his splendid works having appeared often in publications of merit.

PAULISTS MEET I. K. S. FIVE

By JULIUS LEVIN

The Butler Paulists, their lineup shaken up as a result of their ragged exhibitions in recent games, make their second appearance of the season in Pittsburgh tonight when they oppose the Irene Kaufmann Settlement House passers on the I. K. S. floor. The Butler Paulists defeated the local stars in a game at Butler earlier in the season and tonight's contest is a return engagement.

The Butler County champions will present several new faces tonight, according to Father Ricards, advisor of the team, due in a large measure to the poor showing of his favorites of late. As a result of the changes the Paulists have been flashing their best form of the season.

In the preliminary game, the I. K. S. Wagner League champs oppose Homewood Presbyterian.

Action in the County League, in which three clubs, the Lafayettes, Ellwood City Manhattans and Charlerol Merchants are tangling for the second half championship, is suspended tonight, all teams being idle. The Ellwood City Manhattans will be given a chance to improve their chances for the title tomorrow night when they invade Charlerol to meet the Merchants.

Community House, not disheartened by a defeat at the hands of the Paulists, meets Penn Five in a West Penn League game tonight, while Brentwood plays at Penn Cadets in a Metropolitan League fray. Rankin Christian Center is at Downtown Y, in an Amateur League contest, while the Trinity Royals go to Latrobe.

When they caught up with Beggs he had just gone through his third red light.

Boxing is the latest sport to appear on the athletic program at Duquesne, and Ed Daugherty, of Regent Square, who learned the art of trading punches in the Navy, is to instruct the Duke pugilists.

Immediately after the present vacation from classes being enjoyed by the Duquesne students ends, next Thursday morning, there will be a call to arms. A meeting was held yesterday on the Duke campus as a lot of boxing equipment arrived at the Duquesne gymnasium, and more than 20 men will be out for the sport.

Stadium Silent On Walker Bout

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Chicago Stadium officials today were silent on current reports that they would attempt to match Jack Sharkey and Mickey Walker in June as a counter-attraction to the New York Madison Square Garden's proposed Max Schmeling-Young Stribling fight at Soldier Field here.

Walker always has been a big attraction in Chicago and the Chicago Stadium officials admit their belief that he and Sharkey would provide a match able to attract customers away from the championship fight.

Building Up Big Fights

By IKE DORGAN, The Man Behind Tex Rickard's Fistic Ballyhoos.

CHAPTER XVII.

When Tex Rickard headed for California with his Jeffries and Johnson championship bout, he had the assurance of "all hands" that everything would be fine and dandy.

He even had the assurance of Gov. James E. Gillett that he would officially sanction the bout, a word the Governor broke in the end because of the terrific social and religious pressure brought to bear upon him.

Former Gov. Gillett.

Rickard's sole reason for picking out the Golden State as his battleground was that he had one thought in mind. Boxing was legal in California at the time. There was no great objection to "mixed" bouts, or hadn't been up to that time. Strangely enough, the old edict laid down by John L. Sullivan, that a Negro should not get an opportunity to win the title, had been in vogue. It just happened that the giants of Johnson's race never had come up to a title bout, as was the case with Johnson. Had Tommy Burns spurned any overtures for a bout with Lil' Ahtha', Johnson never would have got his chance and Rickard's debut on the great "big time" might have been considerably delayed. He might not have started promoting on a big scale at all. It is one of the little twists that only fate can answer.

JEFF TEX'S IDOL

Back of Rickard's desire to put Jeffries and Johnson into the ring was an overwhelming admiration for Jeffries. Always, right up to the day he died, Jeffries was Rickard's ideal fighting man. He often declared that the Jeffries that defeated Monroe and Corbett and Fitzsimmons the second time never could have been beaten on this earth. I always thought Tex was carried away by the exploits of Dempsey, but when you tried to tell him that the Dempsey of Toledo could have whipped the Jeffries of the second Fitzsimmons fight he wanted to toss you through the side of the building. Only those close to Tex knew of his unshaken faith in that particular Jeffries.

Tex was far-sighted in the matter of bringing Jeff and Jack together. He seemed to sense racial trouble, but I doubt that he or anybody else could have predicted all of the rumpus that Johnson's victory over Jeffries was going to cause. Tex had no knowledge of what those race riots would do in the way of having valuable money-making fight films barred in all states except the one in which it was taken. The law prohibiting the carrying of fight films from one state to another never would have been passed had it not been for Rickard's famous "mixed" bout.

GLEASON "CUT IN"

Boxing had been firmly established in California for so many years that Rickard, quite naturally, of course, figured all he had to do was to pitch his ring. Boxing as an institution was as old as the Golden State itself. So Tex moved in with a light heart. Backed and bucked up by the money of his friend from Ely, Nev., Tex had plenty of nerve. Always it was his greatest asset.

Jeffries liked Sam Berger. Jeff made few friends. A sullen, big devil, he probably had fewer chums than any man in the world. Bob Vernon, the Pomery agent, was one of them, and Berger another.

Berger was one of those who persuaded Jim that he ought to come back and win the title for the white race. Sam was an oily talker, possessed of a glib tongue, and Jeffries listened to him.

Berger had been associated in some way with Jack Gleason, a hail fellow, well met, around the Olympic Club in San Francisco. Gleason convinced Berger he ought to use his influence with Jeff so that Gleason would be declared in if Jeffries came back to fight.

Berger did that little thing for Gleason, and, when Tex got the fight by plunking down a record bid, he found he couldn't get Jeffs signature to the articles of agreement unless Gleason was "in."

ALSO SAM BERGER

Gleason horned in, all right. When Tex got that precious signature, it wasn't before he had written in Jack Gleason as his partner. Of course, Gleason cut Berger in, too. Jeff saw to that. All little pals together. It burned up Tex, but he had to go for it. He was coming into outside territory. Gleason's and Berger's home lot, and they were for being part of the picture. Speaking of the picture, reminds me that, when Tex paid off Johnson after the fight, the big Negro stood between the partners, Rickard and Gleason. Tex used to point to that picture and rave:

"Look at that feller, Gleason. He had no more business in there with me than the newsboy on the corner. He jess shove heesef in where he didn't belong. He never did a thing. He was a total stranger to me all through the promotion of that fight. I never seed anything like it."

When Rickard walked in on San Francisco with his little scheme he found an unusual situation.

Three clubs were alternating in the promotion of boxing. With California it wasn't new. It long had been a custom and had been designed to curb over-production, an idea that many boxing centers at this late day might adopt. It prevented silly and disastrous bidding by rival clubs.

The boxing authorities simply said:

"Jim Coffroth, you are to run four times in the year. Firecracker Jim Griffin, you go three, and, Louie Blot, you can have four months in which to operate."

ARENA JOB BEGUN

When Rickard bobbed up there was a fine young row on his hands. The three promoters wanted a part of the show, especially Griffin, who had the July permit, the month in which Rickard proposed to put his stars into the ring.

It didn't take Tex long to get Jim out of the way. Tex gave him a cash and percentage consideration that insured Griffin more money than he ever had made as an independent promoter.

Tex looked around for a location. Everything was running like oil down a window pane, so thought Rickard. He didn't know what trouble was brewing for him. Politicians and rival promoters were squawking. Everybody wanted a bit. But the real trouble was to come.

Tex bought his lumber and began the erection of his arena in Eighth street, near Market, an ideal spot so far as San Francisco was concerned.

He hired Jim McLaughlin, a builder of that city, to put up his arena. McLaughlin had built the one at Goldfield and later was to build the one at Toledo.

GOVERNOR RECANTS

Fight talk was at fever heat. Work was being rushed on the vast arena as newspaper men, artists, special writers and photographers from every corner of the earth began to pour into the city. Hotels were being swamped with reservations and big business was wearing a high hat and grinning widely.

Then out of a clear sky came a bombshell that would have driven any promoter save Tex Rickard right down to the wharf for a plunge into the San Francisco bay.

Governor Gillett suddenly had announced that the heavyweight battle would not be permitted.

Tex went to Sacramento to see Gillett. Why had the governor reversed himself?

He told Rickard quite frankly that the bout could not take place in California because of the overwhelming objections of church people.

"I'm sorry, Rickard, but you have no idea how they've come down on top of me because I was ready to permit this contest taking place. I've got letters enough to fill this room from floor to ceiling from all over the country. I can't allow you to go through with it. I'm sorry."

Tex acted immediately. He knew his Nevada. He would switch to Reno, Nev. He made that announcement without further hemming and hawing.

TOURNEY DATES SET

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Dates for the annual championships of the Washington County Interscholastic Athletic Association have been set, both to be held at Trinity High School. The girls' meet will be held the last week of February and the boys' March 6. Dates for the girls' meet are Tuesday, March 3, and being completed March 9, 11 and 12. California High School, due to increased enrollment, moved from Class II into Class I.

FISH MENTIONS LETZELTER IN ARMY PROBE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Congressman Hamilton Fish, Jr., representing the West Point district, has requested Gen. MacArthur, chief of staff of the Army, to investigate the activities of W. T. Wrightson, of New York.

Maj. Frank Sasse, Army football coach, and Cadet Paul Carroll, manager-elect of the Army team, in connection with the attempt of Kenneth Goff, Rhode Island State College oackfield star, to obtain an appointment to the Military Academy.

Fish contends that there have been many instances of athletic irregularities at West Point. He says that the War Department knew that Cyril Letzelter, former Carnegie Tech star, was over the 22-year age limit before he was admitted to the academy in 1929, and that he was permitted to contribute to the Army's win over Harvard and tie with Yale before he was declared ineligible last fall.

JACKETS BOW TO BISONS

TAUGHER THWARTS LOCALS

Close guarding continued to prevail in the second period as the rivals dueled cautiously but bitterly and waited for a break. Penalties were the only signals for sustained attacks, and in the end penalties decided the issue. The Jackets drew six trips to the cooler to three for their rivals, and they probably would have won had the penalties situation been reversed.

Most of the Jackets' good scoring opportunities were confined to two minutes of play in the third period, when, for the second and last time, they had six men on the ice to vie for their opponents. Fraser, Rodden and McCurry rained shots on the Buffalo goal, but the pads of lanky Bill Taugher always were in the way to block the scoring lane.

The thousands of fans who witnessed last night's milling probably have a strong suspicion that the Bisons despite their great record, are no stronger than the Jackets. Further opportunities to meet Buffalo will be welcome, for no jinx can live forever, and the Buffalo jinx certainly has attained a ripe old age. The lineup:

Pittsburgh.	G	Buffalo.
Cox		Taugher
Fraser		Gee
Rodden		Lederman
Ouellette		Bozanda
McCurry		Gross
Gross		Cash

Scoring—First period: Rodden, Hajduk. Second period: White, Fields, Pennington, Beiser, Buffalo; Murray, Johnson, Yeoh, Jackson, Gauthier, Roth, Lauder and Mac. Third period: Scoring, None. Penalties, Ouellette, Fraser, Bugardi, Gross. Second period: Scoring, None. Penalties, Ouellette, Gauthier. Third period: Scoring, Martin, from Lederman, from Gross, 19:00. Penalties, Lauder, White, Fraser. Referee, Mike Rodden.

Jimmy Kelly, the North Side's sweet-socking southpaw welterweight swings back into action again in the Moose Temple arena downtown tonight, trading blows with one Billy Rose, of Cincinnati, who has earned his spurs in these parts in battles with Tom Malco and Benny McArthur at McKeesport.

Billy Rose

This fellow Kelly is an idol with the Moose fans. They like his business-like manner of fighting and his authoritive punching. They have seen him in victory and defeat and never have they gone away unsatisfied in the matter of thrills. His bouts are full of fireworks. There almost always are knockdowns galore, with either Jimmy or his foe and often both visiting the canvas one or more times. And when Jimmy gets up—watch out! He is most dangerous when he is hurt.

Recently, Eddie Brannon, Negro, of the Hill, halted Kelly's winning streak by knocking him out in the downtown arena, but he came right back a couple of weeks ago to punch out a victory over Young Rudy, Charleroi's veteran club fighter. He fights 'em all and never asks questions or seeks or gives quarter to any foe. He is essentially the "killer" type, and if there is anything the fans like better, they never have given evidence of the fact.

DRAGON BOXES WARNER

A change has been necessitated in the card for tonight due to the fact that Mose Butch, who was to box Johnny Warner, of Clairton, in the first 10-round bout, is suffering from boils and is under the care of Dr. M. R. Goldman, the commission physician. Joe Dragon, of Cincinnati, who recently battled Warner in a 10-rounder at McKeesport, will take the place of the Oakland southpaw. This is the second time a Butch-Warner battle has been prevented. They were matched at the Moose for two weeks ago, when Warner became ill.

In two six-round preliminaries, Promoter Apples Meyers offers Angelo Vergione, of Swissvale, against Tiger Roy Caldwell, of Cincinnati, and Marty Gornick, of McKeesport, against Ray Ganshaw, of Newark, O. The show gets under way at 8:30.

Between Rounds

One of the features on the benefit boxing program at the Moose Temple for Father James B. Cox's relief fund next Wednesday night will be a raspberry party. This novel entertainment is staged by a group of boxers, who stand in a circle about the ring tossing around a medicine ball to which is tagged a jingling bag of raspberries attached to the wrist of another participant. The idea of the game is to get rid of the ball before the hooker can get in his work. It's hilarious fun and has been enjoyed by attendants at smokers before for years.

Much local interest centers in the New York debut of Tony Herrera, popular Mexican lightweight, on the card of four 10-rounders in Madison Square Garden tonight. He meets Sammy Dorfman, a capable New York performer. Jack (Kid) Berg, the junior welterweight champion, boxes Herman Perlick in the main bout, and the latter already has given the titleholder two close fights.

Ralph Lenni boxes Gaston LeCadre in a 10-round semi-windup piece to the Harry Romero-Pete Nelson bout at the Arena in Philadelphia Monday night.

Stanley Poreda will meet Walter Cobb and Paul Sarfassi will oppose Ralph Fiore, in 10-round preliminaries to the Tommy Loughran-Max Baer bout in Madison Square Garden, New York, one week from tonight.

The card arranged for Motor Square Garden Monday night is virtually a League of Nations affair. In the 10-round main bout are Eddie Anderson, Irish American, and Eddie Brannon, Negro lightweight, of the Hill. The middleweight semi-final brings together Ted Ross, of Chicago, Italian, and Tiger Wyatt, of Monessen, Indian. Jimmy Belmont, Braddock's Slavish welterweight, takes on Sylvan Bass, Baltimore Hebrew, in the second bout, while Joey Brush, Italian welterweight, lightweight of Uniontown, battles Larry Kauffman, Scotch-German-American, of McKeesport, in the opener. Anderson and his bride of a week arrived in town today.

This fellow Bass boasts quite a record and is coming here in a preliminary merely to show his wares with the idea of getting more lucrative matches in this section later. He has knocked out Ray Mitchell, Dandy Allen, Battling Willard, Harry Rice, Dannie Russell, Jack Kiernan and Joe Morasco and won decisions over Ernie Caceo, Fred Moretti, Young Mitchell, Harry Wallace, Frankie Hayes, Tommy (Kid) Murphy, Gene Buffalo, Pat Hayes, Marty Collins and Al Walters, among others, and fought a close 12-round bout with George Levine. He is a stablemate of Vince Dundee, who recently defeated Buck McTiernan and Len Harvey within a few weeks.

Jack Dempsey will referee the Pete Suskey-Iron Mike Kushwara bout at Wilkes Barre next Tuesday night. Johnny Vacca will meet Jackie Britton on the same bill.

The McAvoy brothers will headline the show in McKeesport next Thursday night, Jimmy being paired with Mickey Duffy, of Johnstown, in the 10-round main bout, and Buddy, opposing Paul Rinaldo, of Charleroi, in a return battle in the eight-round semi-final.

BOUT FOR RISKO

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Charley Retzlaff, of Duluth, has been signed to meet Johnny Risko, of Cleveland, in a 10-round match at the Olympia Arena, Detroit, February 6.

BOY ROLLS 225 SCORE

The son of a bowling alley proprietor on East Pittsburgh has just turned in a remarkable duckpin record, shooting a 225 total. He is Gus Stamboulis, 12-year-old son of James Stamboulis, and the feat was achieved on the latter's alleys, 1121 Braddock avenue.

CHICAGO STAR BEATS HALL IN FINALE

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Arthur Thurnblad, of Chicago, won the world three-cushion billiard championship last night by an unexpected victory over his fellow townsman, Allen Hall, 50 to 43, in 53 innings, in the final match of the 10-day title tournament.

Thurnblad

Thurnblad, a Swedish draftsman by trade, but a three-cushion billiard artist by wish, played brilliantly to upset Hall, who had been installed as a 7-to-5 favorite because of his victory over the defending champion, Johnny Layton, Tuesday night.

He trailed until the thirty-second inning, when he tied the score at 31-all and then won after an alternating fight, which saw the lead change hands three times.

The victory, estimated to be worth between $20,000 and $30,000 to the new champion, was Thurnblad's sixth in seven matches in the tournament.

Hall's high run was five to Thurnblad's seven.

Layton will meet Hall in a special 50-point match tonight for second place money—an annual salary of $3,000 cash and a share of the gate receipts.

GROVERS LOSE TO ST. THOMAS

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Brilliant shooting by Joie Rogan enabled St. Thomas' quintet to come from behind to defeat Grove City College, 29-28, in a thrilling court contest here last night.

The visitors led until the final three minutes of play, when field goals by Flanagan and Rogan put St. Thomas in the lead. Rogan only played the second half, but accounted for six field baskets.

SLIPPERY ROCK COPS

LORETTO, Pa., Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Slippery Rock State Teachers defeated St. Francis, 31 to 22, here last night. The Teachers led, 13 to 4, at the half.

Fight Results

At McKeesport — Benny Touchstone knocked out (technical) Frank Novak, 1 round; Bill (Muscles) Scholes defeated Al Rose, 8 rounds; Walter Ketchel knocked out Johnny Ruff, 2 rounds; Jimmy Reilly defeated Al Kerone, 8 rounds.
At Philadelphia — Gene Buffalo knocked out Vincent Forgione, 2 rounds; Nick Verone knocked out Larry Wagner, 3 rounds.
At New York — Mickey Taylor defeated Jimmy Turner, 8 rounds.
At Miami — Manuel Quintero knocked out Cliff Wellons, 7 rounds.

Princely Gifts Announced By Business Men

By B. C. FORBES

THIS COLUMN tries to keep track of large scale gifts by living business men to worthy purposes. Notwithstanding the financial and industrial depression, last year's gifts broke all records, mainly because of an unprecedented number of contributions to aid the unemployed. Very few of these contributions were made public.

Mr. Forbes

The oil industry as usual was the largest fountain of philanthropy. For once, John D. Rockefeller and his son were displaced at the head of the list by Edward S. Harkness, of another Standard Oil family.

THE LARGEST gift of the year was $25,000,000 by Mr. Harkness, for the creation in Britain of the Pilgrim Trust, organized to do a wide range of charitable work. Mr. Harkness also gave $7,000,000 to Phillips Exeter Academy, $5,000,000 to Yale, and smaller sums to other educational institutions.

IN ADDITION to princely benefactions by the Rockefeller Foundation, John D. Jr., presented New York with a $13,000,000 park overlooking the Hudson. Father and son jointly gave $1,000,000 for unemployment, the senior Rockefeller $800,000 for religious purposes, the younger Rockefeller extensively financed the building of the famous Fosdick Riverside Church in New York, and his many other gifts included $1,500,000 for "University City," Paris.

JEWISH beneficiaries were notably numerous and munificent last year. Louis Bamberger, of Newark, N. J., and his sister, Mrs. Fuld, established a $5,000,000 educational foundation; Julius Rosenwald gave $2,000,000 for the Chicago museum and big sums for various educational institutions, and an unusual number of million dollar and smaller gifts were made by other prosperous Jews.

Among the largest gifts announced last year, exclusive of those by the Rockefellers and the Carnegie Foundation, were the following:

Edward S. Harkness, $25,000,000. British charities, $5,000,000. Yale, $7,000,000. Phillips Exeter, $800,000. Columbia, $500,000. Swarthmore, $700,000. Deerfield Academy.

Louis Bamberger and Mrs. Fuld, $5,000,000. Educational Foundation.

Julius Rosenwald, $2,000,000. Chicago Museum. Rosenwald Fund, $235,000. Swarthmore College, $200,000, various.

Payne Whitney, $2,250,000, Yale.

Cyrus H. K. Curtis, $1,500,000. Benjamin Franklin Fund, $300,000. Drexel Institute, $250,000. Ursinus College, $100,000. Philadelphia Welfare Fund, and $100,000, University of Pennsylvania.

George Eastman, $1,000,000, dental clinic, Paris; $1,000,000, dental clinic, Stockholm, and $100,000, Oxford University.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford, $100,000, Berry Garage school.

Henry Ford, $240,000, Deutsches Museum, Germany.

Max Adler, $1,000,000, Planetarium, Chicago.

George F. Baker, $1,000,000, Dartmouth.

Morris Schinasi, $1,000,000, Hospital, Constantinople.

William C. Grunow, $1,000,000, Clinical Laboratory.

W. K. Kellogg, $1,000,000, Child Welfare Foundation.

Max Epstein, $1,000,000, Yale.

Alfred Heinsheimer, $750,000, Hospital for Joint Diseases.

William Skinner, $600,000, Vassar.

Eldridge R. Johnson, $500,000, University of Pennsylvania.

Samuel Stern, $500,000, Jewish Charities.

Clarence Dillon, $500,000, Harvard.

N. Y. Reserve Bank Rate Unchanged

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—The New York Federal Reserve Bank announced no change in its rediscount rate of 2 per cent after the weekly directors' meeting.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—The curb market crawled cautiously higher on an expanded volume of trading today. There were pauses in the upturn and minor reactions, but the publication of several important earnings statements for 1930 seemed to believe traders were willing to try the long side for a while.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded in (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

STOCK MARKET TONE STAYS STRONG

Trading Light and Highly Professional; Prices Ease Around Midday

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP.) — Professional traders diverted themselves by pinching the bears in a handful of issues in today's stock market, while the financial community was primarily absorbed with annual earnings statements.

The share market maintained a strong tone, but trading was light and highly professional if a little more active than yesterday. The hearings in Washington regarding redemption of the veterans' certificates contiues to inject an element of uncertainty into the security market outlook, and in the bond division the government obligations were again rather soggy. Share prices eased off from their best levels after midday, but trade turned extremely dull on the decline.

The Bethlehem Steel report appeared to have been somewhat better than expected, or at least thoroughly discounted. Traders who had gone short on the theory that only a few cents a share in the final quarter would be unsettling, hastened to cover. Sears, Roebucks' 1930 net was less than half that of 1929, but the management expressed the opinion that price levels had about reached bottom, and profit margins in 1931 would be more satisfactory. DuPont's net of $4.64 a share compared with dividend requirements of $4, and the report was interesting in its indication that General Motors, in which it is the largest stockholder, earned about $3.17 a share, of which only 79 cents was non-recurring profit, so that the annual dividend of $3 was virtually earned.

One of the most favorable developments in the day's news was the further and unexpected decrease of $23,000,000 in brokers' loans.

Credit rates remained stationary, and the Federal Reserve statement showed that it had been possible to withdraw further credit from the market.

The upturn in Worthington was in response to paying off of accumulaed back dividends on the preferred, and an unconfirmed report of a large contract to provide compressors and equipment for a large pipe line project. Stone & Webster was sold on the grounds of a possible reduction in the dividend, although it is understood directors plan to make the regular payment at the next meeting, and govern future disbursements by the course of general business. International Nickel encountered some selling as result of confusion with International Silver, which passed its dividend. Nickel directors do not meet until Monday.

December Railroad Income Decreases

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—December net operating income of the first 67 railroads to report totaled $39,591,000, a decrease of 30.1 per cent from the $56,709,000 total for the same month of 1929. The decline from December, 1928, amounted to 43.8 per cent. Last November the net operating income of these roads aggregated $48,053,000.

Gross last month was $284,690,000, against $354,550,000 in December, 1929, a decline of 19.7 per cent, and $375,731,000 in 1928, a drop of 24.2 per cent. Gross for November, 1930, was $300,018,000.

New Westinghouse Radio Inspected

Westinghouse radio dealers of the Pittsburgh district met in the William Penn Hotel today to inspect the new Columaire Westinghouse radio, which occupies less than a square foot of floor space, yet is a full-grown radio. The Columaire was introduced to dealers by the Iron City Electric Company, local jobbers. R. B. Austrian explained features of the set.

Estimate Pennsy Net at $4.75 Share

Latest estimates indicate Pennsylvania Railroad for 1930 will show net income equal to $4.75 per share on 13,038,000 shares outstanding. This would compare with $8.82 a share earned in 1929.

Surplus for the year has been estimated variously at $8,000,000 to $10,000,000, with the expectation that it will be closer to the latter figure.

Brazil to Purchase Stocks of Coffee

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—The Brazilian government formulates a plan for purchase of coffee stocks in that country, price set at 80 milreis a sack. Growers will receive 60 milreis in cash and 20 milreis in the form of bonds maturing in 20 years.

Clyde Steamship To Pay Off Bonds

BOSTON, Jan. 30.—Clyde Steamship Company will pay off its 5 per cent bonds, which mature February 1. The issue originally was $6,000,000, but had been reduced to $812,000 as of December 31, 1929. The company is a subsidiary of Atlantic Gulf and West Indies Steamship Lines.

Oldsmobile Boosts Schedules by 30%

DETROIT, Jan. 30. Increased retail sales of Oldsmobiles at the Chicago automobile show, and reports of a large volume of orders received by dealers throughout every section of the country, has resulted in a 30 per cent increase in February production schedule.

Barnsdall Will Report $2.25 Per Share for Year 1930.

The report of Barnsdall Corporation for 1930 will show net profit of between $5,080,000 and $5,192,000 after depreciation, depletion, Federal taxes and year-end adjustments, equal to between $2.25 and $2.30 a share on 2,257,635 shares combined Class A and B outstanding on September 30, 1930. In 1929 net profit was $7,205,161 or $3.19 a share on 2,258,327 combined shares then outstanding. In 1928 net was $4,039,861 or $2.25 a share on 1,794,451 combined shares.

The National Association of Mutual Savings Banks estimates that savings deposits in the United States increased by roughly $1,000,000,000 during 1930. The increase for mutual savings banks is placed at $600,000,000 with the balance accounted for by other classes of savings institutions. Total mutual savings bank deposits on January 1 were $9,464,732,492, showing a gain of $592,607,440, contrasted with an increase of but $65,236,234 for such institutions in 1929. The head of the association regards these heavy gains as "one of the surest signs yet visable of better times ahead." "Growth of savings, during such a year as 1930," he contends, "shows clearly the sound economic position of our more than 12,000,000 depositors."

Confidential advices from Washington received by several New York firms from their correspondents tended to quiet in a degree fears which had developed as a consequence of the move in Congress toward redemption of soldier bonus certificates. It was the opinion of such correspondents that chances now favor such bills being shelved and that in the event that any such legislation is considered it is safe to assume that bills which may be introduced will be decidedly modified. It was indicated that there is little likelihood of such legislation entailing a government bond issue approaching anything like the $3,400,000,000 now under discussion.

Interest in Mullins Body report that the company did a good business during the motor boat show in New York. Sales were said to be larger than some of the most optimistic estimates. The monel metal model is said to have attracted considerable attention. In 1930, the company did not make a profit on its boat business, but hope is expressed in official quarters that a much better showing will be made in that department in 1931. Already, more men are employed in this department than last year.

Considerable short covering has taken place during recent upturns, judging from the smaller borrowing demand for many of the leading stocks. When the short interest is reduced the market loses some of its technical strength. Houses which have been active in lending stocks privately to other firms also report a reduced borrowing demand. However, they say that the reduction is in individual shares, and that the demand for certain issues has continued.

A number of pools are operating in the market, but mainly in the medium or low-priced shares. They have not been able to attract much of an outside following, and the net result of their activities has been to increase the long positions of the groups. In instances where the bullish efforts have been successful and the pools have been able to sell some of their holdings the short interest has been a factor. A demonstration against the bears has led to covering on a large scale, which has aided in establishing higher prices.

Bethlehem Net Shows Effect of Slump

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

FURTHER EVIDENCE of the extent of the decline in the steel trade has been shown by the report of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation. This company failed to earn its common dividends requirements of $6 a share by 74 cents in 1930. Directors, however, showed their faith in the ability of the industry to recover by declaring a regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 on the common stock yesterday.

Last year Bethlehem's earnings were equivalent to $5.26 a share on the common stock. This compared with $11.01 a share in 1929, with $6.52 a share in 1928 and with $5.02 in 1927.

This showing by Bethlehem compares well with other leading steel companies since the organization has much greater fixed charges for interest on funded debt in proportion to its output than other large steel companies which have published reports this week.

Funded Debt Large

BETHLEHEM STEEL is the second largest maker of steel in the United States. At the close of 1929 it had a total funded debt of $184,339,595. This compared with $112,257,978 for the United States Steel Corporation, with $11,328,000 for Jones and Laughlin Steel and with $29,400,000 for Inland Steel. Bethlehem has by far the largest indebtedness of any steel company. With such interest charges to overcome, its results for 1930 can only be considered in a favorable light in view of the results of its principae competitors.

While United States Steel, Jones and Laughlin Steel and Inland Steel all earned dividend requirements on their common stock in 1930, but failed to cover these requirements in the fourth quarter, none of these companies had such a heavy burden of interest to carry as did Bethlehem.

Reflects Improved Plants

THESE RESULTS reflect the extensive investments Bethlehem has made in improved plant facilities during the past six years. The improvements have been important factors in the reduction of the company's costs.

In the fourth quarter of 1930 Bethlehem Steel earned 17 cents a share on the common stock. This compared with 63 cents a share in the preceding quarter and with $2.59 a share in the corresponding quarter of the previous year.

Operations Gain

BETHLEHEM MAY BE expected to show some improvement in the first quarter of the present year in comparison with the final three months of 1930 but the gains will not be large due to the continued low prices for steel products, Eugene G. Grace, president of the company, stated yesterday that operations are now at 46 per cent of capacity against 30 per cent for December and an average of 42½ per cent for the fourth quarter.

The net income of the corporation in the quarter ended December 31 was $2,291,000, against $3,783,425 in the preceding quarter and $10,046,197 in the final quarter of 1929, net income for the full year 1930 totaled $23,843,406, against $42,242,980 in 1929.

TIGER HEART -:- By Robert Terry Shannon

Duke Seeks Butler's Aid To Solve Robbery

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Connie Calvert shares her home and fortune with her half-sister, Kitty, whom she found destitute in New York's underworld. Kitty falls in love with Jim Tracy, Connie's former fiance. Believing Jim to be a fortune-hunter, Connie, to save Kitty, enlists the aid of Duke Garson, Kitty's friend and underworld intelligence man. He warns Connie that her butler is a crook and that her mother should guard her pearls. Later, Duke is about to declare his love for Connie when Jim appears. He claims he was held up and is afraid to go home. Connie invites him to stay. Duke doubts Jim's story. That night, Mrs. Calvert's pearls are stolen. Duke questions the maid about them. The maid doubts Kitty's honesty. Mrs. Calvert becomes ill after the excitement. Duke accuses Jim of lying about being held up. Jim says he lied because he did not trust Duke and wanted to get back to the Calvert home. Connie tells her mother that she is not sure whether she loves Duke. Duke hints that he is not free to propose to Connie because of the life he has led.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLVII.

Connie refused to be drawn into any sentimental conversation while driving back home. She preferred, and had no trouble in forcing the preference, to thwart and postpone the sterility of exchanged opinions that amounted, in reality, to flirtations. At luncheon Kitty's presence extended reticence.

"Jim is coming over?" Connie asked her half-sister.

"Yes, he just phoned," Kitty told her.

At the cost of being impolite, Connie excused herself after the meal and spent the afternoon upstairs with her mother.

"I'll die if I have to listen to Jim all afternoon," she managed to tell Garson secretly. "Do you mind shifting for yourself tonight?"

Talks to Higgins

He might do anything, he responded if it contributed to her contentment; in reality, he was glad of the seclusion offered by an off room, a library lined with book shelves and deep leather chairs. Evidently this room had been the retreat of Connie's father; a substantial heaviness made it indisputably masculine, a place of tobacco smoke, with whisky and soda. Easily at hand in the wall was a bell; pressing it, Garson summoned the butler, Higgins.

"May I get you something, sir?"

A skimpy man, passed middle age, Higgins maintained the subtle deference of a servant toward a guest. So respectable was his appearance that even Garson, had he not known him, would have been taken in.

"Is anyone likely to come in here, Higgins?"

"I don't think so, sir."

"All right—you can drop that 'sir' business. Loosen up and talk to me."

A change, a relaxation, came over Higgins; he gave a backward glance at the door, crossed and closed it, returned and leaned back comfortable against the library table.

"You're looking good, Duke," he remarked, affably.

"I ought to look good to you," Garson told him. "If I hadn't been here today they'd have called the police about those pearls and you would most certainly have been punished."

"That's right but I didn't get 'em. I don't mind admitting to you again, Duke. I was tempted, but I didn't fall."

"Who did?"

"You can search me, Duke—on the level, I don't know. It was a clean, beautiful job. I'm not thinking anything, and I'm keeping my mouth shut. When I spoke to you about them the other day, I didn't realize that you—" He halted, hesitatingly.

Garson's eyes grew steely.

"You didn't realize what?" he demanded coldly.

Suspected Duke

"I didn't realize, at first, that you were up here on the job yourself, so to speak. Oh, I know it's none of my business, Duke a guy in your position can do what he wants to with an amateur like me, and I've got sense enough to know it all right, all right. I never did get into big stuff myself, and I guess it's too late now to grieve about it. My wages here are pretty good and I'm satisfied."

Garson lit a cigaret and gazed half in amusement, half in anger at the respectable figure of Higgins.

"I see—you think I got them myself? That's what you think, eh, Higgins?"

Higgins spread his hands expressively, shrugged his shoulders. "How should I know?"

"I suppose you're idiot enough to believe that," Garson told him, unable to conceal contempt. "I'll put you right on the subject once and for all. I'm not low enough yet to steal from my friends. I'll go further, neither you nor anyone else ever can say I was linked up with the job. So if you are harboring any thought that I stole Mrs. Calvert's necklace, you're dead wrong, and a fool besides."

"I didn't mean any harm," Higgins apologized. "If you say you didn't, that's good enough for me, Duke, any time. Anybody might fall for a string like that one was. We're all open to suspicion in the house."

Seeks Butler's Aid

"How about that young lady, Miss Kitty, did you ever see her before?" Garson demanded.

"No, sir, that is not until Miss Connie brought her home for a visit."

This was a relief to Garson; Kitty and Higgins had come from approximately the same neighborhood. Fortunately their paths had never crossed, which made it less awkward. What Higgins did not know in that quarter, Garson resolved, would not hurt him.

"I ought to get those pearls back for Mrs. Calvert, Higgins," he went on. "Right now we can leave Miss Kitty out of consideration. She's as innocent as I am."

"Or I," Higgins interjected.

"Yes, I understand you to be innocent in this case, Higgins. Believe me, you had better be! What do you think about this fellow Tracy that hangs around here?"

A thin sneer formed on the butler's lips.

"A ladies' man—no guts," he said.

"We can't count everybody out," Garson insisted. "You have been here long enough to get a line on the house and the people around here. If you can help get those pearls back, I think I can promise you a bit of reward. When people do favors for me, I don't forget them. Give me your best—where would you start looking?"

Higgins gazed thoughtfully up at the ceiling and thrust his hands slowly in his trousers pockets.

"If you were to ask me, I'd name a woman," he said, profoundly.

DAILY TRUE STORY

Resolutions

Mrs. Etta Tupper saw Tommy Dickson pause across the street and peer timidly beneath his dripping umbrella, up and down, to make certain that it was safe to cross, although the red lights were on.

Then Tommy came across the street.

Mrs. Tupper heard his key in the door, heard him close the door and start upstairs. She crossed from the ground floor sitting room of her lodging house and peered out into the hallway.

Just as she thought—he was sloshing up over her stair carpet in his rubbers and holding his umbrella so that it dripped as he climbed upward.

Her jaws set firmly and her lips straightened grimly.

Tommy chanced to glance downward at the turn in the landing and saw her.

"Uh—hello, Mrs. Tupper," he said.

Etta Tupper smiled instantly.

"Hello there, Tommy. Terrible out, isn't it?" You better change into dry clothes, so many colds these days."

"Yes ma'm," Tommy said.

Mr. Thomas H. Dickson was 38 years old and held a good position as senior clerk with the Gray Finance Corporation, yet to everyone who knew him for 10 minutes, he was just "Tommy."

His rather childish smile was partly accountable for this, as was the fact that he was a small man and seemed to be naturally burdened with an inferiority complex.

For three years Tommy had occupied the second floor front room. Every week of that time he had paid his rent promptly. He did leave his library table in an awful mess, and he did scatter cigar ashes about.

But he didn't drink. He didn't go out skylarking. He was quiet and polite. Etta Tupper had her eyes wide open for husband number two even before Tommy came there to room. After he had been there a few months she decided that he was just the type of husband she would like—providing he was up to specifications otherwise, as to manners, finances, steadiness and the like.

Invited to Dinner

She did not intend to rush blindly into matrimony, however. Her first experience had been more than enough.

Five minutes of seven she came up and pretended to be straightening up things in the hall.

Tommy Dickson came down.

"Why Tommy—it's an awful night out," she said.

"Er—yes, Mrs. Tupper—going around to the restaurant, you know—my dinner time."

"You might get an awful cold—why not run down and have dinner with me?"

Tommy stared at her and managed to speak.

"Dinner—with you?"

"Of course. I won't bite you. We've been such friends for so long, you are just like one of my family—please come down and have dinner with me—"

As she spoke she took his hat and hung it up. She put his damp umbrella in the rack and half lifted him out of his overcoat.

"Just leave your rubbers there, Tommy, and come along. I haven't got much but I guess we can make out."

Tommy followed her down to the little private basement dining room.

Etta Tupper came in with a large platter. She set it down and went back to the kitchen. Tommy stared at the platter—a great steak, with the seared marks of the broiler on it.

She came back with baked potatoes. She cut him a generous slice from the tenderest part of the steak, split his baked potato and added butter, salt and paprika. She poured his coffee.

"There—it was awful nice of you to keep me company, Tommy—I'm so lonesome, you know."

"This—this is nice—didn't know it was so cozy here, Mrs. Tupper."

Wedding Date Set

"Oh, Tommy, we've been such good friends for three years, you hadn't ought to be formal—call me Etta."

"Call—er—yes, Mrs.—yes—Etta."

"Etta," he murmured. "You've no idea how lonesome I am."

"And I get to thinking of how lonesome you are up in your room, Tommy."

"It's a nice room."

"But it's awful—you alone up there and me alone down here, when we might be so happy together—Tommy."

"Yes, Mrs.—yes, Etta."

"I knew you'd understand. We won't be blind fools any longer, Tommy. We'll be cozy down here together—always."

"Wha—what?"

"Won't we?"

"Why——"

"Wouldn't you like to?"

"Yes—er——"

"Then it's all settled, Tommy. We'll be married right after the holidays."

Tommy choked.

"Be . . ." He couldn't say any more.

Mrs. Tupper had him move over to an easy chair by the fireplace and she sat close to him.

"We're going to be so happy, dear."

She squeezed his hand.

They sat and talked for an hour—or she did.

"Well, Tommy—we mustn't stay here too long—we aren't married yet . . . can't have a lot of gossip. Let's see, about the eighth of January will be fine, won't it?"

"Er . . ."

"Then it's settled. We'll just slip down to the marriage bureau on the eighth. Then you can move down here with me and we can rent your room—and we won't ever be lonesome or unhappy—good night, Tommy—run along—there, there. I know I've made you happy."

She grabbed him and kissed him. Tommy groped his way out and up to his room and sat in a daze for hours.

Etta Tupper went about her work with a triumphant smile. Men were such babies, it was so easy to handle them. Tommy would be ideal—so easy to manage.

On New Year's eve Mrs. Tupper stopped Tommy as he came in.

"We'll have a little party tonight, Tommy dear—I've got a bottle of lovely currant wine—"

"Oh, I'm awful sorry, but who do you think came today, Etta? My brother—from Khatahi. He came to the office to see me. He's only got tonight, he sails tomorrow, he's been out West—he owns big stores and plantations in Khatahi."

Tommy said it breathlessly. Etta Tupper was thinking that it was just as well the brother went next day. He might try to talk Tommy out of the marriage.

"Oh, by all means, see your brother, Tommy—we'll have our party tomorrow night," Etta agreed.

Tommy went up and got into his seldom used dinner clothes. He was late and flustered. A big square envelope was shoved under his door. He tossed it on his table, unopened.

Tommy was ashamed to tell his brother how he had been hooked by the Widow Tupper, he merely explained that he had a good job and couldn't accept his brother's offer to go to the South Sea Island with him.

Tommy got home at 2 o'clock. He was feeling unusually good. Three drinks were three more than he was accustomed to taking.

As he was undressing he saw the envelope and opened it. It contained this:

Tommy Reads Note

New Year Resolutions Tommy will make for his Etta:
No more smoking.
No more untidiness.
No arguing.
Give me all money to handle.
Go no place without me.
Care for furnace so we can save janitor's wages.

Tommy read it over and over. At noon next day Mrs. Tupper knocked sharply at Tommy's door.

"Come Tommy—even if it is a holiday, you mustn't sleep so late," she called.

There was no answer. The door was unlocked. Mrs. Etta Tupper went in and looked around, emitting a cry of astonishment. His closet door was open. His closet was empty—all of his belongings were gone. The table was clear except for an envelope. She ran and opened it. She read:

"Tommy also makes Etta one more good resolution—he promises her to never get married!"

CONFESSION STORY WRITER'S CONFESSION

THE RESCUE

Goings On to Date—Yesterday we left the innocent confessions writer, young and pretty, hanging from the window ledge where she was suspended by jealous sister confessions writers who were trying to keep her tryst with or from the editor.

By "Guess Who!"

Of course the disgraceful situation attracted a large crowd, principally of unprincipled women, who were outspoken in their denunciatory cheering of the perpetrators of the outrage. The handsome confessions editor, thus attracted by women, came bouncing out of his office and seized me about the waist just in time to prevent me from falling.

"Come, my beauty," he whispered softly, "this was only a prank. I shall see that you are rewarded."

With that he led me by the hand right past the amazed and jealous women in his outer office. And in less time than it takes to confess it, the door of his private office had closed softly and I was alone—alone with the editor of the confessions periodical, and blushing like the label on a bottle of catsup.

"Well?" said Mr. MacArthur, for MacArthur was his name.

"Well," I said, tilting my head, birdlike.

"Well," he said, finally, "call me Charlie."

"Well, Charlie," I said. I was trembling like a leaf.

We carried on that way for quite some time until, before I could realize what he was doing I found——

Straws in the Wind

Public Opinion on the Spoils System and the City-Manager Plan Is Indicated by Allied Boards.

Resolutions adopted by the Allied Boards of Trade offer what is probably a very good index to public opinion in Pittsburgh on the spoils system and the city-manager plan.

The Allied Boards condemned the appointment of persons to city and county jobs as a reward for political activity. The Kline administration was taken to task for ignoring the spirit, if not the letter, of the civil service law. The voters were asked to keep municipal employes off the party committees.

Twenty-nine of the 32 ward chairmen are on the public payroll. They are to blame for much that is found unsatisfactory in Mayor Kline's regime.

Pittsburgh must not have a city-manager foisted upon it against the will of the people, of course. That is not contemplated in the pending legislation, which merely authorizes the citizens to change the system by popular vote, if they desire.

The Allied Boards' resolutions suggest that the people might vote for a city-manager.

Pinchot Foes Too Hasty

They Blundered in Calling for Public Utilities Inquiry Without Consulting Utilities.

Word comes from Harrisburg that some of the public utilities companies are disturbed over the proposed investigation of Gov. Pinchot's charge that the Public Service Commission is under the domination of the utilities and has not played fair with the people.

The investigation was proposed by opponents of Gov. Pinchot, senators allied with the Philadelphia group whom he accuses of being too friendly with the Power Trust.

They thought to embarrass the Governor; but they made their attack too hastily, it seems, and without consulting the utilities interests. It is now the latter who are embarrassed, according to Harrisburg reports, which state the companies would gladly have the plan dropped.

It is too late for that.

Public sentiment will be satisfied with nothing less than a thorough sifting of the Governor's charges.

New Lottery Numbers

Only Effective Way to End the Racket Is to Put the Racketeers in Jail.

The lottery racketeers are again under the necessity of making a slight change in their arrangements.

Deprived of the New York Stock Exchange sales as a source from which to determine the winning number, they talk of using a composite figure to be taken from the Weather Bureau's temperature reports.

It is futile to try to suppress the lottery by stopping publication of all news reports containing three figures that fluctuate uncertainly from day to day. These awkward and roundabout efforts to put the gamblers out of business are amusing.

The only effective plan is to put the racketeers in jail.

A Road to Prosperity

Good Times Can Be Hastened Through Cultivation of New Markets In United States.

Prosperity in the United States could be revived by opening up new markets.

However, with the whole world depressed, the recent search for additional outlets for goods has been fruitless.

But here, within our own gates, vast new markets await cultivation.

Millions of less fortunate Americans, even during prosperous times, lacked purchasing power to share adequately in the good things of modern life.

A major impulse towards prosperity would result from making available to those of our citizens who are under-compensated existing products which hitherto only the more affluent folks could afford.

A further reduction in retail prices, thus enhancing the buying power of wages, would help to achieve the program.

The redemption of the wasted idle time of unemployed and part-time workers would provide a sound economic basis for such a noteworthy social advancement.

Further extension of the installment plan along sound lines would help to turn the ill-clad and the inadequately fed into buyers.

New and additional employment, resulting from such a program, would let loose a stream of purchasing power. It would help to balance the vast potential supply of goods with an adequate demand.

As matters stand, capital, labor and managerial skill are idle because of economic maladjustment.

Yet it is stupid to conclude that there is no need for them as long as the great American cities are cursed with slums.

If there is no housing shortage in the United States, there is, nevertheless, a scarcity of model, modern tenements.

Moreover, until progress is made in what President Hoover has described as the ultimate aim of business—the abolition of poverty in the United States—it will be shameful to talk about the excess capacity of American factories.

It will be ridiculous to assume that we have a glutted labor market until essential national projects, such as the elimination of railroad grade crossings, the improvement of coast to coast highways, the completion of Boulder Dam, the execution of the program for Mississippi River flood control, and the modernization of public institutional buildings, have been carried out.

It is ironic mockery to speak of overproduction as long as malnutrition and inadequate standards of clothing and shelter persist in some quarters.

In the past, business progressed by enlarging purchasing power through the development of new products, such as automobiles, radios, washing machines and refrigerators.

Invention of undreamed of devices for convenience and beauty will doubtless heighten the prosperity of the future.

But good times can also be promoted through the widening of the circle of buyers for existing products.

The process of raising the standard of living of poorer classes in agricultural regions of the South and of the submerged folks in the great cities will also strengthen the base of the prosperity of the future.

Good business should proceed hand in hand with wise sociology.

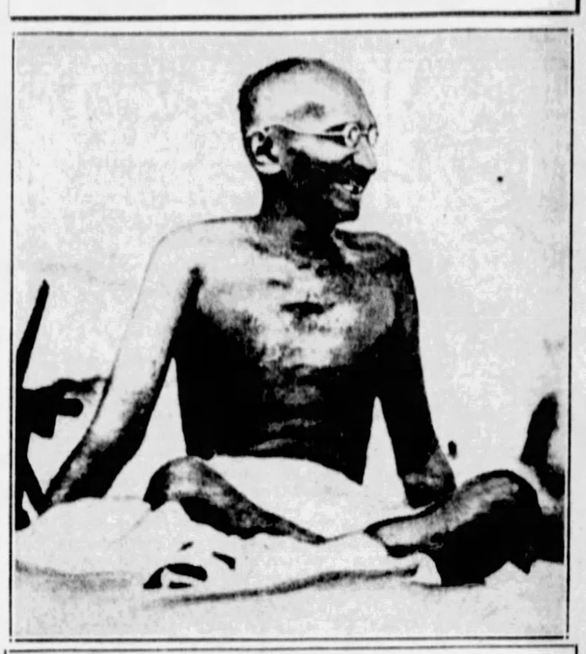
Too Weak to Kill a Fly

Strong Enough to Move the World.



MAHATMA GANDHI.

This gentleman would never take a prize in a beauty show, but he is considerably more interesting and important than even a Miss Universe or a Miss Solar System.

No need to say who he is—all the world knows him.

He is five feet tall. He wears a breech clout and a pair of spectacles. He eats little or nothing, sips water, is too weak almost to kill a fly.

Yet this little "bag of bones" sways some 200,000,000 people in India, and perhaps holds the future of the British Empire in the hollow of his scrawny hand.

What that future will be none can say. It will not be what Gandhi thinks it will be, certainly. If his country is ever deprived of British guidance and protection, anarchy beyond the wildest dreams of delirium will follow.

However, Gandhi has an idea—the idea of LIBERTY—and you know what he has done with it.

It was Aristotle or Pythagoras or some other ancient wise man who said:

"Give me a lever long enough, and I will move the world."

Gandhi has done as much with an idea. He is not quite sure which way he is moving it, but he is MOVING IT.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Thoughts while strolling: The dolorous cry again of "Cash Clo'" men. Pierre, the Mussolini of dining rooms. People who pronounce theater "thutta." I'd like to see Florence Reed and Pauline Lord in the same play. One of those agonizing things that make you sob out loud.

V. V. McNitt, a Trent, Mich. boy, who made good in the city. Wish Meredith Nicholson would come to town. Simile: "As glittering as a nut store." Lads who wear mufflers jauntily. Mine gives the appearance of a sore throat. Never went to a big party without seeing Louis Wiley.

That avenue jewelry store that opened the day of the crash. And weathered the storm. Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, who belongs to more clubs than the Prince of Wales. Wellington Cross and wife. A blonde with a turbaned East Indian. Broadway's best known haberdashery clerk—Dave Levy.

A poetically named tea room: "The Cafe of Graceful Pause." If anyone asks me to any more backgammon parties I'll scream. The only thing that will stop me on the way to a fire is a taxicab drivers' row. O. Soglow, the artist, London is giving Paris a run in perfume making.

Anna May Wong speaks not only English and Chinese, but French and German. Her real name means Frosted-Yellow-Willows. Those old fellows with string ties and wide hats who look like stage types of great statesmen. And sell corn salve on street corners.

The studio where Clare Briggs first lived in New York. Why is memory such a tyrant? Some people infuse a shrug with high drama. A fellow I should have tipped last Xmas but didn't. Business of gazing into a window. The yacht business is not what it was.

While New York has a few remaining slums, not one offers that depressing squalor most of us knew back home by such names as Frog Holler, Jimtown or such and stretched so drearily back of town and across the railroad tracks. They were approached through a gulley of tin cans, roaming goats and acrid odors. In such districts was always an incredibly old man with matted hair hobbling about with a crooked stick. He was known as a miser and finished up in the potter's field.

In these areas were poor white trash types of boys who chased you and me home from school. The girls had sore eyes and peeped from behind kitchen doors when strangers passed. A man became of age when he had suffered the seven year itch three times. Almost invariably there was a family named Potts and another named Parsons.

There was no grandiloquent institution such as The City Infirmary. It was known harshly as the poorhouse and an inmate was "livin' off the county." Skirting such district was "The Pest House," where seasonal victims of smallpox were taken. Today they are known as Isolation Hospitals.

Fortnightly some resident of the Frog Hollers would load up on pop-skull whisky and on his way home fire off a 48 calibre revolver in front of the Baptist church and in police court next day faced the charge of "disturbing public worship." Then, too, there would be those long-drawn-out feuds. About once a year someone would knock-off a neighbor from ambush in a dispute over a line fence. Frog Hollerites had no money but life wasn't so drab. Ba-looey!

* * *

As a brief peeker at a debbie party recently it interested me to note the change in dancing. Young couples no longer go into a clinch. They circle each other's waist with an indifferent arm and walk slowly around like lovers at dusk in the leafy Bois—a mocking, modern scherzo. Free arms hang carelessly at sides and hands hold the casually puffed cigaret. It is a bored gesture of sure indifference, the ladies turning to those who cut in with a suppressed yawn. It was no place for an old dodo who likes to twirl in a Gay Ninety waltz. One-two-three! One-two-three!

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Men Are Like That!

Next to stalled motor car, the hardest thing on earth to budge is a man's mind! Next to Niagara, the hardest thing to turn out of its course is the current of his thought.

A woman's ideas "just spring into her head," but a man's come by the slow process of geological formation. And once SET, they are as immovable as the Rock of Gibraltar.

The only thing more difficult than to get a brand NEW idea into a man's head and consciousness is to get it OUT again.

Take the love-idea, for instance. While a man is still trying to decide whether a girl's eyes are blue, gray or green, she has already decided on the color scheme for the wedding and is planning the living room curtains. By the time the love-idea has penetrated his consciousness, she has been waiting at the church, mentally, for him so long that she is ready to topple over into his arms from sheer fatigue.

But once he gets the impression that a woman is in love with him, it sinks in like a laundry mark.

No doubt it took years of nagging for Eve to awaken Adam's clothes-consciousness. And after that it took centuries to get him out of petticoats and into trousers.

But trousers, once established, have clung to him for hundreds of years. While women have been changing from hoopskirts to bustles, from pantalettes to long trails, and from trails to bare knees and knickerbockers, man has gone right on placidly wearing the some trousers, the same swallow tail coat and the same silk hat for the last century.

Next to getting a man started in any direction, the hardest thing on earth is to stop him. It takes three full weeks, every Autumn, to persuade him to shut the front door behind him—and three more weeks every Spring to coax him to leave it open after him. He has to be threatened with pneumonia before he will wear his golf-sweater in March; but he has to be threatened with sunstroke before he will take it off in June.

A woman no longer faints from astonishment when her husband glances at her last season's hat and remarks, "I like that new lid you've got on!" She knows that, while he has been looking at it for months, it has only just reached his consciousness as she is ready to throw it away.

CLIMATOLOGY, A NEW SCIENCE

By Archibald Henderson

During the past three quarters of a century, scientists have been making a study along wide lines, of the factors of climate. This is a subject of which, as yet, only the fringes have been touched. A vast new science, allied to geography, physiography, meterology, is outlined in climatology. One of the most important studies for shaping the future of society would be a study of human history, throughout the ages, viewed from the angle of climate and its correlative effects.

It has recently been pointed out by Kendrew, in his excellent and readable treatise on the principles of weather and climate, entitled Climate, that this thing is in general the most fundamental and far-reaching of the natural elements which control our destiny. In his view, the vegetation of the earth is closely dependent on it, and there are obvious adaptations of animal life to it; of climatic types in mankind, for example, the Eskimo on the frozen margins of the Arctic, the fair-skinned races of the westerlies, the Arabs of the arid trade-wind deserts, and the Negroes of the equatorial zone.

The adaptation to climate is both direct and indirect. It is only when men of any race are moved to a new climatic environment that their specialized adaptation to their home climate, and their lack of adaptations to their new conditions, become clearly manifest.

In spite of all his command of the resources of civilization, and his advances in scientific knowledge, the individual white man is unable to flourish for many consecutive years in the heat and moisture of the "hothouse" atmosphere of the Guinea coast, and certainly the white race is as yet unable to establish itself there as colonists, reproducing its species. The human organism appears to be debilitated by the direct influence of the new climate, and so falls a ready prey to sundry germ diseases such as malaria and yellow fever, which haunt the region. Some changes of climate appear to be stimulating when the change is not of great magnitude, but if a race is permanently subjected to such new conditions it is probable that the type changes gradually, possibly by a process of elimination.

Climate is an extraordinarily comprehensive topic, embracing all the weather conditions, arising from any cause whatever, for every day throughout the year. The magnitude of climate's influence upon humanity is as yet but dimly discerned.

By Elsie Robinson

Scores of letters a day, with a hundred different problems. But always a pathetic pile with the same sad cry:

"Life isn't worth living. I can't ever be like other people. Everything I do seems to go wrong. And I feel that people are always laughing or sneering at me, and I hate myself as much as they hate me. I guess this is what they call 'an inferiority complex!' But is there any cure for it? If there isn't I might as well be dead. What is the matter with me?"

Probably not a thing, my friend.

Chances are you are as capable and intelligent as any other human, with all the makings in you of popularity and success. But, of course, being human, you're not perfect. You have your ups and downs. And that's where your trouble lies.

All your life you've brooded over those imperfections—brooded over your ups and downs—CONCENTRATED ON YOURSELF. How'd you get that wrong start? I don't know. The wrong environment. The wrong training . . . . some lack or loss or fear or hate that set your brooding over yourself as compensation . . . any one of a thousand mishaps might have started you that way. Such things happen to all of us. No child has all the breaks. But some of us get over it. And some of us don't.

The main point now isn't HOW you got that way, but how to get over it. For you have magnified yourself and your miseries until you've crowded the rest of the world out of the picture.

In a strange, sick way, an INFERIORITY complex is very much like a SUPERIORITY complex. In either case you spend all the time THINKING ABOUT YOURSELF. It doesn't matter whether you think HOPELESSLY or HAPPILY—whether you're PLEASED about yourself or PEEVISH. The result is the same. You, yourself, become your sole interest. And if you spend all your time thinking about yourself, you aren't going to spend much time thinking about the other fellow. THEN IT'S A CINCH THAT THE OTHER FELLOW ISN'T GOING TO SPEND MUCH TIME THINKING ABOUT YOU.

So you become stranded, lonely. And your magnified Self Importance becomes an obsession. An irritating obsession. An obsession that sickens and thickens on you like a disease.

There's only one way to cure an Inferiority Complex. You can't cure it by digging into the past and its ancient injustices. You can only cure it by getting rid of this obsession of Self. STOP THINKING ABOUT YOURSELF BY THINKING OF OTHERS.

Realize that these people you meet in the office, at parties, on the street, are ALL OF A PIECE WITH YOU. Realize that they dream and suffer and blunder and rejoice . . . and make fools of themselves . . . just as you do. REALIZE PARTICULARLY, THAT THEY HAVE AS MANY HANDICAPS TO OVERCOME, AS MANY SAD MEMORIES TO ENDURE, AS YOU HAVE—PERHAPS MORE. Realize that their seeming happiness and success is based on countless struggles and failures and embarrassments.

Turn your eyes from yourself to those other peolple. Concentrate on them until they become alive to you. People have never really become alive to you. You have never been really interested in them as INDIVIDUALS, with problems and personalities of their own. You have been interested in them ONLY AS THEY AFFECTED YOUR LIFE.

See them now for THEMSELVES and they'll see you for YOURSELF. Be interested in them and they'll be interested in you. AND IN THE HAPPINESS OF THIS ADVENTURE YOU'LL FORGET YOUR OLD BITTERNESS AND BEWILDERMENT.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

From Her Eyes

Just sometimes, when she talks to me
Across the firelit room,
As flames leap up so I can see
Her fair face framed in gloom.
Although her voice sounds calm and wise,
A laughing child looks from her eyes.

Her words may be of worldly things,
Her manner poised, sedate,
Yet sometimes, swift as flash of wings,
The child looks out, elate;
In spite of adult frets and cares,
Such elfin merriment it shares!

She, too, has seen brave hopes depart,
Has known dawns dark as night,
Yet ever, deep within her heart,
There dwells this joyous sprite,
This child, whom sometimes I surprise
Looking with laughter from her eyes.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Is there much discussion and considerable dissension in your home because you and your life partner are not keen for the same kind of amusements?

You won't try to please your husband or your wife in choosing your lines of entertainment.

Perhaps there is unwillingness on the other side, as well.

You are fussed and irritable all out of proportion to the matter if it happens that your plans are interfered with, in the amusement line.

You can be very amiable and courteous if your desires are unopposed.

But you grow angry and arrogant when your own program is disarranged.

Too many demands and too few concessions in your home.

Quarrels threaten.

Stop and consider who is to blame for this bickering about things which should give only the greatest recreation and pleasure?

The more sane people are, the less friction there is.

The more balanced the mental equipment, the more calm and self-possessed and willing to go fifty-fifty in work and in play.

When the next quarrel threatens consider whether you are not rather more than half to blame for it.

Text for Today If thou hast run with the footmen, and they have wearied thee, then how canst thou contend with horses? and if in the land of peace, wherein thou trustedst, they wearied thee, then how wilt thou do in the swelling of Jordan?—Jeremiah, xii:5.

(The text for today is suggested by the Rev. G. E. Swoyer, pastor, Mt. Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church, North Side.)
